LJ 5 Calculation of New Zealand tax

What this section does

- (1) This section provides the rules that a person must use to calculate the amount of New Zealand tax for an income year in relation to each segment of foreign-sourced income of the person that is allocated to the income year.

Calculation for single segment

- (2) If the person has a notional income tax liability of more than zero, the amount of New Zealand tax for the income year relating to the allocated segment is calculated using the following formula, the result of which can not be less than zero:

$$\frac{(\text{segment} - \text{person's deductions})}{\text{person's net income}} \times \text{notional liability.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula in subsection (2),—
- (a) segment is the amount of the segment of foreign-sourced income for the income year:
- (b) person's deductions is the amount of the person's deduction for the tax year corresponding to the income year that is attributable to the segment of foreign-sourced income:

- (d) notional liability is the person's notional income tax liability for the income year under subsection (5).

When subsection (4B) applies

- (4) Subsection (4B) applies for the income year when the total amount of New Zealand tax for all segments of foreign-sourced income of the person calculated under subsection (2) is more than the notional income tax liability.

Modification to results of formula for single segment

- (4B) Each amount of New Zealand tax calculated under subsection (2) in relation to each segment of foreign-sourced income is adjusted by multiplying the amount by the following ratio:

$$\frac{\text{person's notional income tax liability}}{\text{NZ tax.}}$$

Definition of item in formula

- (4C) In the formula in subsection (4B), NZ tax is the amount given by adding together the result of the calculation under subsection (2), for each segment of assessable income from all sources, including assessable income sourced in New Zealand.

Person's notional income tax liability

- (5) For the purposes of this section, a person's notional income tax liability for a tax year is calculated using the formula—
 $(\text{person's net income} - \text{losses}) \times \text{tax rate.}$

Definition of items in formula

- (6) In the formula in subsection (5),—
  - (a) person's net income is the person's net income for the tax year:
  - (b) losses—
    - (i) is the amount of the loss balance carried forward to the tax year that the person must subtract from their net income under section IA 4(1)(a) (Using loss balances carried forward to tax year):
    - (ii) must be no more than the amount of the person's net income:

- (c) tax rate is the basic rate of income tax set out in schedule 1, part A (Basic tax rates: income tax, ESCT, RSCT, RWT, and attributed fringe benefits).

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for an income year when—
- (a) either—
    - (i) a mineral miner incurs an amount of mining rehabilitation expenditure in relation to a mining permit area; or
    - (ii) a mineral miner derives an amount under section CU 2 (Treatment of mining land) from the disposal of land or an interest in land in a mining permit area, and the amount the mineral miner derives from the disposal is less than the consideration that the mineral miner paid to acquire the land or interest in land; or
    - (iii) a mineral miner incurs an amount of mining development expenditure in relation to a mining

- permit area for which the mining permit has been relinquished, has expired, has been revoked or surrendered, as those terms are used in the Crown Minerals Act 1991, and the miner has no existing privilege for the permit area; and
- (b) the mineral miner has a net mining loss for the mining permit area for the income year that is greater than the net income of the mineral miner for the income year from all other sources (the difference being the excess amount), calculated as follows:
- (i) the mineral miner's net mining loss is treated as if their only income were income derived from the mining permit area;
  - (ii) the net income of the mineral miner from other sources is treated as if there were no income from the mining permit area.

Tax credit

- (2) The mineral miner has a tax credit for the tax year corresponding to the income year for an amount calculated using the formula—

$$\text{expenditure or loss} \times \text{tax rate.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula,—
- (a) expenditure or loss is the excess amount referred to in subsection (1)(b) to the extent to which it consists of the amounts referred to in subsection (1)(a)(i) to (iii);

- (a) the result of the formula; and
  - (b) the amount of income tax paid by the mineral miner on net mining income derived for all earlier tax years to the extent to which it relates to the mining permit area, calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated.

Treatment of trustees

- (5) For the purposes of subsection (4), if the mineral miner is a trustee of a trust, the amount of tax paid for each earlier tax year is determined—

  - (b) secondly, by reference to the amount of tax paid on trustee income; and
  - (c) calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated.

Treatment of individuals

- (6) For the purposes of subsection (4), if the mineral miner is an individual, the amount of tax paid for earlier tax years is calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated, as if their only income were income derived from the mining permit area.

Calculated on a year-by-year basis

- (7) In subsections (4)(b), (5)(c) and (6), a reference to a calculation on a year-by-year basis refers to a calculation starting with the immediately preceding tax year and working backwards to earlier tax years until the amount of tax paid is equal to or more than the amount referred to in subsection (4)(a).

Treatment of tax loss

- (8) To the extent to which the mineral miner has a tax credit under this section, the amount of the net mining loss giving rise to the credit does not form part of either a tax loss component or a net mining loss for the mineral miner.

Nature of tax credit

- (9) The tax credit is available for use under section LA 6(2) (Remaining refundable credits: PAYE, RWT, and certain other items).

Relationship with other sections

OP 6 Provisions applying to consolidated imputation groups

Single company, tax liabilities

- (1) The provisions listed in subsection (2) apply, modified as necessary, to a consolidated imputation group and to the imputation credit account of the group as if—
  - (a) the group were a single company; and

- (b) a reference to a company's liability for further income tax, late payment penalty, or imputation penalty tax were a reference to a joint and several liability owed by group companies when the tax or penalty becomes payable.

Other provisions

- (2) The provisions are—
  - (a) section OB 61 (ICA benchmark dividend rules); and
  - (ab) sections OB 65 and OB 66 (which relate to further income tax); and
  - (ac) sections OB 71 and OB 72 (which relate to imputation additional tax); and
  - (b) sections 97, 101, 139B, 140B, 140D, and 180 of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Consolidation provisions

- (3) Sections FM 4 and FM 5 (which relate to the liabilities of group companies) override subsection (1)(b).

Tax advantage arrangements and determinations

- (4) Sections GB 35 and GB 36 (which relate to tax advantage arrangements), LE 1(5) (Tax credits for imputation credits), OA 2(5) (Memorandum accounts), and sections 90AF and 104B of the Tax Administration Act 1994 apply, modified as necessary, in a case that involves accounts of a consolidated imputation group as if—
  - (a) the group were a single company; and
  - (b) references to the provisions of this Act or the Tax Administration Act 1994 were references to the equivalent provisions applicable to the equivalent accounts.

Refunds for overpaid amounts

- (5) Sections RM 13 to RM 17, RM 32, and RZ 6 (which relate to limits on refunds) apply, modified as necessary, in relation to income tax paid by a consolidated imputation group as if—
  - (a) the group were a single company; and
  - (b) a reference to that company when it stops being an ICA company were a reference to the consolidated group when it stops being a consolidated imputation group; and

- (c) references to the provisions of this Act or the Tax Administration Act 1994 were references to the equivalent provisions applicable to the equivalent accounts.

Limits on refunds

- (6) Despite subsection (5), sections RM 13 to RM 17, RM 32, and RZ 6 do not apply to limit a refund payable to a company that is part of a consolidated imputation group in relation to income tax paid individually by the company to the extent to which those sections would not have limited the refund if it had been a refund payable to the group in relation to income tax paid by the group. However, if an amount is refunded and would not have been payable but for this subsection, section RM 15(1) (Changes in credit balances) applies as if the refund were made in relation to income tax paid by the group.

Applying for refunds

- (7) If a company that is part of an imputation group is entitled to a refund under section RM 2, RM 4, or RM 5 (which relate to refunds for overpaid income tax), the company must apply for a refund by notifying the Commissioner. Sections RM 13 to RM 17, RM 32, and RZ 6 apply to the entitlement as if—
  - (a) the imputation credit account of the group were the imputation credit account of the company:
  - (b) a credit in the imputation credit account for the purposes of those sections were reduced by the amount of a refund to a company that is part of the group.

Method 2

- (4) Method 2 requires the trust or fund to make a calculation for the notional winding up of the trust or fund by taking the following steps:

  - (a) non-taxable gains and losses, including exempt income; and

RC 6 Standard method

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies to a person liable to pay provisional tax for the purposes of section RC 5(2) and (3) and the calculation of the amount of provisional tax payable for a tax year under the standard method.

Assessment for preceding tax year

- (2) The person's residual income tax for a tax year is based on their assessment for the preceding tax year unless the Commissioner has sent out a notice of assessment for the tax year at least 30 days before the relevant instalment date, in which case the amount of residual income tax is based on the Commissioner's assessment for the preceding tax year.

Commissioner's assessment for preceding tax year

- (3) The person's residual income tax is based on the Commissioner's assessment for the preceding tax year, whenever the assessment is made, if—
  - (a) they are required under sections 33 and 37 of the Tax Administration Act 1994 to provide a return of income for the preceding tax year but have failed to do so by the relevant instalment date; or
  - (b) they are not required under sections 33 and 37 of that Act to provide a return by the relevant instalment date, and subsections (2) and (4) do not apply.

Residual income tax for preceding tax year

- (4) The amount of provisional tax payable for a tax year is the amount of the person's residual income tax for the preceding tax year if—
- (a) they are not required to provide a return of income for the preceding tax year; or
  - (b) their residual income tax for the tax year before the preceding tax year was $2,500 or less, and they were not required to provide, and have not provided, a return of income for the tax year by the date of instalment F for the corresponding income year.

Later increased assessment

- (5) If the Commissioner's assessment of a person's income tax liability occurs after the payment date for an instalment of provisional tax and would result in an increase in the person's residual income tax for the preceding tax year, the residual income tax is treated for the purposes of the provisional tax rules as if it had not been increased.

Transitional years and consolidated groups

- (6) A person's residual income tax in a transitional year is calculated under section RC 20. For consolidated groups, the calculation is made under section RC 29.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessment, Commissioner, consolidated group, corresponding income year, income tax liability, instalment date, notice, pay, provisional tax, provisional tax rules, residual income tax, return of income, tax year, transitional year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s MB 5

RC 7 Estimation method

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies to a person who is liable to pay provisional tax under section RC 5(5) and to the calculation of the amount of their provisional tax payable for a tax year under the estimation method.

Fair and reasonable estimate

- (2) On or before an instalment date, the person may make a fair and reasonable estimate of their residual income tax for the tax year by informing the Commissioner of the estimate. The amount of provisional tax payable for a tax year is the amount of the estimated residual income tax.

Revising estimates

- (3) The person may choose to revise an estimate made under subsection (2) before an instalment date. The amount last estimated is the amount taken into account under section RC 5(5).

Reasonable care in making and maintaining assessment

- (4) A person who makes an estimate under subsection (2) must take reasonable care in making it, and must revise the estimate for the tax year if, at some time in the tax year, the amount estimated is no longer fair and reasonable.

Estimation higher than provisional tax payable

- (5) If a person's estimate is more than the provisional tax that is payable for the tax year, they are treated as having taken reasonable care in making the estimate.

Changing calculation method from GST ratio

- (6) If, under section RC 18(5), a person changes the way they determine the amount of provisional tax after the date of an instalment, they must estimate their residual income tax for their corresponding income year, and must pay provisional tax on whichever of the following instalment dates for the income year occur after 30 days from their last ratio instalment date:
- (a) C and F for changes to a 6-monthly GST taxable period:
  - (b) B, D, and F for other changes.

Disaster relief

RC 8 GST ratio method

Using GST ratio

- (1) A person liable to pay provisional tax who meets the requirements of section RC 16 and is not excluded by section RC 17 may choose to use a GST ratio to determine the amount of provisional tax payable for a tax year.

Meaning of GST ratio

- (2) The person's GST ratio is the percentage figure that is obtained by dividing their residual income tax for the preceding tax year by their total taxable supplies for the corresponding income year. The amount of residual income tax and the amount of total taxable supplies are called base amounts for the purposes of this section.

When amounts based on tax year before preceding tax year

- (3) If a base amount for the preceding tax year or corresponding income year is not known, the GST ratio is the percentage based on the assessment for the tax year and corresponding income year that are just before the preceding tax year and corresponding income year.

When no assessment for tax year before preceding tax year

- (3B) Subsection (3) does not apply and the GST ratio is the percentage based on the assessments of the base amounts for the year that is 2 years before the preceding tax year if—
  - (a) for the year before the preceding tax year—
    - (i) an assessment of a base amount has not been made and the absence of an assessment arises because of an extension of time for filing a return for the year, or a period in the year;
    - (ii) an assessment of a base amount is the subject of a dispute or challenge under the Tax Administration Act 1994;
    - (iii) the year is a transitional year; and

- (b) for the year that is 2 years before the preceding tax year—
  - (i) the base amounts have been assessed; and
  - (ii) the circumstances in paragraph (a)(ii) and (iii) do not exist.

Commissioner's calculation

- (4) The Commissioner must calculate a person's GST ratio, informing them by—
  - (a) including the percentage figure on the person's preprinted GST return form; or
  - (b) advising them in writing or by telephone; or
  - (c) some other means.

Adjustment to GST ratio

- (5) The Commissioner must adjust a person's GST ratio if a base amount is revised through, among other reasons,—
  - (a) an assessment or an amended assessment of the person's income tax return for the preceding tax year; or
  - (b) a change in the value of the total taxable supplies for the corresponding income year; or
  - (c) the disposal of an asset to which section RC 19 applies.

New GST ratio

- (6) When subsection (5) applies, the Commissioner must inform the person of the new GST ratio. The new ratio applies in relation to the relevant instalment dates that occur 30 days after the date on which the person is informed.

Transitional years

- (7) If a person has paid instalments of provisional tax in a transitional year, for the tax year that follows the transitional year, for the purposes of this section and section RC 11, they must—
  - (a) ignore the transitional year when determining their residual income tax or total taxable supplies; and
  - (b) base their determination of residual income tax and total taxable supplies on the tax year preceding the transitional year.

When no assessment for tax year before preceding tax year

- (7B) Subsection (7) does not apply and the GST ratio is the percentage based on the assessments of the base amounts for the year that is 2 years before the transitional year if—

- (a) for the year before the transitional year—
  - (i) an assessment of a base amount has not been made and the absence of an assessment arises because of an extension of time for filing a return for the year, or a period in the year:
  - (ii) an assessment of a base amount is the subject of a dispute or challenge under the Tax Administration Act 1994:
  - (iii) the year is a transitional year; and
- (b) for the year that is 2 years before the transitional year—
  - (i) the base amounts have been assessed; and
  - (ii) the circumstances in paragraph (a)(ii) and (iii) do not exist.

Total taxable supplies

- (8) In subsections (2), (5), and (7), and in sections RC 11, RC 19, and RC 31, total taxable supplies, for a person and a period, means the amount that is the total value of taxable supplies by the person for the period. The amount includes the GST charged on the supplies.

Modification

- (9) Sections RZ 4 (GST ratio method: 2010–11 to 2013–14 income years) and RZ 5D (Standard method or GST method: transition for Maori authorities) modify this section.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessment, base amount, Commissioner, corresponding income year, GST, GST ratio, income tax, instalment date, pay, provisional tax, residual income tax, return, tax year, taxable supply, total taxable supplies, transitional year

Instalments of provisional tax

RC 9 Provisional tax payable in instalments

Who this section applies to

- (1) This section applies to a person who is liable to pay provisional tax.

General principle

- (2) For a person liable to pay provisional tax using the standard and estimation methods, the amount of the provisional tax liability must be spread evenly over the applicable number of instalments, so that equal amounts are paid on each instalment date. If the full amount is not divisible into exactly equal instalments, the final instalment carries the difference.

Provisional tax payable in 3 instalments

- (3) A person pays provisional tax in 3 instalments on the interest instalment dates for the tax year in the months set out in schedule 3, part A, columns B, D, and F (Payment of provisional tax and terminal tax) for the person's corresponding income year. The amount of each instalment is calculated under section RC 10. Subsection (4) overrides this subsection.

Exclusions

- (4) Subsection (3) does not apply—
- (a) to a person liable to pay provisional tax who—
    - (i) pays GST on a 6-monthly basis; or
    - (ii) uses a GST ratio to determine the amount of provisional tax payable, or who changes their calculation method under section RC 18(5); or
    - (iii) changes the cycle of their taxable periods under section 15C of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985;
  - (b) to a person with an initial provisional tax liability who—
    - (i) pays GST on a 6-monthly basis; or
    - (ii) pays GST on a monthly or 2-monthly basis, and starts a taxable activity within 30 days before the date of instalment B in their corresponding income year:

- (c) to a person liable to pay provisional tax who has not provided a return of income for the preceding tax year, and whose residual income tax for the tax year before the preceding tax year was $2,500 or less:
- (d) in a transitional year.

Provisional tax when GST paid on 6-monthly basis

- (5) A person liable to pay provisional tax who pays GST on a 6-monthly basis must pay provisional tax on the 2 instalment dates for the tax year in the months set out in schedule 3, part A, columns C and F for their corresponding income year. This subsection applies to a person with an initial provisional tax liability other than 1 who pays GST on a 6-monthly basis and starts a taxable activity within 30 days before the date of instalment C.

Provisional tax determined using GST ratio

- (6) A person liable to pay provisional tax who uses a GST ratio to determine the amount of provisional tax payable for a tax year, must pay provisional tax on the 6 ratio instalment dates in the months set out in schedule 3, part A, columns A to F for their corresponding income year. The amount of each instalment is calculated under section RC 11.

Changing calculation method

- (7) A person who is unable or who decides not to use a GST ratio, changing their calculation method under section RC 18, must pay the provisional tax payable for the tax year on the relevant instalment dates under the replacement method. The amount of each instalment is calculated under section RC 10.

Changing cycle of taxable periods

- (8) A person who changes the cycle of their taxable periods under section 15C of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985 must pay provisional tax for the tax year on the instalment dates set out in section RC 27 after the change in taxable period takes effect. The amount of each instalment is calculated under section RC 10.

Persons with initial provisional tax liability

- (9) A person with a new provisional tax liability who starts a taxable activity in a tax year is liable to pay interest calculated under section 120KC of the Tax Administration Act 1994 as if they were liable to pay provisional tax for the tax year—
- (a) in 3 instalments under subsection (3) if they start a taxable activity at some time in the period that starts at the beginning of the corresponding income year and ends 30 days before the date of instalment B:
  - (b) in 2 instalments—
    - (i) in a case to which section RC 13 applies; or
    - (ii) if they pay GST on a 6-monthly basis and start a taxable activity at some time in the period that starts at the beginning of the corresponding income year and ends 30 days before the date of instalment C:
  - (c) in 1 instalment in a case to which section RC 14 applies.

Extension of time for return

- (10) A person who has not provided a return of income for a preceding tax year and whose residual income tax for the tax year before the preceding tax year was $2,500 or less must pay provisional tax for the tax year on the instalment dates set out in section RC 13 or RC 14, as applicable.

Transitional years

- (11) In a transitional year, provisional tax is payable as set out in section RC 21 and schedule 3, part B. The amount of each instalment is calculated under sections RC 22 to RC 24.

Voluntary payments

- (12) A person liable to pay provisional tax may pay an instalment under section RC 12 at any time.

Defined in this Act: amount, corresponding income year, final instalment, GST, GST ratio, initial provisional tax liability, instalment date, interest instalment date, pay, provisional tax, ratio instalment date, residual income tax, return of income, tax year, taxable activity, taxable period, transitional year

RC 10 Calculating amount of instalment under standard and estimation methods

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for the purposes of—
- (a) section RC 5(2), (3), and (5) (which relates to the calculation of a provisional tax liability); and
  - (b) section RC 9(3) and (5) (which relates to payment of instalments); and
  - (c) sections RC 13 and RC 14 (which relate to persons with an initial provisional tax liability and those with an extension of time for providing a return); and
  - (d) sections RC 26 and RC 27 (which relate to changes in taxable periods).

Calculation

- (2) The amount of an instalment of provisional tax is calculated using the formula—

$$\frac{\text{residual income tax} \times \text{instalment number}}{\text{total instalments}} - \text{provisional tax.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula,—
- (a) residual income tax is a person's residual income tax, as applicable—
    - (i) for the preceding tax year, uplifted by 5% (modified as applicable by sections RZ 5 (Calculating amounts under standard method: 2010–11 to 2012–13 income years) and RZ 5D (Standard method or GST method: transition for Maori authorities)); or
    - (ii) for the tax year before the preceding tax year, uplifted by 10% (modified as applicable by sections RZ 5 and RZ 5D); or
    - (iii) the amount estimated by them:
  - (b) instalment number is the number of the instalment for the tax year, whether first, second, or third:
  - (c) total instalments is the total number of instalments for the tax year:

- (d) provisional tax is the amount of a person's provisional tax liabilities for the tax year to date.

Instalment amounts after change in balance date or taxable period

- (4) If a change occurs to the balance date or cycle of a person's taxable periods, the calculation of the amount of an instalment is made under this section, applying the updated figures to the items in the formula.

RD 23 Bonds given by employers of certain non-resident employees

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies if it cannot reasonably be determined at the time an employer or PAYE intermediary is required to withhold the amount of tax for a PAYE income payment whether the payment will be exempt income of an em-employee under either section CW 19 (Amounts derived during short-term visits) or a double tax agreement.

Providing bond

- (2) The employer or PAYE intermediary may apply to the Commissioner to be released from their obligation to withhold the amount by providing a bond or other security for the amount that would be required to be withheld but for this section.

Consequences of acceptance of bond

- (3) If the Commissioner accepts the bond or security referred to in subsection (2),—
- (a) the employer or PAYE intermediary must not withhold the amount of tax for a PAYE income payment to the employee; and
  - (b) information concerning the employee must not be included in an employer monthly schedule; and
  - (c) the no notification rate referred to in section 24B(3)(h) of the Tax Administration Act 1994 must not be used in relation to the PAYE income payment.

When subsection (3) no longer applies

- (4) If the employee later becomes liable to pay income tax because of an event provided for in an arrangement made under section BH 1 (Double tax agreements) or CW 19, the application of subsection (3) ends, and the employer or PAYE intermediary must withhold the amount of tax for a PAYE income payment made to the employee.

Employee's liability

- (5) If the Commissioner considers that the employee is liable for income tax in relation to a PAYE income payment from which no amount of tax is withheld because of the application of subsection (3), the Commissioner must notify the employer or PAYE intermediary, as applicable. The employer or intermediary must then account for and pay the total amount of tax for all PAYE income payments that would have been due, or a lesser amount as the Commissioner determines.

Treatment of amount paid under subsection (5)

- (6) An amount paid to the Commissioner under subsection (5) is treated as the amount of tax for a PAYE income payment made on the date of the Commissioner's notice. Section 120U of the Tax Administration Act 1994 overrides this subsection.

Defined in this Act: amount, amount of tax, arrangement, Commissioner, double tax agreement, employee, employer, employer monthly schedule, exempt income, income tax, notify, pay, PAYE income payment, PAYE intermediary

Exemption certificate

- (2) The non-resident contractor may apply to the Commissioner to provide them with an exemption certificate under section 24M of the Tax Administration Act 1994 for a contract payment made to them or another person acting on their behalf in relation to a contract activity or service set out in the certificate for which no amount of tax is to be withheld.

Choosing method in first return

- (2) When a person first files a return relating to a vehicle for the purposes of this section, they may calculate the value of the benefit using either of the valuation methods set out in schedule 5 (Fringe benefit values for motor vehicles).

Using method in first return

- (3) The person must use the method chosen in the first return referred to in subsection (2) in calculating the value of the benefit for the length of time—
- (a) starting after the end of the period of the first return; and
  - (b) continuing to the earliest of the following dates:
    - (i) the date of the disposal of the vehicle;
    - (ii) the date on which the vehicle ceases to be leased by the employer or an associated person without a consecutive or successive lease of the vehicle by them;
    - (iii) the date that is 5 years after start of the period of the first return.

Returns after 5 years

- (4) In a return relating to the vehicle for a period beginning 5 years or more after the start of the period of the first return, the person may calculate the value of the benefit using either of the valuation methods set out in schedule 5.

Cost price valuation method

- (5) Despite subsections (3) and (4), the person must apply schedule 5, clause 1 or 2, using the cost price valuation method if—
- (a) the vehicle is owned, leased, or rented by the employer or an associated person; and

RD 29 Private use of motor vehicle: formulas

What this section does

- (1) This section sets out the formulas for calculating the value of the benefit that an employer provides to an employee by making a motor vehicle available for their private use.

Quarterly payment

- (2) If FBT is paid quarterly, the value of the benefit is calculated using the formula—

$$\frac{\text{days} \times \text{schedule 5 amount}}{90}.$$

Annual payment

- (3) If FBT is paid on an annual basis, the value of the benefit is the total of the amounts calculated under subsection (2) for the 4 quarters in the applicable tax year.

Payment by income year

- (4) If FBT is paid on an income year basis, the value of the benefit is calculated using the formula—

$$\frac{\text{days} \times \text{schedule 5 amount}}{365}.$$

Definition of items in formulas

- (5) In the formula,—
- (a) in subsection (2), days refers to the number of days in the quarter on which the vehicle is made available for private use, reduced by the number of days on which the vehicle was a work-related vehicle, or 90, whichever is less:

- (b) in subsection (4), days refers to the number of days in the income year on which the vehicle is made available for private use, reduced by the number of days on which the vehicle was a work-related vehicle:
- (c) in subsections (2) and (4), schedule 5 amount refers to the amount calculated under schedule 5 (Fringe benefit values for motor vehicles) as the value of the benefit that would have been received for unlimited private use of the vehicle in that quarter or income year, as applicable.

Test period

- (6) To calculate the value of the benefit, an employer may choose to use a test period under section RD 31 to establish private use.

Defined in this Act: amount, employee, employer, FBT, income year, motor vehicle, private use, quarter, tax year, work-related vehicle

Compare: 2004 No 35 s ND 1A(2)–(6)

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for the purposes of a calculation of the value of a benefit under section RD 29.

Meaning of day

- (2) In section RD 29(5)(a) and (b), in relation to a motor vehicle and the item days in the formulas, a day is—
  - (a) a 24-hour period starting from a time in a day that a person who owns or leases the vehicle chooses; or
  - (b) a 24-hour period starting at midnight if paragraph (a) does not apply.

Choosing starting point and notifying Commissioner

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2)(a), the person must—
  - (a) choose a starting point for the day that is a whole number of an hour after midnight; and
  - (b) notify the Commissioner of their election when filing the next return relating to the vehicle.

Elections

- (4) An election under subsection (2)(a)—
  - (a) is effective from the start of the quarter, income year, or tax year to which a return relates; and

- (b) applies to all vehicles in relation to which the person files a return.

Hour applying for 2 income years

- (5) If the person chooses under subsection (3)(a) a particular hour in the 24-hour period as the starting point of the day, that hour continues to apply to the use of the vehicle from the start of the relevant quarter, income year, or tax year, as applicable, for a minimum period of 2 income years.

When circumstances change

- (6) An employer may ask the Commissioner to amend the starting point of the 24-hour period, or to treat the election as revoked, if the employer's circumstances have changed in a way that—
- (a) is more than minor; and
- (b) makes the starting point no longer relevant to the employer's business.

Defined in this Act: business, Commissioner, day, employer, income year, motor vehicle, notify, quarter, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s ND 1AB

RD 31 Motor vehicle test period

Recording details for test period

- (1) To establish the value of the benefit provided through a motor vehicle being made available to an employee for their private use, an employer may choose to record the details of the use of the vehicle by the employee for a test period.

Number used in calculations

- (2) The number of days on which a vehicle is available for an employee's private use that is ascertained in the test period is the number used in the calculation in section RD 29(2). For the calculation in section RD 29(4), the relevant number is the number of days ascertained in the test period multiplied by 4.

Quarter or 3 months for test period

- (3) If FBT is paid quarterly or annually, the test period is a quarter. If FBT is paid on an income year basis, the test period is 3 consecutive months of an income year.

Period showing pattern of use

- (4) The employer must—

- (a) choose a test period that shows, or is likely to show, a pattern of use of the motor vehicle by the employee that fairly represents the use of the vehicle by the employee over the whole of the applicable term; and
- (b) keep a record of the test period, including accurate details of the days in the period on which the vehicle is available for the employee's private use.

Work-related vehicles

- (5) In subsection (4), a day on which the vehicle is a work-related vehicle is treated as a day on which the vehicle is not available for private use.

Term of 3 years

- (6) The number of days of availability for private use ascertained in the test period applies for a term of 3 years. The term starts, as applicable, as follows:
  - (a) if FBT is paid quarterly, on the first day of the test period;
  - (b) if FBT is paid on an annual basis, on the first day of the tax year in which the test period occurs;
  - (c) if FBT is paid on an income year basis, on the first day of the income year in which the test period occurs.

Reduction of term

- (7) The term referred to in subsection (6) is reduced if the number of days of actual private use of the motor vehicle is 20%, or more than 20%, higher than the number ascertained in the test period. In this case, the term ends on the last day of the applicable quarter, year, or income year. If the employer chooses to start another test period, the existing term ends just before the start of the new term.

When test period no longer representative

- (8) If the Commissioner considers that the result ascertained in the test period does not, or does no longer, fairly represent the actual private use of the motor vehicle by the employee, the Commissioner may notify the employer that the term will end on a particular date. Following notification, the employer must not use that result again.

Defined in this Act: Commissioner, employee, employer, FBT, income year, motor vehicle, notify, private use, quarter, tax year, work-related vehicle

Compare: 2004 No 35 s ND 1B(1)–(6)

RD 32 Replacement motor vehicles

Defined in this Act: motor vehicle, private use

- (2) Despite section CX 2(2) (Meaning of fringe benefit), if the fringe benefit is provided under an arrangement with a third person, the value of the benefit is determined under subsection (3).

Percentage or actual payment

- (3) If a third person provides the employee with subsidised transport under an arrangement with their employer, the value of the benefit is the greatest of—
- (a) 25% of the highest fare the employer charges the public for the equivalent transport in terms of class, extent, and occasion; and

  - (b) for loans made on or before 31 March 1985, the interest on which is not subject to review, the amount of interest that would have accrued on the loan during the quarter or tax year had the interest been calculated on the daily balance of the loan at the non-concessionary rate of interest for—

Using method for 2 income years

- (3) Having made an election under subsection (1), the employer must use the method for the income year to which the election relates and for the next income year.

Notifying Commissioner of change to method

Market interest

- (5) In this section, market interest means the amount of interest calculated at the interest rate that would apply to a borrower belonging to a group of persons to whom a loan of the kind provided to the employee is offered when the group meets the following requirements:

If a fringe benefit is provided by making available a motor vehicle to an employee for their private use, and the vehicle is owned in part by the employee (or, if section GB 32 (Benefits provided to employee's associates) applies, a person associated with the employee), the taxable value of the fringe benefit is determined under section RD 56 or RD 57.

  - (b) if FBT is paid on an annual basis, 2.5% for each quarter in which the vehicle was part-owned by the employee or the associated person:

$$\frac{10\% \times \text{number of days in period}}{365}.$$

When vehicle owned less than whole year

- (a) when FBT is paid quarterly, by a percentage calculated using the formula—

$$2.5 + (2.5 \times \text{schedule 5 rate}):$$
- (b) when FBT is paid on an annual basis, by a percentage for each quarter in which the vehicle was part-owned by the employee or associated person calculated using the formula—

$$2.5 + (2.5 \times \text{schedule 5 rate}):$$

- (a) the initial parent is a limited attribution company that is treated under section YC 11(3) and (4) as holding ownership interests in another company before the arrangement is entered into; and
  - (b) the ownership of the initial parent is reorganised so that another company (the new parent) is a limited attribution company that is treated under section YC 11(3) and (4) as holding ownership interests in the initial parent after the arrangement is implemented; and

  - (b) holding the ownership interests that the initial parent is treated under section YC 11(3) and (4) as holding:
  - (c) holding all ownership interests in the initial parent.

Effect of subsection (3)

- (4) Subsection (3) does not prevent a change in shareholders, the holdings of ownership interests, or other circumstances, after the implementation of the arrangement from having an effect on the application of the continuity provisions and the provisions described in subsection (3) after the implementation of the arrangement.

ZA 3 Transitional provisions

When reference to this Act includes earlier Act

- (1) A reference in an enactment or document to this Act, or to a provision of it, is to be interpreted as a reference to the Income Tax Act 2004, or the Income Tax Act 1994, or the Income Tax Act 1976, or to the corresponding provision of the earlier Act, to the extent necessary to reflect sensibly the intent of the enactment or document.

When reference to earlier Act includes this Act

- (2) A reference in an enactment or document to the Income Tax Act 2004, or the Income Tax Act 1994, or the Income Tax Act 1976, or to a provision of that earlier Act, is to be interpreted as a reference to this Act, or to the corresponding provision in this Act, to the extent necessary to reflect sensibly the intent of the enactment or document.

Intention of new law

- (3) The provisions of this Act, including any amendments made by this Act to the Tax Administration Act 1994, are the provisions of the Income Tax Act 2004 in rewritten form, and are intended to have the same effect as the corresponding provisions of the Income Tax Act 2004. Subsection (5) overrides this subsection.

Using old law as interpretation guide

- (4) Unless a limit in subsection (5) applies, in circumstances where the meaning of a taxation law that comes into force at the commencement of this Act (the new law) is unclear or gives rise to absurdity—
- (a) the wording of a taxation law that is repealed by section ZA 1 and that corresponds to the new law (the old law) must be used to determine the correct meaning of the new law; and
  - (b) it can be assumed that a corresponding old law provision exists for each new law provision.

Limits to subsections (3) and (4)

- (5) Subsections (3) and (4) do not apply in the case of—
- (a) a new law listed in schedule 51 (Identified changes in legislation); or

- (b) a new law that is amended after the commencement of this Act, with effect from the date on which the amendment comes into force.

Defined in this Act: taxation law

- (ii) a public ruling is issued before the beginning of the 2008–09 income year; and
- (b) the binding ruling is about—
- (i) a taxation law that is repealed by section ZA 1 (the old law); or
- (ii) a taxation law in the Income Tax Act 1994 that preceded and corresponded to the old law; and
- (c) a new taxation law that corresponds to the old law (the new law) comes into force at the commencement of this Act; and
- (d) in the absence of this section, the commencement of this Act would mean that the binding ruling would cease to apply because of section 91G of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Ruling about new law

- (2) The binding ruling is treated as if it were made about the new law, so that the effect of the ruling at the commencement of this Act is the same as its effect before the commencement.

No confirmation rulings

- (3) To the extent to which a binding ruling continued by subsection (2) exists and applies to an arrangement, or to a person and an arrangement, the Commissioner must not make a binding ruling on how—

- (a) the new law applies to the arrangement or to the person and the arrangement; or
- (b) this subsection applies to the arrangement or to the person and the arrangement.

Defined in this Act: arrangement, binding ruling, commencement of this Act, Commissioner, taxation law

    - (ii) a taxation law in the Income Tax Act 1994 or the Income Tax Act 1976 that preceded and corresponded to the old law; and
  - (d) a new taxation law that corresponds to the old law (the new law) comes into force at the commencement of this Act; and
  - (e) in the absence of this section, the commencement of this Act would mean that that determination would cease to apply because the taxation law to which it applied had ceased to exist.

Determination about new law

  - (a) if the employee mainly uses the same vehicle, clause 1 applies to that vehicle:
  - (b) if paragraph (a) does not apply, and the employee is employed in a business engaged in the selling of motor vehicles, and the vehicles available for use are trading stock of the business, clause 1 applies to the quotient obtained by dividing the sum of either the cost price of the vehicles or their tax value, by the total number of those vehicles:

- (c) if paragraphs (a) and (b) do not apply, clause 1 applies to the highest value of any vehicle used by the employee.

3 In this schedule, a motor vehicle's tax value in a quarter, tax year, or income year is—

- (a) the value of the vehicle as determined under subpart EE for the beginning of the tax year or income year, if paragraphs (b) and (c) do not apply; or
- (b) the cost price of the vehicle, if the vehicle is acquired after the beginning of the tax year or income year, and paragraph (c) does not apply; or
- (c) determined under clause 4 if, in the period of 2 years before the vehicle's acquisition by the person (person A) providing it to the employee, the vehicle is owned by person A or by a person (person B) associated with them.

Schedule 5 clause 3(a): amended (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 29 August 2011 (applying for the 2008–09 and later income years), by section 140(1) of the Taxation (Tax Administration and Remedial Matters) Act 2011 (2011 No 63).

Schedule 5 clause 3(c): substituted (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 6 October 2009, by section 580(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

4 For the purposes of clause 3(c), the tax value of the vehicle is the value it would have under subpart EE at the beginning of the tax year or income year, or at the time of acquisition in the year, treating the cost of the vehicle on acquisition as the amount determined under—

- (a) clause 5, if—
  - (i) the cost price was last used by person A or person B for the vehicle under clause 1;
  - (ii) clause 1 did not apply to the vehicle in the 2-year period referred to in clause 3(c) and neither person A nor person B has used the tax value for the vehicle under clause 1;

- (b) clause 6, if person A did not own the vehicle and person B last used the tax value of the vehicle under clause 1:
  - (c) clause 7, if person A owned the vehicle and the tax value was last used for the vehicle under clause 1.

- 5 The highest of the following amounts is the relevant amount for clause 4(a):
  - (a) the highest cost of the vehicle to person A on an acquisition of it by them:
  - (b) the highest cost of the vehicle to person B on an acquisition of it by them.

- 6 The highest of the following amounts is the relevant amount for clause 4(b):
  - (a) the tax value of the vehicle under this schedule for person B, immediately before the last disposal of the vehicle by them:
  - (b) the cost of the vehicle to person A on acquisition.

- 7 The highest of the following amounts is the relevant amount for clause 4(c):
  - (a) the tax value of the vehicle under this schedule for whichever of person A or person B last used tax value for the vehicle under clause 1, immediately before the last disposal of the vehicle by that person:
  - (b) the cost of the vehicle to person A on the last acquisition of it by them.

- 8 To determine the value of a benefit under clause 1—
  - (a) any GST paid on the acquisition of a vehicle by the owner or lessor of the vehicle is—
    - (i) included in the cost price of the motor vehicle or in the calculation of the motor vehicle's tax value:
    - (ii) not reduced by an amount of input tax on the supply of the vehicle to the owner or lessor:
  - (b) if, in the period of 2 years before the vehicle's acquisition by the person providing it to the employee, the vehicle is owned by the person or by someone associated with them, the cost price is treated as being the highest one of the cost prices paid for the vehicle by the person or an associate since its manufacture:

- (c) subject to paragraph (b), the cost price of the vehicle is treated as being equal to the vehicle's market value if,—
  - (i) the cost to the person who acquires the vehicle is zero; or
  - (ii) the cost price is unable to be established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner by the person who acquires the vehicle; or
  - (iii) at the time the vehicle is acquired, the cost price to the person who acquires the vehicle is less than the market value because of an arrangement between that person and an associated person, and that arrangement has the purpose of defeating the intent and application of the FBT rules.

9 Despite clause 8(a), a person who in a quarter, tax year, or income year provides a benefit that is valued under clause 1 may choose to value the vehicle on the basis of its cost price exclusive of GST or its tax value calculated exclusive of GST using clause 1 as modified by clause 10.

10 The following paragraphs apply to a person who values a vehicle on the basis of its cost price exclusive of GST or its tax value calculated exclusive of GST:

- (a) the terms 'cost price' and 'tax value' in clause 1 do not include an amount of GST payable:
- (b) the references to 5% in clause 1 are treated as if they were references to a percentage calculated using the formula—
$$5 + (5 \times \text{rate of GST applying on last day of relevant quarter}):$$
- (c) the references to 9% in clause 1 are treated as if they were references to a percentage calculated using the formula—
$$9 + (9 \times \text{rate of GST applying on last day of relevant quarter}):$$

- (d) the references to 20% in clause 1 are treated as if they were references to a percentage calculated using the formula—
 $20 + (20 \times \text{rate of GST applying on last day of relevant tax year or corresponding income year})$ :
- (e) the references to 36% in clause 1 are treated as if they were references to a percentage calculated using the formula—
 $36 + (36 \times \text{rate of GST applying on last day of relevant tax year or corresponding income year})$ .
- 11 When a vehicle is leased or rented to the person after it has been leased or rented to another person (the other person), the cost price of a vehicle is its market value at the time it is first leased or rented to the person if—
- (a) the person is not associated with the other person; and
  - (b) the person is not associated with the lessor or owner of the vehicle; and
  - (c) the employee is not the lessor or owner of the vehicle; and
  - (d) the employee is not associated with the lessor or owner of the vehicle.
- 12 If the vehicle is leased or rented by the person from another person and the lessee requests that the lessor disclose the cost price or tax value of the vehicle for the lessor, the lessor must disclose to the lessee the information requested.
- 13 The minimum tax value of a motor vehicle to which this schedule applies is $8,333.

Schedule 51
Identified changes in legislation

s ZA 3(5)

Provisions in Income Tax Act 2007 or Tax Administration Act 1994 (TAA)	Change
Business-related provisions, listed in the appendix to this schedule	The tax year basis for these provisions is omitted, or changed to an income year basis.
CD 39(9)(b), (c)	A dividend payable to a shareholder by a company when the amount is applied under section CD 39(9)(a) by the shareholder against a loan from the company to the shareholder includes a dividend that is paid without any withholding of an amount of resident withholding tax or non-resident withholding tax.
FA 3(2)	An ambiguity is removed, which ensures that an amount of the dividend is treated as being derived on the sale of the shares to the extent to which it matches any trading loss of the share dealer.
FA 5(6)	The time of association is clarified as being the time at which the associated person acquires the asset.
FA 9(2) and (3)	The time of association is clarified as being the time at which the associated person acquires the asset.
FC 2 to FC 6	The transfer on death to the executor/administrator and the subsequent transfer from the executor/administrator to the estate is treated as one transfer.
GB 1	Section GB 1(3) is clarified to confirm that the amount of the dividend derived is part of the consideration for the shares.

Provisions in Income Tax Act 2007 or Tax Administration Act 1994 (TAA)	Change
GB 27(2)(c)	The $60,000 threshold is clarified in order to take into account all income that would be attributed under section GB 29.
GB 35(2)(d)	The ambiguity is removed in order to clarify that multiple purposes are referred to.
GB 42(2)(d)	The ambiguity is removed in order to clarify that multiple purposes are referred to.
HC 27(2)	The definition of settlor is clarified so that any transfer to a trust that increases the net assets of the trust is a settlement on the trust and any deductible payments settled on a trust are included in trustee income.
HC 34(2)	The date for the payment of tax on a taxable distribution from a non-complying trust is the terminal tax date of the person liable to pay that tax.
IA 4(1)	Carried forward tax losses are used first by a person, before the losses may be grouped or otherwise used.
LA 1 to LA 10	Tax credits (other than personal and family tax credits) are used for the year that corresponds to the income year in which the credits arise.
LC 9(2)	This rule relates to the housekeeper and low income tax credits (formerly termed rebates). The policy of the rule is to apportion income of an absentee between periods of the person's absence and presence in New Zealand. The apportionment set out in the bill is on a daily basis. In the interests of simplification, the bill omits from the 2004 Act corresponding rule, the formula that apportioned the income on a "weeks" basis for persons with "regular pay periods". A change in effect is anticipated, but the omission should result at most in a small difference in outcome in favour of taxpayers. The New Zealand Law Society indicated in their submission on the bill that it would be preferable to list this as an intended change.

MC 6	The reference to veteran's pension is omitted because the in-work tax credit is an incentive to return to work.
RD 36(2)	A dividend payable to a shareholder by a company when the amount is applied under section RD 36(1) by the shareholder against a loan from the company to the shareholder includes a dividend that is paid without any withholding of an amount of resident withholding tax or non-resident withholding tax.
YA 1, definition of land	The provision is simplified and structured so that the first 3 paragraphs of the rewritten definition are to apply generally for the Act. This is consistent with the objectives of plain accessible legislation and is thought highly unlikely to result in any material change in law. However, as this change in drafting could conceivably result in a change in outcome in some circumstances, the change should be identified for readers.
YA 1, definition of mortgage	The definition of mortgage was introduced at a time when mortgages were subject to tax as a subset of land tax. The drafting in the bill provides for an updated and simplified term to apply generally for the Act. This is consistent with the objectives of plain accessible and up-to-date legislation and is thought highly unlikely to result in any material change in law.

	However, as this change in drafting could conceivably result in a change in outcome in some circumstances, the change should be identified for readers.
YA 1, definition of natural resource	A definition of natural resource is inserted for the purposes of section BH 1, and the definitions of land and New Zealand .
YA 1, definition of pay	The provision is simplified and structured so it is to apply generally for the Act. This is consistent with the objectives of plain accessible legislation and is thought highly unlikely to result in any material change in law. However, as this change in drafting could conceivably result in a change in outcome in some circumstances, the change should be identified for readers.
