§ 2. Legislation providing for patent protection

Patent protection is provided for by this Act, other Acts and regulations issued by the Government of the Republic or Ministers on the basis of and for the implementation of such Acts.

§ 3. Equality of rights and obligations of natural and legal persons of the Republic of Estonia and of foreign states

The rights and obligations prescribed in this Act apply equally to natural and legal persons of the Republic of Estonia and of foreign states (hereinafter persons) unless the legislation of the Republic of Estonia or international agreements ratified by the Riigikogu provide otherwise.

Chapter II

PATENT PROTECTION AND PATENTABILITY

§ 5. Patent protection

(1) Inventions of any field of technology may be protected by a patent if the invention complies with the criteria of patentability provided for in § 8 of this Act and is not considered to be unpatentable pursuant to the provisions of § 7.

(2) An invention is granted patent protection upon registration of the invention in the register of patents. The registration of an invention in the register of patents is deemed to be the grant of a patent.

(3) Medicinal products and plant protection products which contain an active substance protected by a patent may be granted supplementary legal protection (hereinafter supplementary protection) under the conditions and pursuant to the procedure provided for in Chapter VIII¹ of this Act.

[RT I 2004, 20, 141 – entry into force 01.05.2004]

§ 6. Subject of invention

(1) The subject of an invention may be a device, process, material, including biological material, or a combination thereof.

(2) The following, inter alia, are not regarded as the subject of inventions:

1) discoveries, including descriptions of the formation or development of the human body or sequence or partial sequence of human gene, scientific theories and mathematical methods;

2) schemes, rules and methods for performing mental acts or doing business;

3) design documentation for and plans of constructions, buildings or areas;

4) symbols;

5) algorithms for computers and computer programs;

§ 7. Unpatentable inventions

(1) The following shall not be protected by a patent:

1) inventions which are contrary to public order and morality;

2) methods of treatment and diagnostic methods practised for treatment or diagnosis of diseases of humans or animals;

3) [Repealed – RT I 2003, 18, 106 – entry into force 01.04.2003]

§ 7¹. Classification of inventions

Inventions are classified according to the international patent classification adopted under the Strasbourg Agreement Concerning the International Patent Classification (RT II 1996, 4, 15).

§ 8. Criteria of patentability

(1) An invention is patentable if it is new, involves an inventive step and is susceptible to industrial application.

(2) An invention is considered to be new if it does not form part of the state of the art. The state of the art is held to comprise all the technical information made available to the public by means of written or oral description, by use, or in any other way, in any part of the world before the filing date of a patent application or before the date of priority if priority is claimed. In determining novelty, the contents of patent applications and the contents of registration applications of utility models which were filed with the Patent Office earlier pursuant to the Utility Models Act shall also be taken into consideration according to their filing dates or, if priority is claimed, dates of priority provided that the patent applications are published or deemed to be published pursuant to § 24 of this Act and registration applications of utility models are published pursuant to § 33 of the Utility Models Act.

[RT I 2009, 4, 24 – entry into force 01.03.2009]

(3) In determining the state of the art, any information disclosing the subject matter of an invention is not taken into consideration, provided that a corresponding request is submitted, if such information is disclosed by a person who is entitled to the patent pursuant to § 12 of this Act or another person with the knowledge of the said person within twelve months before the filing date of the first patent application or registration application of a utility model containing the invention in the Republic of Estonia or abroad. The request shall be filed together with the patent application or not later than two months before the publication of the patent application pursuant to § 24. If another person acquired the information unlawfully or the information was published unlawfully or without the knowledge of the person who has the right to apply for the patent, the request may be filed in the course of examination of the patent application or in case the patent is contested. Evidence supporting the request shall be appended to the request.

[RT I, 29.11.2011, 1 – entry into force 01.01.2012]

(4) An invention is considered as involving an inventive step if, having regard to the state of the art, it is not obvious to a person skilled in the art.

(5) An invention is considered as susceptible to industrial application if it can be manufactured or used in economy.

§ 9. Unity of invention

(1) Patent protection for only one invention or a group of inventions so linked as to form a single general inventive concept can be applied for in a patent application.

(2) If a patent application contains several inventions, the applicant may separate the inventions from the patent application during the processing of the patent application and file separate patent applications pursuant to §§ 19 and 20 of this Act. The filing date of the initial patent application shall be deemed to be the filing date of any separate patent applications filed for separated inventions (hereinafter separated patent application) if the invention corresponds to the subject matter of the invention as disclosed in the initial patent application. Separated patent applications may be filed for up to six months after termination of the processing of the patent application pursuant to § 28 or completion of the processing of the patent application pursuant to § 31.

(3) If patent claims contain several inventions not forming a single general inventive concept, the applicant shall separate the inventions which violate the requirement for unity from the patent application at the request of the Patent Office within the term set by the Patent Office. Subsection (2) of this section applies to separated inventions.

[RT I 2003, 18, 106 – entry into force 01.04.2003]

§ 10. Scope of patent protection and patent claims

(1) The scope and contents of patent protection shall be determined by the wording of patent claims. The wording of patent claims shall be interpreted based on the level of knowledge of a person skilled in the art at the time of filing the patent application. The description, drawings and other illustrative material shall be used to interpret the wording of patent claims.

(2) Patent claims shall define the subject matter of the invention, for which patent protection is applied, in words in a clear, concise and short manner. In patent claims, the subject matter of an invention shall be presented as a set of essential technical features of the invention. Patent claims consist of one or several claims.

[RT I 2009, 4, 24 – entry into force 01.03.2009]

(3) Patent claims consist of independent and dependent claims. Patent claims shall not contain more than one independent claim with regard to one invention, unless:

- 1) the invention consists of several products grouped together, or
- 2) the device or product is used for various purposes, or
- 3) such alternative solutions to the technical problem exist as not to allow the subject-matter of the invention to be covered by a single claim.

(4) Where the derogations referred to in subsection (3) of this section apply, the requirement for unity of invention must be met.

(5) The abstract of the subject matter of an invention has no legal effect upon disclosing the subject matter of the invention or determining the scope of patent protection. The abstract shall merely serve for use upon disclosing technical information concerning the invention.

[RT I 2003, 18, 106 – entry into force 01.04.2003]

§ 11. Priority

[RT I 2003, 18, 106 – entry into force 01.04.2003]

(1) Priority is the preferential right of the person who is the first to file a patent application or registration application of a utility model or the legal successor of such person to apply for patent protection for an invention. The filing date of the first patent application or registration application of a utility model is considered to be the date of priority.

(2) If a patent application is filed with the Patent Office within twelve months from the filing date of the first patent application or registration application of a utility model and priority is claimed, priority shall be established:

[RT I, 29.11.2011, 1 – entry into force 01.01.2012]

1) on the basis of the filing date of the first patent application or registration application of a utility model in any contracting member country to the Paris Convention of the Protection of Industrial Property (RT II 1994, 4/5, 19) or member state of the World Trade Organisation;

2) on the basis of the filing date of the first patent application or registration application of a utility model in a state which is not a contracting member country to the Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property or in a state which is not a member of the World Trade Organisation if such state guarantees equivalent conditions for first patent applications and registration applications of utility models filed in the Republic of Estonia.

(3) Priority for a patent application filed on the basis of corrections and supplements to an earlier patent application which alter the subject matter of the invention shall be established, if priority is claimed, based on the filing date of such corrections and supplements with the Patent Office.

[RT I, 29.11.2011, 1 – entry into force 01.01.2012]

(4) Priority for a patent application which is separated from an earlier patent application pursuant to subsection 9 (2) or (3) of this Act shall be established, if priority is claimed, on the basis of the date of priority of the earlier patent application.

[RT I, 29.11.2011, 1 – entry into force 01.01.2012]

(5) [Repealed – RT I, 29.11.2011, 1 – entry into force 01.01.2012]

(6) If priority is claimed, priority shall be established on the basis of the filing dates of several patent applications or registration applications of utility models filed earlier. In the case of several patent applications or registration applications of utility models filed earlier, the twelve-month term specified in subsection (2) of this section shall be calculated from the earliest date of priority.

[RT I, 29.11.2011, 1 – entry into force 01.01.2012]

(6¹) If priority is claimed, priority for a patent application filed with the Patent Office after expiry of the twelve-month term specified in subsection (2) of this section shall be established on the basis of the filing date of a first patent application or registration application of a utility model pursuant to subsection (2) of this section if:

1) the reasons for the failure to comply with the aforesaid term are appended to the priority claim;

2) the reasons stated pursuant to clause 1) of this subsection prove that the failure to file the application within the term was unintentional;

3) the patent application was filed within two months from the date on which the aforesaid term expired.

[RT I, 29.11.2011, 1 – entry into force 01.01.2012]

(7) [Repealed - RT I 2003, 18, 106 – entry into force 01.04.2003]

(3) In the case of an invention containing genetic information, the exclusive right of the proprietor of the patent shall extend to all biological material in which the invention is incorporated and which performs its function according to the said genetic information, except the human body and parts thereof.

§ 16. Acts which do not constitute infringement of exclusive right of proprietor of patent

The following acts do not constitute infringement of the exclusive right of the proprietor of a patent:

1) the use of the patented invention on board of ships of other states (within the hull, machinery, rigging, radio-navigation equipment or other equipment) if such ships are temporarily or accidentally in the waters of the Republic of Estonia and the invention is used solely for the purposes of the ship;

6) the use, distribution, sale or offer for sale in the Republic of Estonia of the patented invention by the proprietor of the patent or with the proprietor's consent;

7) the propagation or multiplication of biological material placed on the market by the proprietor of the patent or with the proprietor's consent, where the multiplication or propagation necessarily results from the application for which the biological material was marketed, provided that the biological material obtained is not subsequently used for other propagation or multiplication.

§ 17. Right of prior use

(1) A person who, prior to the filing of a patent application for an invention by another person, has, in good faith and independently of the applicant, used the same invention for industrial application in the Republic of Estonia, may continue to use the invention retaining the same general nature of application. Use is in good faith unless the user knew or should have known that the filing of a patent application for the invention was intended.

(2) The right of prior use also belongs to a person who has, in good faith, made serious preparations for the industrial application of an invention in the Republic of Estonia.

(3) The right of prior use can only be transferred to another person together with the enterprise with regard to which the right of prior use is established or in which it was intended to be used.

§ 17¹. Exhaustion of rights

The proprietor of a patent has no right to prohibit acquisition (including importation), use, distribution, sale or offer for sale of a product containing the patented invention if the product has been put on the market in the territory of the Republic of Estonia or a contracting party to the Agreement on the European Economic Area by the proprietor of the patent or with the proprietor's consent.

(2) Other persons who commence or continue to use an invention after the publication of a patent application prescribed in § 24 of this Act are deemed, after the publication date of the notice of grant of the patent, to infringe the exclusive right of the proprietor of the patent unless such persons have the right of prior use pursuant to § 17 of this Act.

(3) Other persons who commence to use an invention during the period between the filing date of the patent application and the publication date of the patent application are not deemed to infringe the exclusive right of the proprietor of the patent unless the person knew or should have known that a patent application was filed with regard to the invention or the applicant notified the person in writing of the filing of the patent application before the publication of the patent application by the Patent Office. Other persons whom an applicant notifies of the filing of the patent application are deemed, after the publication date of the notice of grant of the patent, to infringe the exclusive right of the proprietor of the patent as of the date of receipt of the notice concerning the filing of the patent application unless such persons have the right of prior use pursuant to § 17 of this Act.

(4) The scope of provisional protection shall be determined by the terms of patent claims included in a published patent application. After the grant of a patent, the scope of provisional protection shall be specified according to the patent claims of the patent granted.

§ 18¹. Compensation for classified inventions relating to national defence

(1) In the case of an invention relating to national defence classified on the initiative of the Minister of Defence, the proprietor of the patent and the author have the right to receive, during the period when the invention is classified, compensation for the restriction on the use of the invention due to classification. The author does not have the right to receive the aforesaid compensation if he or she has transferred this right.

(2) The payment and the amount of the compensation shall be decided by the Minister of Defence, taking into account, inter alia:

1) the estimated service life of the invention when classified;

2) the commercial profit which the author or the proprietor of the patent would presumably gain from the use of the invention if the invention was not classified.

(3) Compensation may be paid as a lump sum payment or in instalments.

(4) The specific conditions and procedure for the payment of compensation may be established by a regulation of the Minister of Defence.

(5) The author or the proprietor of the patent has no right to receive the compensation specified in subsections (1) – (4) of this section if the author or the proprietor of the patent has agreed separately with the Ministry of the Defence on his or her remuneration for the use of the classified invention for national defence purposes.

(6) Disputes over the amount of compensation and remuneration shall be settled by Harju County Court.
