Regulation 11

- (8) After each prescribed day in relation to the manufacturer and the owner of the copyright, the succeeding provisions of this regulation have effect.

- (11) Where the amount to be maintained on deposit under subregulation (9) of this regulation after the expiration of twenty-eight days after a prescribed day is not agreed between the manufacturer and the owner of the copyright, this regulation ceases to apply as between those persons upon the expiration of that period unless the manufacturer sold or supplied records of musical works, being records in respect of which royalties were paid or payable under the Act or the previous Act by him to the owner of the copyright, during at least three of the months of the year included in the period of one year immediately preceding that prescribed day.

Regulation 12

- (12) Where this regulation ceases to apply as between the manufacturer and the owner of the copyright by reason of the last preceding subregulation, the owner of the copyright shall, at the expiration of the period of grace in relation to the accounting period during which this regulation so ceased to apply, when the manufacturer has served a statement referred to in paragraph (a) of subregulation (6) of this regulation in relation to that accounting period, pay to the manufacturer so much of the amount standing to the credit of the account as does not exceed the amount of any royalties payable by the manufacturer to the owner in respect of records sold or supplied by the manufacturer during that accounting period or any previous accounting period and, if the amount is not so paid, the manufacturer may recover the amount in a court of competent jurisdiction from the owner as a debt due to the manufacturer.
- (13) Nothing in the last two preceding subregulations prevents the manufacturer making a further deposit with the owner of the copyright in accordance with subregulation (3) of this regulation if this regulation again applies as between those persons.

Copyright owners are entitled to take legal action against persons who infringe their copyright. Unless otherwise permitted by the Copyright Act 1968 (the Act), unauthorised use of audio-visual items in which copyright subsists may infringe copyright in that item.

It is not an infringement of copyright in an audio-visual item to use that item in a manner that is a fair dealing under section 103C of the Act.

Section 103C of the Act relates to fair dealing for the purpose of research or study and sets out the matters that must be considered in determining whether a reproduction of an audio-visual item is a fair dealing.

A court may impose penalties and award damages in relation to offences and infringements relating to copyright material.

Higher penalties may apply, and higher damages may be awarded, for offences and infringements involving the conversion of material into digital or electronic form.
