Net amounts

- (2) The net amount for an investor class of a multi-rate PIE for an attribution period is calculated using the formula—assessable income – deductions.

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula in subsection (2),—
- (a) assessable income is the total amount of the PIE's assessable income attributed to the class for the attribution period in the manner referred to in subsection (8), including any tax credits received for the income but not including the amount of any supplementary dividends:

Taxable amounts

- (5) The taxable amount for an investor class of a multi-rate PIE for an attribution period is calculated using the formula—net income – net loss – other loss used.

Definition of items in formula

- (6) In the formula in subsection (5),—
- (a) net income is the amount of the PIE's net income referred to in subsection (4):
 - (b) net loss is the amount of the PIE's net loss referred to in subsection (4):
 - (c) other loss used is the lesser of the following amounts:

Taxable income or tax loss

- (7) If the result of the formula is positive, the amount is taxable income of the class for the period. If the result of the formula is negative, the amount is a tax loss of the class for the period.

Use of valuations or financial statements

- (8) Income and deductions of the multi-rate PIE are allocated to investors and investor classes for attribution periods as—
- (a) reflected in the PIE's valuation of investor interests, if the PIE makes these valuations:

Income tax liability

- (3) The income tax liability of the PIE for the tax year is equal to the total amount calculated under the relevant method for periods in the tax year or, in the case of the provisional tax calculation option under section HM 44, for the PIE's income year corresponding to the tax year.

When this section applies

Calculation for exiting investors

- (2) For an investor whose interest has reached the exit level during the tax year, the PIE must calculate its income tax liability under section HM 47 for the investor and the relevant exit period. The exit level and exit periods are determined under sections HM 62 and HM 63.

Calculations for investors for non-exit periods

- (3) For investors and periods in the income year other than exit periods, the PIE must calculate its income tax liability under section HM 47 for the relevant period.

Payment to Commissioner

- (4) The PIE must pay to the Commissioner—
- (a) the amount of income tax liability for an exiting investor for the exit period—
 - (i) within 1 month after the end of the month of withdrawal; or

HM 42B Part-year tax calculations for PIEs under the exit calculation option for the 2010–11 tax year

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies to a PIE for the 2010–11 tax year if section HM 42 applies to the PIE for that year and the PIE chooses to apply this section by filing a return under section 57B(5) or (7) of the Tax Administration Act 1994 in accordance with this section.

Part-year tax calculations: description

- (2) For calculating their income tax liability for the 2010–11 tax year, the PIE treats references to an income year or a tax year as if they are references to 2 separate tax years and corresponding income years within that tax year, divided by 1 October 2010 (for example: an amount of income attributed to a date before 1 October 2010 is included in the first part-year and taxed using the notified investor rate advised before 1 October 2010. A notified investor rate advised on or after 1 October 2010 is applied only to the amount of income attributed to the second part-year).

Part-year tax calculations: effect

- (3) The part-year calculations may give rise to income and deductions for the income year and they do create part-year tax return obligations, except that the requirement for returns under section 57B(7)(a) of the Tax Administration Act 1994 and for notice in relation to investors or proxies under section 31C(4) of that Act can be met by sending returns or notices on a full-year or part-year basis. The 2 part-year calculations create 2 income tax liabilities for 2 part-years.

Foreign tax credits: special rule

- (4) Despite subsections (2) and (3), tax credits under subpart LJ (Tax credits for foreign income tax) may be used in accordance with section HM 51 in either part-year, if they are attributable to the first part-year.

Defined in this Act: deduction, income, income tax liability, income year, notice, notified investor rate, PIE, tax credit, tax year

HM 43 Quarterly calculation option*Quarterly calculation*

- (1) A multi-rate PIE that does not choose to calculate and pay its income tax liability under the exit calculation or provisional tax calculation options, must calculate its tax liability for each quarter of the tax year using the formula set out in section HM 47. The notice requirements are set out in section 31C of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Quarterly payment

- (2) The PIE must pay to the Commissioner the amount of its income tax liability for the quarter within 1 month of the end of the quarter.

Exiting investors: zero-rated

- (3) If the investor interest of an investor in the PIE has reached the exit level, they are treated under section HM 61 as zero-rated for the exit period which includes a grace period of 5 working days after the end of the quarter. This subsection does not apply if the PIE voluntarily chooses to pay an amount under section HM 45.

Exiting investors: remaining value to Commissioner

- (4) If the investor interest of an investor at the end of an exit period is more than zero, the PIE must pay an amount equal to the value of the interest to the Commissioner at the same time as the payment referred to in subsection (2).

Provisional tax rules

- (5) The PIE is not required to pay provisional tax under subpart RC (Provisional tax) for the tax year.

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when a multi-rate PIE chooses to calculate its income tax liability on an income year basis and pay provisional tax by notifying the Commissioner before the start of the income year or when choosing to become a PIE. Notification regarding the type of PIE and attribution period is made under section 31C of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

HM 44B NRWT calculation option

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when—
 - (a) a foreign investment PIE—
 - (i) derives a dividend that is not fully imputed from a company resident in New Zealand; and

- (ii) pays an amount that represents some or all of the amount of the dividend to a notified foreign investor in the PIE by the date on which the PIE is required to pay its income tax liability under section HM 42 or HM 43, as applicable; and
- (b) the PIE chooses to calculate and pay the tax liability in relation to the amount under subpart RF (Withholding tax on non-resident passive income).

When this section also applies: supplementary dividends

(1B) This section also applies when—

- (a) a foreign investment PIE—
 - (i) derives a dividend with imputation credits attached from a company resident in New Zealand together with a related supplementary dividend; and
 - (ii) has, as an investor, a notified foreign investor who meets the requirements of section LP 2(1)(a) (Tax credits for supplementary dividends); and
 - (iii) pays the investor an amount that represents the total amount of the dividend and supplementary dividend that would be attributed to the investor in the absence of subsection (2); and

- (b) the PIE chooses to calculate and pay the tax liability in relation to the amount under subpart RF.

Excluding amount from calculation

- (2) In determining the net amount for notified foreign investors under sections HM 35 and HM 36, to the extent to which the amount represents either an unimputed portion of the dividend, or a dividend together with a related supplementary dividend, as applicable, the amount is not included in—
 - (a) the item assessable income in section HM 35(3);
 - (b) the item income in section HM 36(3).

Non-resident passive income

- (3) The NRWT rules apply to the amount paid to the extent to which the amount represents either an unimputed portion of the dividend, or a dividend together with a related supplementary dividend, as applicable.

Relationship with section CX 56B

- (4) Despite section CX 56B (Distributions to investors in multi-rate PIEs), the amount is not excluded income of the notified foreign investor.

Relationship with section HM 35(8)

- (5) When a foreign investment PIE derives a dividend and related supplementary dividend as described in subsection (1B), the allocation rule set out in section HM 35(8) does not apply. The dividend and related supplementary dividend are treated as having been allocated on the date on which ownership of the shares determines a legal entitlement to the dividend.

HM 46 Calculation process

To calculate its tax liability, a multi-rate PIE must—

- (a) determine the net amount for each investor class of the PIE:
- (b) determine the taxable amount for each investor class of the PIE:
- (c) calculate its tax liability for each investor in an investor class for each day of an attribution period.

Defined in this Act: amount, attribution period, investor, investor class, multi-rate PIE, PIE

Compare: 2007 No 97 ss HL 19, HL 20

Section HM 46: inserted, on 1 April 2010 (applying for the 2010–11 and later income years), by section 292(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

HM 47 Calculation of tax liability or tax credit of multi-rate PIEs

What this section does

- (1) This section quantifies the amount of the tax liability or tax credit of a multi-rate PIE for a calculation period.

Calculating amount

- (2) The amount of the PIE's tax liability or tax credit is the sum of the amounts calculated using the formula in subsection (3) for—
 - (a) each investor class in which the investor has an investor interest:
 - (b) each investor in an investor class:
 - (c) each attribution period in the calculation period:
 - (d) each day in an attribution period.

Notified foreign investors

- (2B) For the purposes of subsection (2), for a notified foreign investor in a foreign investment PIE, the amount of the PIE's tax liability for each investor is the sum of the amounts calculated using the formula in subsection (3) for the amount attributed to the investor for each particular income source and investment type.

Formula

- (3) The formula is—

$$\text{rate} \times \text{amount.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (4) In the formula,—

- (a) rate is—

- (i) the tax rate under section HM 58 or HM 60, as applicable, that relates to the investor for each day for the period; or
- (ib) the tax rates applying under schedule 6, table 1B (Prescribed rates: PIE investments and retirement scheme contributions) for an amount attributed to a notified foreign investor in relation to each income source and investment type; or
- (ii) 28%, if the PIE is treated as the sole investor under section HM 37:

- (b) amount is the amount calculated under sections HM 36(1) and (2) and HM 37, as applicable, for the investor.

Result of formula: tax liability or tax credit

- (5) If the result of the formula in subsection (3) is positive, the amount is the PIE's tax liability for the calculation period. If the result is negative, the amount is a tax credit of the PIE under section LS 1 (Tax credits for multi-rate PIEs), see section HM 55. However, a tax credit does not arise under section LS 1 for a multi-rate PIE that chooses to use the provisional tax calculation option.

Negative result and foreign investment PIEs

- (6) If the result of the formula in subsection (3) is negative and the multi-rate PIE has chosen under section HM 71B to become a foreign investment PIE, no tax credit arises in relation to an amount attributed to an investor in the PIE who is, at the time of attribution, a notified foreign investor.

Defined in this Act: amount, attribution period, calculation period, foreign investment PIE, investor, investor class, investor interest, multi-rate PIE, notified foreign investor, PIE, tax credit

 - (a) on the last day of a quarter (the first quarter), a threshold set out in section HM 55G(a) and (b) for allowable amounts of income is exceeded; and

 - (c) 28%, if it was 30% on 30 September 2010.

Section 28B of the Tax Administration Act 1994 sets out the requirements for the notice.

Time of notification

- (2) The investor must give notice before the end of the relevant period.

Application of rate

- (3) For an investor for an income year, a multi-rate PIE must apply the most recent notified investor rate to every day in the calculation period beginning with—
- (a) the later of—
 - (i) the day after the day on which the multi-rate PIE receives the notice;
 - (ii) the first day of the calculation period for which the notified investor rate is supplied; or

Exception

- (3B) Subsection (3) does not apply if the PIE has made a voluntary payment of tax under section HM 45 that is intended to satisfy its income tax liability for a period in relation to the investor unless the rate last notified applies to the voluntary payment.

When chosen rate lower than rate in sections HM 56 to HM 58

- (4) If an investor advises a notified investor rate that is lower than their prescribed investor rate that would apply under sections HM 56 to HM 58, income attributed to them by the PIE is not excluded income of the investor under section CX 56 (Attributed income of certain investors in multi-rate PIEs).

When rate disregarded

- (5) The Commissioner may notify a PIE to disregard an investor's notified investor rate if the Commissioner considers the rate is incorrect. The notification must include a rate for the investor that the Commissioner considers appropriate.

When no rate notified

- (6) If an investor does not advise a multi-rate PIE of their notified investor rate, the rate applying for a period is 28%.

QCP transitional process: retrospective rule

- (2) From the first day of the transitional income year to the first day of existence for the partnership that effectively replaces the qualifying company or companies under a QCP transitional process, the partnership is treated as existing and having the assets and liabilities of the qualifying company or companies, and associated rights and obligations, for that period. On and after the first day of the transitional year, the existence of the qualifying company or companies is ignored for the purposes of the Inland Revenue Acts except to the extent necessary to give effect to this section.

Taxation continuity

- (3) The moving to the partnership of the assets, liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, under a QCP transitional process is treated for the purposes of the Inland Revenue Acts as a unique form of transference for such assets, liabilities, rights, and obligations, with the following effects:
- (a) the moving to the partnership of the assets, liabilities, and associated legal rights and obligations, is treated as not being a transfer of such assets, liabilities, rights, and obligations:
 - (b) the qualifying company or companies has, before the first day of the transitional income year, the relevant tax situation in relation to the assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations (the historical tax situations):
 - (c) the partnership is treated as stepping into the place of the qualifying company or companies, and as having, on and after the first day of the transitional income year,—

 - (e) all memorandum account balances and other tax accounting amounts for the qualifying company before the first day of the transitional income year are ignored and have no effect on and after that day (for example, the qualifying company has no effective ASC on and after the first day of the transitional income year).

Transparency

- (4) Subsections (2) and (3) are applied immediately before section HG 2 (Partnerships are transparent) applies.

Initial basis

- (5) For the purposes of applying sections HG 11 and HG 12 (which relate to limited partnership deduction rules) to the partners of a limited partnership described in subsection (2) for the transitional income year and later years, all of the partners must choose 1 of the 2 following methods for calculating their partner's basis under section HG 11(3):

- (a) for calculating amounts under section HG 11(5)(a) for shares that were held at the end of the income year (the last year) before the transitional income year, they may choose to use the market value or the accounting book value of those shares as at the end of the last year. Calculations under section HG 11(7)(b) and (8)(b) are changed to account for the valuation under this paragraph; or
- (b) they may choose to apply section HG 11(3) as if the qualifying company had always been a limited partnership and all relevant rules relating to limited partnerships had always existed, applying those rules with any necessary modifications.

Initial basis not less than zero

- (6) If the application of sections HG 11 and HG 12, as modified by this section, calculates a partner's basis as less than zero, then the partner's basis is treated as being zero.

Meaning of QCP transitional process

- (7) QCP transitional process means a process, for which all outcomes are achieved in an income year (the transitional income year), by which a company or companies that are all qualifying companies at the end of the income year before the transitional income year transform into a partnership.  - (b) the partners, or in the case of a limited partnership, the partners other than a company that is a general partner, are the same persons who, at the end of the income year before the transitional income year, were the shareholders of the qualifying company or companies, ignoring any person who dies in the transitional year; and
 - (c) all assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, of the qualifying companies are moved to the partnership, excluding those that are inappropriate for a partnership; and
 - (d) each partner must have the same net position in the partnership as to relevant assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, as would arise on the winding up of the qualifying company or companies at the end of the income year before the transitional income year, treating any person who dies in the transitional year as still being a partner.

HZ 4E Transition out of LTC regime for Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when an entity that is a look-through company (an LTC) at the end of the 2016–17 income year ceases to be an LTC because of an amendment to LTC-related provisions, in section 288 of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (the cessation).

Exemption

- (2) Section HB 4(6) (General provisions relating to disposals) does not apply to the cessation.

Company steps into place

- (3) An entity that ceases to be an LTC is treated as having, as a company, the tax position it has, ignoring section HB 1(4) (Look-through companies are transparent), immediately before it ceases, and the owners are treated as not having that tax position.

Defined in this Act: company, income year, look-through company, tax position

Section HZ 4E: inserted, on 1 April 2017, by section 145 of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

HZ 5 Transitional provisions for PIE rules

Intention of new law

- (1) The PIE rules are the provisions of the Income Tax Act 2007 relating to portfolio investment entities in rewritten form, and are intended to have the same effect as the relevant corresponding provisions of the Income Tax Act 2007. Subsection (3) overrides this subsection.

Using old law as interpretation guide

- (2) Unless subsection (3) applies, in circumstances where the meaning of a PIE rule (the new law) is unclear or gives rise to absurdity—
- (a) the wording of the provisions of the Income Tax Act 2007 relating to portfolio investment entities that correspond to and are replaced by the PIE rules (the old law) must be used to determine the correct meaning of the new law; and
- (b) it can be assumed that a corresponding old law provision exists for each new law provision.

Limits to subsections (1) and (2)

- (3) Subsections (1) and (2) do not apply in the case of—
- (a) a PIE rule that repeals an old law and replaces it with a new law:
- (b) a PIE rule that is amended after the commencement of section 292(2) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009, with effect from the date on which the amendment comes into force.

Defined in this Act: PIE rules, portfolio investment entity

Section HZ 5: inserted, on 1 April 2010 (applying for the 2010–11 and later income years), by section 295(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

Section HZ 5(3)(b): amended (with effect on 1 April 2010), on 7 September 2010 (applying for the 2010–11 and later income years), by section 80(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Trans-Tasman Savings Portability, KiwiSaver, and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 109).

HZ 6 Saving of binding rules relating to portfolio investment entities

When, and extent to which, this section applies

- (1) This section applies when, and to the extent to which,—
 - (a) before the commencement of this Act,—
 - (i) an applicant has applied for a private ruling, a product ruling, or a status ruling, on an arrangement that is entered into, or that the applicant seriously contemplates will be entered into, before the commencement of this Act;
 - (ii) a public ruling is issued; and
 - (b) the binding ruling is about a provision of the Income Tax Act 2007 relating to portfolio investment entities (the old law) that corresponds to and is replaced by the PIE rules; and
 - (c) the PIE rules corresponding to the old law (the new law) come into force on 1 April 2010; and
 - (d) the binding ruling—
 - (i) continues to exist at the commencement of this Act;
 - (ii) is made after the commencement of this Act in relation to an old law before 1 April 2010;
 - (iii) is made in relation to an old law provision of the Income Tax Act 2004 to which section ZA 4 (Saving of binding rulings) of the Income Tax Act 2007 applies, that continues to exist at the commencement of this Act; and
 - (e) in the absence of this section, the commencement of this Act would mean that the binding ruling would cease to apply because of section 91G of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Ruling about new law

- (2) The binding ruling is treated as if it were made about the new law, so that the effect of the ruling at the commencement of this Act is the same as its effect before the commencement.

No confirmation rulings

- (3) To the extent to which a binding ruling continued by subsection (2) exists and applies to an arrangement, or to a person and an arrangement, the Commissioner must not make a binding ruling on how—
 - (a) the new law applies to the arrangement or to the person and the arrangement; or

- (b) this subsection applies to the arrangement or to the person and the arrangement.

Defined in this Act: apply, arrangement, binding ruling, Commissioner, PIE rules, portfolio investment entity

Section HZ 6: inserted, on 1 April 2010 (applying for the 2010–11 and later income years), by section 295(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

- (ii) a binding ruling is issued; and
- (b) the binding ruling is about a provision of the Income Tax Act 2004 on the question of whether an amount is a settlement on a trust; and
- (c) the binding ruling—
- (i) is made before or after the commencement of this Act and continues to exist at the commencement of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009; and
- (ii) is made in relation to a provision of the Income Tax Act 2004 to which section ZA 4 (Saving of binding rulings) of this Act would have applied but for the intended change listed in schedule 51 (Identified changes in legislation) for section HC 27(2) (Who is a settlor?); and
- (d) in the absence of this section, the commencement of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 would mean that the binding ruling would cease to apply because of section 91G of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Ruling about new law

- (2) The binding ruling continues to exist despite the intended change referred to in subsection (1)(c)(ii) from the commencement of this Act to the date on which the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 receives the Royal assent.

No confirmation rulings

- (3) To the extent to which a binding ruling continued by subsection (2) exists and applies to an arrangement, or to a person and an arrangement, the Commissioner must not make a binding ruling in the period that starts on the date of the commencement of this Act and ends on the date on which the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 receives the Royal assent on how—

Extensions for continuity and common ownership

- (2) If company B's income year ends after the last day of company A's income year, for section IC 5 to apply to a tax loss in a corresponding tax year,—

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies in a tax year if—
 - (a) company A has a tax loss for the tax year that is made available to, and subtracted by, more than 1 company that is part of the group of companies; and
 - (b) the Commissioner determines under section 113 of the Tax Administration Act 1994 that the actual total tax loss for the tax year is less than the sum of the amounts subtracted by the companies in the group, and notifies company A.

Reduced amounts

- (2) The relevant companies must reduce the amounts they subtracted either in the way company A allocates under subsection (3) or, if no allocation is made, proportionately under subsection (4).

Company A's allocation

- (3) Company A may choose how the amount by which the total must be reduced is allocated between or among the companies. But if company A allocates an amount to a company that is no longer part of the group at the time of the allocation, and the amount is more than a proportionate amount, the allocation is disregarded. Subsection (6) sets out the notice requirements for this subsection.

Proportionate amounts

- (4) If company A does not allocate the amounts by which the total must be reduced, the amounts subtracted by the group companies are reduced in the same proportion as that by which the total amount was reduced in determining the actual total tax loss.

Subvention payments

- (5) If the reduction results in a payment under section IC 5(2)(b) being treated as a dividend, the dividend is reduced to the extent to which the payment is repaid by company A within the notification period referred to in subsection (6).

Notifying Commissioner

- (6) For the purposes of subsections (3) and (5), company A must notify the Commissioner of the allocation within 6 months after the date on which the Commissioner notifies company A that the reduction is required. However, the Commissioner may agree to extend this notification period.

 - (i) under section DB 31 (Bad debts) for a loan to another company in the group;
 - (ii) for a decline in the value of shares in another company in the group; and
 - (b) a company (company A) in the group, other than company C, has a tax loss for the tax year that includes a tax loss component arising from a deduction—
 - (i) for expenditure funded by the loan referred to in paragraph (a)(i) or by the issue to company A of the shares referred to in paragraph (a)(ii); and
 - (ii) taken into account in calculating company A's tax loss for the 1993–94 tax year or a later tax year.

Limitation on loss grouping

- (2) The amount of company A's tax loss cannot be made available to another company in the group to use except to the extent to which the amount of the tax loss is more than the total amount of the deductions referred to in subsection (1)(a). To that extent, company A may choose to make the excess amount available to a group company to use under section IA 3(2) and IA 5 (which relate to using and carrying forward tax losses) if the requirements for grouping tax losses are met.

Determining decline in value of shares

- (3) For the purposes of this section, shares are treated as declining in value if,—
- (a) on the disposal of the shares, the amount for which they were disposed of is less than the deduction for the cost of the shares; or

ID 1 Treatment of tax losses by consolidated groups

Consolidated group's net losses

- (1) A tax loss of a consolidated group of companies is treated as the consolidated group's tax loss, not the tax loss of a company that is part of the consolidated group. Subparts IA and IC (which relate to the general use and grouping of tax losses), as modified by this subpart, apply as if the consolidated group were 1 company.

Ring-fenced tax losses

- (2) Nothing in this subpart applies to a consolidated group whose companies are mining companies or mineral miners.

Defined in this Act: company, consolidated group, mineral miner, mining company, tax loss

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(1A)–(3)

ID 2 Pre-consolidation losses: general treatment

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies in a tax year when a company that meets the requirements of section IA 5 (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward) and is part of a consolidated group has a pre-consolidation loss balance carried forward to the tax year.

First use

- (2) The first use of the loss balance must be to make the amount of the loss balance available to the consolidated group to subtract from its net income, so far as it extends, for the tax year.

Second use

- (3) If, after subsection (2) is applied, some of the loss balance remains, the company may choose to do 1 or more of the following:
 - (a) subtract the remaining amount from its net income for the tax year:
 - (b) make the remaining amount available to another consolidated group to subtract from its net income for the tax year:
 - (c) make the remaining amount available under section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss).

Third use

- (4) If, after subsections (2) and (3) are applied, a loss balance remains, the remaining amount is carried forward to the next tax year.

Relationship with sections IA 3, IA 4, IC 5, and provisions in this subpart

- (5) This section overrides sections IA 3, IA 4, and IC 5 (which relate to the general use and grouping of tax losses). Sections ID 3 to ID 5 override this section.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, consolidated group, net income, loss balance, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(4), (6), (7)

ID 3 Pre-consolidation losses: use by group companies

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies in a tax year when—
 - (a) a company (company A) that is part of a consolidated group has a loss balance to which section ID 2 applies; and
 - (b) company A, in the continuity period relating to a tax loss component included in the loss balance, does not have the required common ownership under section IC 3 (Common ownership: group of companies) with 1 or more companies in the consolidated group.

Limit on amount available

- (2) The amount made available under section ID 2(2) to the consolidated group is limited as follows:

- (a) if all the companies, including company A, in the consolidated group meet the requirements of section IC 6(1) (Common ownership for period): the amount available is limited to the amount of the loss balance to the extent of the net income of the consolidated group for the tax year:
- (b) if some of the companies in the consolidated group meet the requirements of section IC 6(1): the amount available is limited to the total of—
 - (i) the amount that company A could subtract from its net income for the tax year if it were not in the tax year part of a consolidated group; and
 - (ii) the amount that could be made available under section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss) to the other group companies in the tax year, ignoring the consolidation of the companies and presuming all steps required under section IC 5 were taken in order for the section to apply.

Relationship with section FM 3

- (3) In subsection (2), the calculation of the consolidated group's net income must be made in accordance with section FM 3 (Liability of consolidated groups and group companies).

Relationship with section ID 2

- (4) This section overrides section ID 2.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, consolidated group, continuity period, group of companies, loss balance, net income, tax loss component, tax year

ID 4 Pre-consolidation losses on entry: part-year rule

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies if a company that is part of a consolidated group has a loss balance to which section ID 2 applies in a tax year when the company joins the consolidated group.

Limit on amount available

- (2) The amount of the loss balance to be made available to the consolidated group under section ID 2(2) is the lesser of the amount the company establishes in financial statements under subsection (3), or the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (4), but in either case, it must not be more than the limit set out in section ID 3(2).

Financial statements

- (3) The company may establish the amount to be made available by providing the Commissioner, at the time of providing the consolidated group's return of income, with adequate financial statements that—
- (a) relate to the part of the tax year when the company was part of the consolidated group; and
 - (b) disclose the amount that would be the net income attributable to the part of the tax year when the company was part of the consolidated group, determined on a fair and reasonable basis of attribution.

Formula

- (4) The amount that may be made available under section ID 2(2) and referred to in subsection (2) is calculated using the formula—unused amount – (part-year net income + part-year net loss).

Definition of items in formula

- (5) In the formula,—
- (a) unused amount is the loss balance carried forward from an earlier tax year or years that would be subtracted from the consolidated group's net income for the tax year in the absence of section ID 3 or this section:
 - (b) part-year net income is the company's net income for the part of the tax year before the company joins the consolidated group:
 - (c) part-year net loss is the amount of a pre-consolidation tax loss that must be subtracted under section ID 2 from the net income of another consolidated group of which the company was part in the tax year before joining the consolidated group referred to in subsection (1).

Relationship with section ID 2

- (6) This section overrides section ID 2.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, company, consolidated group, loss balance, net income, return of income, tax loss, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(7)

ID 5 Pre-consolidation losses on exit: part-year rule

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies if a company that is part of a consolidated group has a loss balance to which section ID 2 applies in a tax year when the company leaves the consolidated group.

Limit on amount available

- (2) In addition to the amount available under section IP 3(3) (Continuity breach: tax loss components of companies carried forward) but subject to the limit in section ID 3(2), the amount of the company's loss balance that is carried forward to the tax year must be no more than the consolidated group's net income for the relevant part of the tax year. For part-year calculations, see subpart IP (Meeting requirements for part-years).

Financial statements

- (3) The consolidated group must provide the Commissioner with adequate financial statements that disclose the amount that would be the consolidated group's net income for the relevant part of the tax year, determined on a fair and reasonable basis of attribution. The statements must be filed with the consolidated group's return of income for the tax year.

Continuity requirements

- (4) For the purposes of this section, the company must meet the threshold level set out in section IC 2(1) (Threshold levels for grouping tax losses in tax year) for the relevant part of the tax year.

Relationship with section ID 2

- (5) This section overrides section ID 2.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, company, consolidated group, loss balance, net income, return of income, tax year

IE 2 Treatment of tax losses by amalgamating company

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies if an amalgamating company that meets the requirements of section IA 5 (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward) ends its existence on a resident's restricted amalgamation, and has a tax loss for a tax year that—
 - (a) has not, before the date of amalgamation, been used by the company; and
 - (b) could be made available and subtracted from the amalgamated company's net income for the part of the tax year that ends with the date of amalgamation.

Attributing losses to amalgamated company

- (2) If the amalgamated company meets the requirements of section IE 5, the tax loss is attributed to the amalgamated company. The amalgamated company may, after the date of amalgamation, subtract the amount of the tax loss from its net income for the tax year, or make it available to another company to subtract from its net income for the tax year.

Other amalgamating companies

- (3) In subsection (1)(b), the amalgamated company includes a company that has amalgamated with the amalgamating company before or during the tax year in which the amount is used. The tax year referred to in that subsection means the tax year of the relevant company.

New companies

- (4) Subsection (1)(b) does not apply if the amalgamated company is incorporated only on the amalgamation.

Defined in this Act: amalgamated company, amalgamating company, amount, company, net income, resident's restricted amalgamation, tax loss, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IF 4

IE 3 Treatment of tax losses by amalgamated company

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for an amalgamated company, and the tax year (the amalgamation tax year) corresponding to the income year in which the amalgamation takes place, when the amalgamated company has, for the part of the amalgamation tax year (the pre-amalgamation part year) that corresponds to the part of the income year ending with the date of the amalgamation, tax loss components (the pre-amalgamation loss) that—
 - (a) arise from the pre-amalgamation part year:
 - (b) meet the requirements of section IA 5 (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward) for being carried forward from the tax year before the amalgamation tax year to the pre-amalgamation part year.

Requirements for tax loss components to be used or made available before amalgamation

- (2) A tax loss component included in the pre-amalgamation loss may be used or made available by the amalgamated company for subtraction from net income calculated for the pre-amalgamation part year, if the requirements of sections IA 5, IC 2, and IC 5 (which relate to the use and grouping of tax losses) for the use or availability are met.

Requirements for amounts to be used or made available after amalgamation

- (3) A tax loss component included in the pre-amalgamation loss may be used or made available by the amalgamated company for subtraction from net income calculated for the part of the amalgamation tax year (the post-amalgamation part year) that corresponds to the part of the income year beginning from the date of amalgamation, if—
- (a) section IA 5 allows the tax loss component to be carried forward from the pre-amalgamation part year to the post-amalgamation part year; and
 - (b) sections IC 2 and IC 5 would have allowed the tax loss component to be made available to an amalgamating company for subtraction from net income calculated for the pre-amalgamation part year; and
 - (c) for a tax loss component that is an attributed CFC net loss or a FIF net loss and is made available by the amalgamated company, the tax loss component is made available to a wholly-owned group of companies.

Treatment of part years

- (4) The pre-amalgamation part year and the post-amalgamation part year are treated as separate tax years for the purposes of applying this section.

Relationship with subparts IA, IC, and ID: part-year calculations

- (2) The general rules for the treatment of tax losses in subparts IA, IC, and ID (which relate to the general use and grouping of tax losses) apply, as modified or overridden by the provisions of this subpart, to—
- (a) a part-year tax loss as if it were a tax loss for a tax year:
 - (b) part-year net income as if it were net income for a tax year:
 - (c) the common span as if the period of time were a tax year.

Defined in this Act: common span, net income, tax loss, tax year

Common span when balance dates differ

- (2) If the income years of company A and company B do not end on the same date, the common span is that part of company B's income year or income years in which the requirements for commonality are met. Section IC 10(2)(b) (When companies have different balance dates) may apply to extend the period.

Calculating group companies' tax losses

- (3) For the purposes of this subpart and the grouping of tax losses, the amount of a tax loss component is found after taking into account any amount of the tax loss component subtracted from the net income of any group company.

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for the purposes of section IA 4 (Using loss balances carried forward to tax year) if a breach occurs in the requirements for continuity of ownership of section IA 5 (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward) that enable a tax loss component included in a company's loss balance to be carried forward to or from a tax year.

Tax loss components for earlier income years

- (2) Despite the breach, a tax loss component arising in an earlier income year is carried forward to a tax year (year A) to the extent to which—
- (a) the requirements for continuity of ownership would be met if the continuity period included only part of the income year of the company that corresponds to year A; and
 - (b) the company has net income for part of the corresponding income year; and
 - (c) the company provides the Commissioner with adequate financial statements under section IP 6 calculating the amount of the company's net income for the relevant part of the corresponding income year.

Limit on tax loss components carried forward to year A

- (3) The total tax loss components carried forward under subsection (2) must be no more than the amount calculated under subsection (2)(b) and (c), although the amount may be increased if section IP 5 applies.

Tax loss components of year of breach

- (4) Despite the breach, a tax loss component is carried forward to the tax year (year B) from year A to the extent to which—

- (a) the requirements for continuity of ownership would be met if the continuity period included only part of the income year that corresponds to year A; and
- (b) the company provides the Commissioner with adequate financial statements under section IP 6 calculating the amount of the company's net loss for the part of year A.

Limit on tax loss components carried forward to year B

- (5) The amount of the tax loss component carried forward under subsection (4) must be the least of—
 - (a) the part-year net loss calculated under subsection (4)(b):
 - (b) if the company has net income for year A, zero:
 - (c) if the company has a net loss for year A, the company's net loss for year A.

Relationship with section IC 8

- (4) Despite subsection (2)(ab), section IC 8 overrides this section in limiting the amount that may be used when the net income derived in the common span is more than the net income of company B for the income year.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, common span, company, corresponding income year, income year, net income, notify, tax loss, tax loss component

IQ 2C Effect of FIF net loss if attributed FIF income method not available

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for a person and a country (the jurisdiction) when—
 - (a) the person has an amount (the available BE loss) of FIF net loss calculated using the branch equivalent method—
 - (i) relating to a tax year (the loss year) before the first tax year for which this section applies to the person; and

- (ii) relating to a FIF that is resident in the jurisdiction in the loss year; and
- (iii) carried forward to a tax year (the current year) in which this section applies to the person; and
- (b) the person is not able to use the attributable FIF income method in the current year for the person's interest in the FIF; and
- (c) the person would be able to use the attributable FIF income method in the current year for the person's interest in the FIF if the interest met the requirements of section EX 46(3)(a)(ii) (Limits on choice of calculation methods); and
- (d) the person does not have an income interest of 10% or more in a CFC in the jurisdiction in the current year; and
- (e) the person does not have an attributing interest in a FIF in the jurisdiction in the current year for which the person can use the attributable FIF income method.

Use of FIF net loss

- (2) The person's available BE loss is available to be subtracted from the person's FIF income, to the extent of the FIF income, in the current year from the FIF, if the FIF is resident in the jurisdiction in the current year.

Treatment of surplus

- (3) If the person cannot use all of the available BE loss in the current year, the surplus is available to be carried forward for use under subsection (2) in another tax year.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributable FIF income method, attributing interest, branch equivalent method, CFC, FIF, FIF income, FIF net loss, income interest, tax year

Section IQ 2C: inserted (with effect on 1 July 2011 and applying for income years beginning on or after that date), on 17 July 2013, by section 67(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

IQ 3 Ring-fencing cap on FIF net losses

- (1) If a person's FIF net loss is carried forward to a tax year (the current tax year) or FIF net loss is made available to the person in the current tax year,—
 - (a) FIF net loss relating to a tax year for which section IQ 2B applies to the person is available to be subtracted under section IQ 2 from the person's net income for the current tax year; and
 - (b) FIF net loss relating to a tax year for which section IQ 2B does not apply to the person—
 - (i) is available to be subtracted from the person's net income for the current tax year to the extent of the equivalent CFC loss under section IQ 2B; and

- (ii) is reduced in the current tax year by the converted BE loss under section IQ 2B.

Relationship with section CQ 5

- (2) Despite subsection (1) and section IQ 2, if the person's FIF net loss is carried forward to a tax year and section CQ 5(1)(d) or (e) (When FIF income arises) applies, they may subtract the amount from their net income for the tax year, but only to the extent to which the amount is no more than their assessable income from interests that would be interests in a FIF for the tax year in the absence of that section.

Treatment of excess

- (3) If the person cannot use all of the amount that is available tax loss under section IQ 2(1) because there is insufficient net income, the surplus is no longer available to them as a FIF net loss, but becomes a tax loss component under section IA 2(4) (Tax losses).

- (1) This section supplements the general rules relating to the grouping of net losses when, for a tax year (the current tax year), a company (company A) that is part of a group of companies has an amount—

Modifications to general rules for grouping net losses

- (2) For determining whether company A may make available an amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss to another company (company B) in the group of companies, the general rules relating to the grouping of net losses are modified as follows:
 - (a) the group of companies must be a wholly-owned group of companies; and

 - (i) the total amount of the attributed CFC income or FIF income taken into account in calculating a deduction of company B under section DN 4 or DN 8 (which relate to ring-fencing caps on deductions);
 - (ii) the total amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss that company B derives in the tax year from CFCs or FIFs resident in the jurisdiction:

LJ 5 Calculation of New Zealand tax*What this section does*

- (1) This section provides the rules that a person must use to calculate the amount of New Zealand tax for an income year in relation to each segment of foreign-sourced income of the person that is allocated to the income year.

Calculation for single segment

- (2) If the person has a notional income tax liability of more than zero, the amount of New Zealand tax for the income year relating to the allocated segment is calculated using the following formula, the result of which can not be less than zero:

$$((\text{segment} - \text{person's deductions}) \div \text{person's net income}) \times \text{notional liability.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula in subsection (2),—
- (a) segment is the amount of the segment of foreign-sourced income for the income year:
 - (b) person's deductions is the amount of the person's deduction for the tax year corresponding to the income year that is attributable to the segment of foreign-sourced income:

When subsection (4B) applies

- (4) Subsection (4B) applies for the income year when the total amount of New Zealand tax for all segments of foreign-sourced income of the person calculated under subsection (2) is more than the notional income tax liability.

Modification to results of formula for single segment

- (4B) Each amount of New Zealand tax calculated under subsection (2) in relation to each segment of foreign-sourced income is adjusted by multiplying the amount by the following ratio:

$$\text{person's notional income tax liability} \div \text{NZ tax.}$$

Definition of item in formula

- (4C) In the formula in subsection (4B), NZ tax is the amount given by adding together the result of the calculation under subsection (2), for each segment of assessable income from all sources, including assessable income sourced in New Zealand.

Person's notional income tax liability

- (5) For the purposes of this section, a person's notional income tax liability for a tax year is calculated using the formula—

$$(\text{person's net income} - \text{losses}) \times \text{tax rate.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (6) In the formula in subsection (5),—
- (a) person's net income is the person's net income for the tax year:
 - (b) losses—
 - (i) is the amount of the loss balance carried forward to the tax year that the person must subtract from their net income under section IA 4(1)(a) (Using loss balances carried forward to tax year):
 - (ii) must be no more than the amount of the person's net income:
 - (c) tax rate is the basic rate of income tax set out in schedule 1, part A (Basic tax rates: income tax, ESCT, RSCT, RWT, and attributed fringe benefits).

LU 1 Tax credits for mineral miners

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for an income year when—
- (a) either—
 - (i) a mineral miner incurs an amount of mining rehabilitation expenditure in relation to a mining permit area; or
 - (ii) a mineral miner derives an amount under section CU 2 (Treatment of mining land) from the disposal of land or an interest in land in a mining permit area, and the amount the mineral miner derives from the disposal is less than the consideration that the mineral miner paid to acquire the land or interest in land; or
 - (iii) a mineral miner incurs an amount of mining development expenditure in relation to a mining permit area for which the mining permit has been relinquished, has expired, has been revoked or surrendered, as those terms are used in the Crown Minerals Act 1991, and the miner has no existing privilege for the permit area; and

- (b) the mineral miner has a net mining loss for the mining permit area for the income year that is greater than the net income of the mineral miner for the income year from all other sources (the difference being the excess amount), calculated as follows:
 - (i) the mineral miner's net mining loss is treated as if their only income were income derived from the mining permit area:
 - (ii) the net income of the mineral miner from other sources is treated as if there were no income from the mining permit area.

Tax credit

- (2) The mineral miner has a tax credit for the tax year corresponding to the income year for an amount calculated using the formula—
$$\text{expenditure or loss} \times \text{tax rate.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula,—
 - (a) expenditure or loss is the excess amount referred to in subsection (1)(b) to the extent to which it consists of the amounts referred to in subsection (1)(a)(i) to (iii):
 - (b) tax rate is the basic rate of income tax set out in schedule 1, part A (Basic tax rates: income tax, ESCT, RSCT, RWT, and attributed fringe benefits).

Maximum

- (4) Despite subsection (2), the maximum amount of the credit must not be more than the lesser of—
 - (a) the result of the formula; and
 - (b) the amount of income tax paid by the mineral miner on net income derived for all earlier tax years to the extent to which it relates to the mining permit area, calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated.

Treatment of trustees

- (5) For the purposes of subsection (4), if the mineral miner is a trustee of a trust, the amount of tax paid for each earlier tax year is determined—
 - (a) first, by reference to the amount of income tax paid under the obligations of a trustee under section HC 32 (Liability of trustee as agent); and
 - (b) secondly, by reference to the amount of tax paid on trustee income; and
 - (c) calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated.

Treatment of individuals

- (6) For the purposes of subsection (4), if the mineral miner is an individual, the amount of tax paid for earlier tax years is calculated on a year-by-year basis and aggregated, as if their only income were income derived from the mining permit area.

Calculated on a year-by-year basis

- (7) In subsections (4)(b), (5)(c) and (6), a reference to a calculation on a year-by-year basis refers to a calculation starting with the immediately preceding tax year and working backwards to earlier tax years until the amount of tax paid is equal to or more than the amount referred to in subsection (4)(a).

Treatment of tax loss

- (8) To the extent to which the mineral miner has a tax credit under this section, the amount of the net mining loss giving rise to the credit does not form part of either a tax loss component or a net mining loss for the mineral miner.

Nature of tax credit

- (9) The tax credit is available for use under section LA 6(2) (Remaining refundable credits: PAYE, RWT, and certain other items).

Relationship with other sections

- (10) Subsection (8) overrides sections IA 2 and IA 7 (which relate to losses generally) and IS 1, IS 2, and IS 6 (which relate to tax losses for mineral mining).

Defined in this Act: amount, income, income year, interest, land, mineral miner, mining development expenditure, mining rehabilitation expenditure, net income, net mining loss, pay, permit area, tax credit, tax loss, tax loss component, tax year

Calculation for parental tax credit

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2)(c)(iii) and sections MD 1(3)(d)(i) and MD 16(3)(a), the amount of family credit abatement for an entitlement period applied to reduce the amount of parental tax credit for that entitlement period is calculated using the formula—

$$(\text{entitlement period abatement amount} - \text{amount used}) \times 365 \div 70.$$

Definition of items in formula

- (2) An additional amount of parental tax credit is calculated for the tax year of the birth using the formula—daily parental tax credit amount × extra entitlement days.

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula in subsection (2),—
- (a) daily parental tax credit amount is the amount of parental tax credit that the person would be entitled to for an entitlement period consisting of—
 - (i) the last day of the last entitlement period in the part of the parental entitlement period in the tax year of the birth, if there is an entitlement period in that part of the parental entitlement period; or
 - (ii) the first day of the first entitlement period in the part of the parental entitlement period in the tax year after the tax year of the birth, if subparagraph (i) does not apply:
 - (b) extra entitlement days is the number of days, each of which is—
 - (i) in the parental entitlement period; and
 - (ii) in an entitlement period in the tax year following the tax year of the birth.

Defined in this Act: amount, entitlement period, parental entitlement period, parental tax credit, pay, tax year

Heading: substituted, on 1 April 2008, by section 476(1) of the Taxation (Business Taxation and Remedial Matters) Act 2007 (2007 No 109).

MD 13 Calculation of family credit abatement

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for the purposes of section MD 1 to determine the amount of a person's family credit abatement for an entitlement period.

Formula

- (2) The formula is—

$$\text{full-year abatement} \times \text{days} \div 365.$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula,—

- (a) full-year abatement is,—

(i) if the person has no spouse, civil union partner, or de facto partner during the entitlement period, and the person's family scheme income for the relationship period containing the entitlement period is more than $36,350, 22.5 cents for each complete dollar of the excess; or

(ii) if the person has a spouse, civil union partner, or de facto partner during the entitlement period, and the person's family scheme income, the family scheme income of their spouse, civil union partner, or de facto partner, or the sum of those incomes for the relationship period containing the entitlement period is more than $36,350, 22.5 cents for each complete dollar of the excess:

- (b) days is the number of days in the entitlement period excluding the days of any calendar months in which the person receives protected family tax credit as described in section MD 14.

When 70-day period crosses 2 tax years and parental tax credit paid in instalments

- (4) If a person who qualifies under section MC 2 (Who qualifies for entitlements under family scheme?) receives instalments of the parental tax credit in a 70-day period that crosses 2 tax years, the formula is applied so that—

(a) instalments of the parental tax credit received in the first tax year are abated against the person's family scheme income, the family scheme income of their spouse, civil union partner, or de facto partner, or the sum of those incomes for that tax year; and

(b) instalments of the parental tax credit received in the second tax year are abated against the person's family scheme income, the family scheme income of their spouse, civil union partner, or de facto partner, or the sum of those incomes for that tax year.

When 70-day period crosses 2 tax years and parental tax credit paid in lump sum

- (4B) If a person who qualifies under section MC 2 has a 70-day parental entitlement period that crosses 2 tax years and the person receives a lump sum payment of the parental tax credit for the tax year of the birth, then—
- (a) an additional amount of parental tax credit abatement for the tax year of the birth is calculated under section MD 16, based on the number of days that are—
 - (i) in the parental entitlement period; and
 - (ii) in an entitlement period in the tax year following the tax year of the birth; and
 - (b) the formula in subsection (2) should not be used to calculate an amount of parental tax credit abatement for the days described in paragraph (a), except for the purposes of determining the amount of parental tax credit abatement for the single day described in section MD 16(3)(a)(ii).

Order in Council increasing amount

- (5) In subsection (3)(a), the amounts appearing as the amount of the threshold may be increased as prescribed by the Governor-General by Order in Council under section MF 7 (Orders in Council).

Imputation additional tax

OB 71 Imputation additional tax on leaving group of companies

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies in a tax year when—
- (a) a company (company A) stops being part of a group of companies (the former group), because of a change in the ultimate owner of the company, and becomes part of a wholly-owned group of companies (the new group); and

- (b) if the former group is a wholly-owned group of companies, the loss balance carried forward from the previous tax year for companies in the former group is more than $1,000,000; and
- (c) if the former group is not a wholly-owned group of companies, company A has transferred imputation credits under section OB 83 to a company in the former group.

Sources of liability

- (1B) Company A is liable for imputation additional tax under—
 - (a) subsection (2), if the company has a debit balance in the imputation credit account when the ultimate owner of the company changes;
 - (b) subsection (4), if the company has an amount of excess entitlement under subsection (5) when the ultimate owner of the company changes.

Liability arising from debit balance

- (2) At the time company A stops being part of the former group, it may choose to reduce or eliminate the debit balance by paying imputation additional tax of an amount no greater than the debit balance but, in dealing with the liability, it may transfer some or all of the debit balance under subsection (3) or choose to use its excess entitlement under subsection (4), or a combination of both.

Debit balance

- (3) Company A may choose to transfer under section OB 44 some or all of a debit balance in the company's imputation credit account to another company (company B) in the former group. An imputation additional tax liability remains for the amount of the debit balance that is not transferred.

Liability arising from excess entitlement

- (4) Company A is liable for an amount of imputation additional tax equal to the amount of the excess entitlement described in subsection (5) reduced, to no less than zero, by the amount of any payment that company A—
 - (a) made as provisional tax or income tax; and
 - (b) chooses to treat as having been paid by company B.

Amount of excess entitlement

- (5) Company A's excess entitlement at the time it stops being part of the former group is 1 of the following amounts:
 - (a) zero, if the credit balance of its imputation credit account at the time is equal to or more than—
 - (i) the amount in the tax pooling account provided by or for the benefit of company A that is more than its liability to pay income tax or provisional tax at the time; or
 - (ii) the entitlement company A would have to a refund under sections RM 2, RM 4, and RM 5 (which relate to refunds of excess tax) as if sections RM 13 to RM 17 (which relate to limits on refunds) did not apply; or

- (b) the total of the amounts referred to in paragraph (a)(i) and (ii) if no credit balance exists at the time; or
- (c) the excess of the total of the amounts referred to in paragraph (a)(i) and (ii) over the credit balance, if paragraph (b) does not apply.

Due date

- (6) If company A chooses to pay imputation additional tax under subsections (2) and (4), it must pay the amount to the Commissioner no later than the 20th day of the month following the month in which company A stops being part of the former group.

Joint liability

- (7) Company A and all companies in the former group are jointly liable for a payment of imputation additional tax under subsection (6). A payment of imputation additional tax does not satisfy any other liability of company A or the former group.

Payment by excess tax

- (8) Company A, or another company in the former group, may choose to apply an excess tax payment to satisfy company A's liability.

Form of election

- (9) An election under this section must follow the form of an election under section OB 13(5). However, if subsection (3) or (4) apply to transfer a debit or treat an amount of tax as having been paid, company A must also provide a notice of agreement from company B in relation to the amount of excess tax payment.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, company, excess tax payment, group of companies, imputation additional tax, imputation credit, imputation credit account, income tax, income tax liability, loss balance, notice, pay, provisional tax, tax loss, tax pooling account, tax year, ultimate owner, wholly-owned group of companies

OB 72B Limit on using entitlement to refund after joining wholly-owned group

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when—
 - (a) an ICA company joins a wholly-owned group of companies (the new group) from another group of companies (the former group); and
 - (ab) if the former group is not a wholly-owned group of companies, the ICA company has transferred imputation credits under section OB 83 to a company in the former group; and
 - (b) the ICA company is not liable for imputation additional tax under section OB 72(5).

Restricted refund amount for company and new group

- (2) Subsections (3) to (8) apply to an amount (the restricted refund amount) for the ICA company and the new group that is greater than zero and calculated using the formula—refund amount – ICA credit balance.

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula,—
- (a) refund amount is the total of the following amounts, determined immediately before the ICA company joins the new group:
- (i) the amount in the tax pooling account provided by or for the benefit of the ICA company that is more than the company's liability to pay income tax or provisional tax at the time;
 - (ii) the amount of the refund to which the ICA company is entitled under sections RM 2, RM 4, and RM 5 (which relate to refunds of excess tax) other than an amount affected by a restriction under subsection (5) for the company and another group;
- (b) ICA credit balance is the credit balance of the ICA company's imputation credit account immediately before the company joins the new group.

Payment to Commissioner

- (4) If the restricted refund amount is greater than the amount referred to in subsection (3)(a)(ii), the ICA company must pay to the Commissioner an amount equal to the excess and the Commissioner must hold the amount with the balance of the restricted refund amount as if the excess were a refund to which the company were entitled under section RM 2 (Refunds for overpaid tax).

Use of restricted refund amount: former group wholly-owned

- (5) If the former group is a wholly-owned group of companies, the Commissioner must hold the restricted refund amount for the ICA company and the new group subject to the restriction that the amount—
- (a) may be refunded for an imputation credit only if the ICA company satisfies the Commissioner that the credit—
- (i) arises from taxation paid by the ICA company or by a company that is in the same wholly-owned group as the ICA company and was in the former group immediately before the ICA company joined the new group;
 - (ii) is attached to a dividend received in relation to a shareholding by the ICA company or by a company that is in the same wholly-owned group as the ICA company and was in the former group immediately before the ICA company joined the new group and had the shareholding then; and
- (b) may be used to satisfy a tax liability referred to in subsection (5C).

Use of restricted refund amount: former group not wholly-owned

- (5B) If the former group is not a wholly-owned group of companies, the Commissioner must hold the restricted refund amount for the ICA company and the new group subject to the restriction that the amount—

- (a) may be refunded for an imputation credit if—
 - (i) the credit was transferred to the ICA company by a company that was in the former group when the ICA company was in the former group:
 - (ii) the credit arises from taxation paid by the ICA company or by a company that is in the new group and was in the former group immediately before the ICA company joined the new group:
 - (iii) the credit is attached to a dividend received in relation to a shareholding by the ICA company or by a company that is in the new group and was in the former group immediately before the ICA company joined the new group; and
- (b) may be used to satisfy a tax liability referred to in subsection (5C).

Tax liability in subsection (5) or (5B)

(5C) A tax liability referred to in subsection (5) or (5B) is a tax liability of—

- (a) the ICA company:
- (b) a company (the member) that is in the new group with the ICA company, if the ICA company satisfies the Commissioner that the member was in the former group immediately before the ICA company joined the new group.

Restriction additional to other requirements

(6) The restriction imposed by subsection (5) or (5B) on the use of a restricted refund amount is in addition to the requirements under other provisions of the Act for a refund or the satisfaction of a tax liability from an amount to which the ICA company is entitled under sections RM 2, RM 4, and RM 5.

Reducing restricted refund amount

- (7) The restricted refund amount for the ICA company and a group is reduced by the amount of—
- (a) a refund permitted under subsection (5)(a) or (5B)(a) relating to the restricted refund amount:
 - (b) a satisfaction of a tax liability permitted by subsection (5)(b) or (5B)(b) relating to the restricted refund amount:
 - (c) a payment of imputation additional tax under subsection (8) relating to the restricted refund amount:
 - (d) a payment of imputation additional tax under section OB 71(4) relating to the restricted refund amount.

Liability for imputation additional tax

(8) The ICA company is liable for an amount of imputation additional tax equal to the restricted refund amount for the company and a wholly-owned group of companies (the old group) determined immediately after a change in the holding of voting interests in the ICA company if, immediately after the change, a group of people hold common voting interests in the ICA company that exceed, by 67% or more, the common voting interests—

- (a) in the group of companies to which the company belonged immediately before the company joined the old group; and
- (b) that were held by the same people immediately before the company joined the old group.

OP 6 Provisions applying to consolidated imputation groups

Single company, tax liabilities

- (1) The provisions listed in subsection (2) apply, modified as necessary, to a consolidated imputation group and to the imputation credit account of the group as if—
 - (a) the group were a single company; and
 - (b) a reference to a company's liability for further income tax, late payment penalty, or imputation penalty tax were a reference to a joint and several liability owed by group companies when the tax or penalty becomes payable.

Other provisions

- (2) The provisions are—
 - (a) section OB 61 (ICA benchmark dividend rules); and
 - (ab) sections OB 65 and OB 66 (which relate to further income tax); and

Consolidation provisions

- (3) Sections FM 4 and FM 5 (which relate to the liabilities of group companies) override subsection (1)(b).

Tax advantage arrangements and determinations

- (4) Sections GB 35 and GB 36 (which relate to tax advantage arrangements), LE 1(5) (Tax credits for imputation credits), OA 2(5) (Memorandum accounts), and sections 90AF and 104B of the Tax Administration Act 1994 apply, modified as necessary, in a case that involves accounts of a consolidated imputation group as if—
 - (a) the group were a single company; and
 - (b) references to the provisions of this Act or the Tax Administration Act 1994 were references to the equivalent provisions applicable to the equivalent accounts.

However, if an amount is refunded and would not have been payable but for this subsection, section RM 15(1) (Changes in credit balances) applies as if the refund were made in relation to income tax paid by the group.

OZ 5 ASCA lost excess available subscribed capital

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when a public unit trust or a group investment fund that derives category A income—
 - (a) is in existence between 17 October 2002 and 30 September 2003 (both dates inclusive); and
 - (b) has redeemed a unit in the trust or fund; and
 - (c) the slice rule was used to determine the tax treatment of the proceeds from the redemption; and
 - (d) the amount of the available subscribed capital, calculated on a per unit basis, is greater than the proceeds from the redemption for the unit.

Calculating opening balance

- (2) The trust or fund may choose for the period to calculate an opening credit balance using 1 of the methods set out in subsections (3) and (4).

Method 1

- (3) Method 1 requires the trust or fund to calculate the actual amount of available subscribed capital lost, that is the difference, in total, between the amount paid on subscription for a unit and the amount paid on redemption of the unit.

Method 2

- (4) Method 2 requires the trust or fund to make a calculation for the notional winding up of the trust or fund by taking the following steps:
 - (a) step 1: determine the total amount of income tax that would be payable on liquidation, treating the value of assets and liabilities as determined at their market value at the date of the notional liquidation according to provisions applying at that date;
 - (b) step 2: determine the amount of notional credits that are available after notional tax is paid in relation to them:

- (c) step 3: determine the amount of notional credits required to fully impute, for each unit holder, the payment of a redemption dividend, and aggregate the amounts, applying the maximum imputation ratio to the total amount:
- (d) step 4: establish the imputation credit shortfall between the notional credits under step 2 and the credits required under step 3.

Opening balance

- (5) The amount of the opening balance is—
 - (a) the amount of the difference for method 1; and
 - (b) the shortfall referred to in subsection (4)(d) for method 2.

 - (a) non-taxable gains and losses, including exempt income; and
 - (b) imputation credits lost because shareholder continuity is lost; and
 - (c) foreign tax credits; and
 - (d) retained earnings generated before the trust or fund established an imputation credit account.

Date of notional liquidation, orderly calculations

- (7) For the purposes of this section,—
 - (a) the date of notional liquidation is the date chosen by the trust or fund falling in the period referred to in subsection (1)(a):
 - (b) a calculation under this section must be undertaken in a manner consistent with the preparation of financial statements and unit pricing calculations, based on an orderly realisation of assets in the ordinary course of business and demonstrable market valuations.

Defined in this Act: amount, available subscribed capital, business, category A income, company, dividend, exempt income, financial statements, group investment fund, imputation credit, imputation credit account, imputation ratio, liquidation, pay, public unit trust, share, shareholder, slice rule, tax credit

Choice of method

- (1) A person liable to pay provisional tax must calculate the amount payable for a tax year using 1 of the methods described in subsections (2) to (7).

Standard method: 5% uplift

- (2) Under the standard method, the amount of provisional tax payable for the tax year is 105% of the person's residual income tax for the preceding tax year, determined under section RC 6. Subsection (3) overrides this subsection.

Standard method: 10% uplift

- (3) Despite subsection (2), the amount of provisional tax payable for the tax year is 110% of the person's residual income tax for the tax year before the preceding tax year if—
 - (a) they are required to provide a return of income for the preceding tax year; and

- (b) the return is not due on or before the date on which the first payment of provisional tax for the tax year is required through the application of section 37 of the Tax Administration Act 1994, or an extension granted under that section; and
- (c) they have not provided the return on or before that date; and
- (d) the date is not the date of instalment F for the corresponding income year.

Relationships and modification of standard method

- (4) Subsections (5) to (7) override subsection (3). Sections RZ 3 (Standard method: 2010–11 to 2012–13 income years) and RZ 5D (Standard method or GST method: transition for Maori authorities) modify subsections (2) and (3).

Estimation method

- (5) The person may estimate their provisional tax liability for the tax year under section RC 7.

GST ratio method

- (6) A person who is eligible under section RC 16 and not excluded by section RC 17 may choose to use a goods and services tax (GST) ratio under section RC 8 to determine their provisional tax liability for the tax year.

Commissioner's determination

- (7) If the Commissioner determines a person's provisional tax liability under section 119 of the Tax Administration Act 1994, the amount or liability is that last determined by the Commissioner and notified to the person at least 30 days before the instalment date. The 30-day requirement does not apply in a case to which section 119(1)(d) of that Act applies (which relates to an estimate of residual income tax that is not fair and reasonable).

Life insurance business

- (8) A person who carries on a business of providing life insurance and who is liable for income tax under the life insurance rules, must at the time they determine their provisional tax liability provide the Commissioner with details of the calculation of that liability. Commissioner's assessment for preceding tax year

- (3) The person's residual income tax is based on the Commissioner's assessment for the preceding tax year, whenever the assessment is made, if—
- (a) they are required under sections 33 and 37 of the Tax Administration Act 1994 to provide a return of income for the preceding tax year but have failed to do so by the relevant instalment date; or

- (5) If the Commissioner's assessment of a person's income tax liability occurs after the payment date for an instalment of provisional tax and would result in an increase in the person's residual income tax for the preceding tax year, the residual income tax is treated for the purposes of the provisional tax rules as if it had not been increased.

- (2) On or before an instalment date, the person may make a fair and reasonable estimate of their residual income tax for the tax year by informing the Commissioner of the estimate. The amount of provisional tax payable for a tax year is the amount of the estimated residual income tax.

Revising estimates

- (3) On or before an instalment date, the person may choose to revise an estimate made under subsection (2). The amount last estimated is the amount taken into account under section RC 5(5).

Reasonable care in making and maintaining assessment

- (4) A person who makes an estimate under subsection (2) must take reasonable care in making it, and must revise the estimate for the tax year if, at some time in the tax year, the amount estimated is no longer fair and reasonable.

Estimation higher than provisional tax payable

- (5) If a person's estimate is more than the provisional tax that is payable for the tax year, they are treated as having taken reasonable care in making the estimate.

Changing calculation method from GST ratio

- (6) If, under section RC 18(5), a person changes the way they determine the amount of provisional tax after the date of an instalment, they must estimate their residual income tax for their corresponding income year, and must pay provisional tax on whichever of the following instalment dates for the income year occur after 30 days from their last ratio instalment date:

- (a) C and F for changes to a 6-monthly GST taxable period:
(b) B, D, and F for other changes.

RC 8 GST ratio method*Using GST ratio*

- (1) A person liable to pay provisional tax who meets the requirements of section RC 16 and is not excluded by section RC 17 may choose to use a GST ratio to determine the amount of provisional tax payable for a tax year.

Meaning of GST ratio

- (2) The person's GST ratio is the percentage figure that is obtained by dividing their residual income tax for the preceding tax year by their total taxable supplies for the corresponding income year. The amount of residual income tax and the amount of total taxable supplies are called base amounts for the purposes of this section.

When amounts based on tax year before preceding tax year

- (3) If a base amount for the preceding tax year or corresponding income year is not known, the GST ratio is the percentage based on the assessment for the tax year and corresponding income year that are just before the preceding tax year and corresponding income year.

When no assessment for tax year before preceding tax year

- (3B) Subsection (3) does not apply and the GST ratio is the percentage based on the assessments of the base amounts for the year that is 2 years before the preceding tax year if—

- (a) for the year before the preceding tax year—
 - (i) an assessment of a base amount has not been made and the absence of an assessment arises because of an extension of time for filing a return for the year, or a period in the year;
 - (ii) an assessment of a base amount is the subject of a dispute or challenge under the Tax Administration Act 1994;
 - (iii) the year is a transitional year; and
- (b) for the year that is 2 years before the preceding tax year—
 - (i) the base amounts have been assessed; and
 - (ii) the circumstances in paragraph (a)(ii) and (iii) do not exist.

Commissioner's calculation

- (4) The Commissioner must calculate a person's GST ratio, informing them by—
 - (a) including the percentage figure on the person's preprinted GST return form; or
 - (b) [Repealed]
 - (c) some other means.

Adjustment to GST ratio

- (5) The Commissioner must adjust a person's GST ratio if a base amount is revised through, among other reasons,—
 - (a) an assessment or an amended assessment of the person's income tax return for the preceding tax year; or
 - (b) a change in the value of the total taxable supplies for the corresponding income year; or
 - (c) the disposal of an asset to which section RC 19 applies.

New GST ratio

- (6) When subsection (5) applies, the Commissioner must inform the person of the new GST ratio. The new ratio applies in relation to the relevant instalment dates that occur 30 days after the date on which the person is informed.

Transitional years

- (7) If a person has paid instalments of provisional tax in a transitional year, for the tax year that follows the transitional year, for the purposes of this section and section RC 11, they must—
 - (a) ignore the transitional year when determining their residual income tax or total taxable supplies; and
 - (b) base their determination of residual income tax and total taxable supplies on the tax year preceding the transitional year.

When no assessment for tax year before preceding tax year

- (7B) Subsection (7) does not apply and the GST ratio is the percentage based on the assessments of the base amounts for the year that is 2 years before the transitional year if—
- (a) for the year before the transitional year—
 - (i) an assessment of a base amount has not been made and the absence of an assessment arises because of an extension of time for filing a return for the year, or a period in the year:
 - (ii) an assessment of a base amount is the subject of a dispute or challenge under the Tax Administration Act 1994:
 - (iii) the year is a transitional year; and
 - (b) for the year that is 2 years before the transitional year—
 - (i) the base amounts have been assessed; and
 - (ii) the circumstances in paragraph (a)(ii) and (iii) do not exist.

Total taxable supplies

- (8) In subsections (2), (5), and (7), and in sections RC 11, RC 19, and RC 31, total taxable supplies, for a person and a period, means the amount that is the total value of taxable supplies by the person for the period. The amount includes the GST charged on the supplies.

Modification

- (9) Sections RZ 4 (GST ratio method: 2010–11 to 2013–14 income years) and RZ 5D (Standard method or GST method: transition for Maori authorities) modify this section.

Instalments of provisional tax

RC 9 Provisional tax payable in instalments

Who this section applies to

- (1) This section applies to a person who is liable to pay provisional tax.

General principle

- (2) For a person liable to pay provisional tax using the standard and estimation methods, the amount of the provisional tax liability must be spread evenly over the applicable number of instalments, so that equal amounts are paid on each instalment date. If the full amount is not divisible into exactly equal instalments, the final instalment carries the difference.

Provisional tax payable in 3 instalments

- (3) A person pays provisional tax in 3 instalments on the interest instalment dates for the tax year in the months set out in schedule 3, part A, columns B, D, and F (Payment of provisional tax and terminal tax) for the person's corresponding income year. The amount of each instalment is calculated under section RC 10. Subsection (4) overrides this subsection.

Exclusions

- (4) Subsection (3) does not apply—
- (a) to a person liable to pay provisional tax who—
 - (i) pays GST on a 6-monthly basis; or
 - (ii) uses a GST ratio to determine the amount of provisional tax payable, or who changes their calculation method under section RC 18(5); or
 - (iii) changes the cycle of their taxable periods under section 15C of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985:
 - (b) to a person with an initial provisional tax liability who—
 - (i) pays GST on a 6-monthly basis; or
 - (ii) pays GST on a monthly or 2-monthly basis, and starts a taxable activity within 30 days before the date of instalment B in their corresponding income year:
 - (c) to a person liable to pay provisional tax who has not provided a return of income for the preceding tax year, and whose residual income tax for the tax year before the preceding tax year was $2,500 or less:
 - (d) in a transitional year.

Provisional tax when GST paid on 6-monthly basis

- (5) A person liable to pay provisional tax who pays GST on a 6-monthly basis must pay provisional tax on the 2 instalment dates for the tax year in the months set out in schedule 3, part A, columns C and F for their corresponding income year. This subsection applies to a person with an initial provisional tax liability other than 1 who pays GST on a 6-monthly basis and starts a taxable activity within 30 days before the date of instalment C.

Provisional tax determined using GST ratio

- (6) A person liable to pay provisional tax who uses a GST ratio to determine the amount of provisional tax payable for a tax year, must pay provisional tax on the 6 ratio instalment dates in the months set out in schedule 3, part A, columns A to F for their corresponding income year. The amount of each instalment is calculated under section RC 11.

Changing calculation method

- (7) A person who is unable or who decides not to use a GST ratio, changing their calculation method under section RC 18, must pay the provisional tax payable for the tax year on the relevant instalment dates under the replacement method. The amount of each instalment is calculated under section RC 10.

Changing cycle of taxable periods

- (8) A person who changes the cycle of their taxable periods under section 15C of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985 must pay provisional tax for the tax year on the instalment dates set out in section RC 27 after the change in taxable period takes effect. The amount of each instalment is calculated under section RC 10.

Persons with initial provisional tax liability

- (9) A person with a new provisional tax liability who starts a taxable activity in a tax year is liable to pay interest calculated under section 120KC of the Tax Administration Act 1994 as if they were liable to pay provisional tax for the tax year—
- (a) in 3 instalments under subsection (3) if they start a taxable activity at some time in the period that starts at the beginning of the corresponding income year and ends 30 days before the date of instalment B:
 - (b) in 2 instalments—
 - (i) in a case to which section RC 13 applies; or
 - (ii) if they pay GST on a 6-monthly basis and start a taxable activity at some time in the period that starts at the beginning of the corresponding income year and ends 30 days before the date of instalment C:
 - (c) in 1 instalment in a case to which section RC 14 applies.

Extension of time for return

- (10) A person who has not provided a return of income for a preceding tax year and whose residual income tax for the tax year before the preceding tax year was $2,500 or less must pay provisional tax for the tax year on the instalment dates set out in section RC 13 or RC 14, as applicable.

Transitional years

- (11) In a transitional year, provisional tax is payable as set out in section RC 21 and schedule 3, part B. The amount of each instalment is calculated under sections RC 22 to RC 24.

Voluntary payments

- (12) A person liable to pay provisional tax may pay an instalment under section RC 12 at any time.

 - (d) sections RC 26 and RC 27 (which relate to changes in taxable periods).

Calculation

- (2) The amount of an instalment of provisional tax is calculated using the formula—

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula,—
 - (a) residual income tax is a person's residual income tax, as applicable—

 - (ii) for the tax year before the preceding tax year, uplifted by 10% (modified as applicable by sections RZ 5 and RZ 5D); or
 - (iii) the amount estimated by them:
 - (b) instalment number is the number of the instalment for the tax year, whether first, second, or third:
 - (c) total instalments is the total number of instalments for the tax year:
 - (d) provisional tax is the amount of a person's provisional tax liabilities for the tax year to date.

Instalment amounts after change in balance date or taxable period

- (4) If a change occurs to the balance date or cycle of a person's taxable periods, the calculation of the amount of an instalment is made under this section, applying the updated figures to the items in the formula.

RC 11 Calculating amount of instalment using GST ratio

Calculation

- (1) For a person who uses a GST ratio, the amount of provisional tax payable on an instalment date for a tax year is calculated using the formula—

GST ratio for tax year × total taxable supplies.

Definition of item in formula

- (2) In the formula, total taxable supplies is the amount of the person's total taxable supplies in the taxable period that matches the instalment period.

Taxable supplies when person pays on monthly basis

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (1), a person who pays GST on a 1-month cycle under section 15 of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985 must apply the GST ratio to the sum of their taxable supplies in the current taxable period and the preceding taxable period, that is, the taxable supplies in the 2-month period matching the instalment period.

Modification

- (4) Sections RZ 4 (GST ratio method: 2010–11 to 2013–14 income years) and RZ 5D (Standard method or GST method: transition for Maori authorities) modify this section.

Defined in this Act: amount, GST, GST ratio, instalment date, pay, provisional tax, tax year, taxable period, taxable supply, total taxable supplies

RC 18 Changing calculation method

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies if, after having chosen to use a GST ratio for a tax year, a person liable to pay provisional tax either—
- (a) chooses another way to calculate the amount of provisional tax payable for the tax year; or
 - (b) is required under section RC 17(1) or (2) to stop using a GST ratio for the corresponding income year.

Informing Commissioner of decision to change

- (2) The person must inform the Commissioner of their decision under subsection (1)(a). Subsection (4) or (5) then applies for the remaining instalments of provisional tax for the tax year.

Date on which use of GST ratio stopped

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (1)(b), the date on which the person stops using a GST ratio is, as applicable,—
- (a) the date their GST registration ends; or

- (b) the date of the amended assessment of their income tax liability or GST liability for the preceding tax year; or
- (bb) the date the person's return of income referred to in section RC 17(1)(bb) is received by the Commissioner; or
- (c) the effective date of a change in taxable period; or
- (d) the last day of the period in which a return is liable to be provided under the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985.

Changing method before date of instalment A

- (4) If the person is unable or decides not to use a GST ratio before the date of instalment A, and section RC 3(3) does not apply, they may choose to determine the amount of provisional tax payable under section RC 5(2), (3) or (5). The person is treated as never having chosen to use the GST ratio method and, for the purposes of section 120KE(5) of the Tax Administration Act 1994, as never having changed the way they determine an amount of provisional tax under this section.

Changing method after instalment date

- (5) If the person is unable or decides not to use the GST ratio after an instalment date, and section RC 3(3) does not apply, they must determine the amount of provisional tax payable on instalment for the remainder of the income year under section RC 5(5) using the estimation method. The person must inform the Commissioner of the estimate.

Date of application when method changed

- (6) If the person changes their calculation method under subsection (4) or (5), and the change is not required by section RC 17(1)(bb), the date on which the change applies may be a future date agreed between the person and the Commissioner.

Other consequences of changing method

- (7) For the purposes of this section,—
 - (a) the number of instalments and the instalment dates remaining for an income year depend on—
 - (i) the requirements of the method chosen by the person when they stop using the GST ratio; and
 - (ii) the cycle of taxable periods chosen by the person, being either a monthly or 2-monthly basis:
 - (b) a person may change from using a GST ratio to a 6-monthly cycle of taxable periods only if—
 - (i) the requirements of section 15C of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985 are met; and
 - (ii) their 6-month taxable period is aligned with their balance date under section 15B of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985:

- (c) section 120KE(5) to (7) of the Tax Administration Act 1994 applies in deciding whether use of money interest is payable in relation to instalments under the new method.

RD 23 Bonds given by employers of certain non-resident employees*When this section applies*

- (1) This section applies if it cannot reasonably be determined at the time an employer or PAYE intermediary is required to withhold the amount of tax for a PAYE income payment whether the payment will be exempt income of an employee under either section CW 19 (Amounts derived during short-term visits) or a double tax agreement.

Providing bond

- (2) The employer or PAYE intermediary may apply to the Commissioner to be released from their obligation to withhold the amount by providing a bond or other security for the amount that would be required to be withheld but for this section.

Consequences of acceptance of bond

- (3) If the Commissioner accepts the bond or security referred to in subsection (2),—
 - (a) the employer or PAYE intermediary must not withhold the amount of tax for a PAYE income payment to the employee; and
 - (b) information concerning the employee must not be included in an employer monthly schedule; and
 - (c) the no notification rate referred to in section 24B(3)(h) of the Tax Administration Act 1994 must not be used in relation to the PAYE income payment.

When subsection (3) no longer applies

- (4) If the employee later becomes liable to pay income tax because of an event provided for in an arrangement made under section BH 1 (Double tax agreements) or CW 19, the application of subsection (3) ends, and the employer or PAYE intermediary must withhold the amount of tax for a PAYE income payment made to the employee.

Employee's liability

- (5) If the Commissioner considers that the employee is liable for income tax in relation to a PAYE income payment from which no amount of tax is withheld because of the application of subsection (3), the Commissioner must notify the employer or PAYE intermediary, as applicable. The employer or intermediary must then account for and pay the total amount of tax for all PAYE income payments that would have been due, or a lesser amount as the Commissioner determines.

Treatment of amount paid under subsection (5)

- (6) An amount paid to the Commissioner under subsection (5) is treated as the amount of tax for a PAYE income payment made on the date of the Commissioner's notice. Section 120U of the Tax Administration Act 1994 overrides this subsection.

Defined in this Act: amount, amount of tax, apply, arrangement, Commissioner, double tax agreement, employee, employer, employer monthly schedule, exempt income, income tax, notice, notify, pay, PAYE income payment, PAYE intermediary

 - (c) the contractor has in the period of 24 months before the date of the application referred to in subsection (2) paid all income tax payable by them and complied with their obligations under the Inland Revenue Acts, and the Commissioner is satisfied that the contractor will continue to do this.

Value of fringe benefits

RD 27 Determining fringe benefit values

What sections RD 28 to RD 53 do

- (1) Sections RD 28 to RD 53 set out the rules for determining the value of a fringe benefit provided by an employer to an employee in connection with their employment. The taxable value of a fringe benefit when an employee pays an amount for receiving the benefit is dealt with in sections RD 54 to RD 57.

When value cannot be ascertained

RD 28 Private use of motor vehicle: calculation methods

What this section does

- (1) This section limits the way an employer may use a method for calculating the value of the benefit that they provide to an employee by making a motor vehicle available for the employee's private use.

Choosing method in first return

- (2) When a person first files a return relating to a vehicle for the purposes of this section, they may calculate the value of the benefit using either of the valuation methods set out in schedule 5 (Fringe benefit values for motor vehicles).

Using method in first return

- (3) The person must use the method chosen in the first return referred to in subsection (2) in calculating the value of the benefit for the length of time—
- (a) starting after the end of the period of the first return; and

- (b) continuing to the earliest of the following dates:
 - (i) the date of the disposal of the vehicle;
 - (ii) the date on which the vehicle ceases to be leased by the employer or an associated person without a consecutive or successive lease of the vehicle by them;
 - (iii) the date that is 5 years after start of the period of the first return.

Returns after 5 years

- (4) In a return relating to the vehicle for a period beginning 5 years or more after the start of the period of the first return, the person may calculate the value of the benefit using either of the valuation methods set out in schedule 5.

Cost price valuation method

- (5) Despite subsections (3) and (4), the person must apply schedule 5, clause 1 or 2, using the cost price valuation method if—
 - (a) the vehicle is owned, leased, or rented by the employer or an associated person; and
 - (b) the employer or the associated person owned, leased, or rented the vehicle—
 - (i) during the period of the first return, if the period begins before 1 April 2006;
 - (ii) before 1 April 2006.

Exception: vehicle not subject to arrangement

- (6) Subsection (5) does not apply if a first return for the vehicle is for a period that starts on or after 1 April 2006 and the vehicle is not the subject of an agreement or arrangement referred to in section CX 7 (Employer or associated person treated as having right to use vehicle under arrangement).

Exception: 5 years after first return

- (7) Subsection (5) does not apply if the person owns the vehicle and a period of 5 years or more since the start of the period of the first return has elapsed.

Defined in this Act: arrangement, associated person, employee, employer, lease, motor vehicle, private use

Compare: 2004 No 35 s ND 1A(1)–(1D)

RD 29 Private use of motor vehicle: formulas

What this section does

- (1) This section sets out the formulas for calculating the value of the benefit that an employer provides to an employee by making a motor vehicle available for their private use.

Quarterly payment

- (2) If FBT is paid quarterly, the value of the benefit is calculated using the formula—

$$\text{days} \times \text{schedule 5 amount} \div 90.$$

Annual payment

- (3) If FBT is paid on an annual basis, the value of the benefit is the total of the amounts calculated under subsection (2) for the 4 quarters in the applicable tax year.

Payment by income year

- (4) If FBT is paid on an income year basis, the value of the benefit is calculated using the formula—

$$\text{days} \times \text{schedule 5 amount} \div 365.$$

Definition of items in formulas

- (5) In the formula,—
- (a) in subsection (2), days refers to the number of days in the quarter on which the vehicle is made available for private use, reduced by the number of days on which the vehicle was a work-related vehicle, or 90, whichever is less:
 - (b) in subsection (4), days refers to the number of days in the income year on which the vehicle is made available for private use, reduced by the number of days on which the vehicle was a work-related vehicle:
 - (c) in subsections (2) and (4), schedule 5 amount refers to the amount calculated under schedule 5 (Fringe benefit values for motor vehicles) as the value of the benefit that would have been received for unlimited private use of the vehicle in that quarter or income year, as applicable.

Test period

- (6) To calculate the value of the benefit, an employer may choose to use a test period under section RD 31 to establish private use.

Defined in this Act: amount, employee, employer, FBT, income year, motor vehicle, private use, quarter, tax year, work-related vehicle

Compare: 2004 No 35 s ND 1A(2)–(6)

RD 30 Private use of motor vehicle: 24-hour period

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for the purposes of a calculation of the value of a benefit under section RD 29.

Meaning of day

- (2) In section RD 29(5)(a) and (b), in relation to a motor vehicle and the item days in the formulas, a day is—

- (a) a 24-hour period starting from a time in a day that a person who owns or leases the vehicle chooses; or
- (b) a 24-hour period starting at midnight if paragraph (a) does not apply.

Choosing starting point and notifying Commissioner

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2)(a), the person must—
 - (a) choose a starting point for the day that is a whole number of an hour after midnight; and
 - (b) notify the Commissioner of their election when filing the next return relating to the vehicle.

Elections

- (4) An election under subsection (2)(a)—
 - (a) is effective from the start of the quarter, income year, or tax year to which a return relates; and
 - (b) applies to all vehicles in relation to which the person files a return.

Hour applying for 2 income years

- (5) If the person chooses under subsection (3)(a) a particular hour in the 24-hour period as the starting point of the day, that hour continues to apply to the use of the vehicle from the start of the relevant quarter, income year, or tax year, as applicable, for a minimum period of 2 income years.

When circumstances change

- (6) An employer may apply to the Commissioner to amend the starting point of the 24-hour period, or to treat the election as revoked, if the employer's circumstances have changed in a way that—
 - (a) is more than minor; and
 - (b) makes the starting point no longer relevant to the employer's business.

Defined in this Act: apply, business, Commissioner, day, employer, income year, motor vehicle, notify, quarter, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s ND 1AB

Section RD 30(6): amended, on 2 June 2016, by section 58(1) of the Taxation (Transformation: First Phase Simplification and Other Measures) Act 2016 (2016 No 27).

Section RD 30 list of defined terms apply: inserted, on 2 June 2016, by section 58(2) of the Taxation (Transformation: First Phase Simplification and Other Measures) Act 2016 (2016 No 27).

RD 31 Motor vehicle test period

Recording details for test period

- (1) To establish the value of the benefit provided through a motor vehicle being made available to an employee for their private use, an employer may choose to record the details of the use of the vehicle by the employee for a test period.

Number used in calculations

- (2) The number of days on which a vehicle is available for an employee's private use that is ascertained in the test period is the number used in the calculation in section RD 29(2). For the calculation in section RD 29(4), the relevant number is the number of days ascertained in the test period multiplied by 4.

Quarter or 3 months for test period

- (3) If FBT is paid quarterly or annually, the test period is a quarter. If FBT is paid on an income year basis, the test period is 3 consecutive months of an income year.

Period showing pattern of use

- (4) The employer must—
- (a) choose a test period that shows, or is likely to show, a pattern of use of the motor vehicle by the employee that fairly represents the use of the vehicle by the employee over the whole of the applicable term; and
 - (b) keep a record of the test period, including accurate details of the days in the period on which the vehicle is available for the employee's private use.

Work-related vehicles

- (5) In subsection (4), a day on which the vehicle is a work-related vehicle is treated as a day on which the vehicle is not available for private use.

Term of 3 years

- (6) The number of days of availability for private use ascertained in the test period applies for a term of 3 years. The term starts, as applicable, as follows:
- (a) if FBT is paid quarterly, on the first day of the test period;
 - (b) if FBT is paid on an annual basis, on the first day of the tax year in which the test period occurs;
 - (c) if FBT is paid on an income year basis, on the first day of the income year in which the test period occurs.

Reduction of term

- (7) The term referred to in subsection (6) is reduced if the number of days of actual private use of the motor vehicle is 20%, or more than 20%, higher than the number ascertained in the test period. In this case, the term ends on the last day of the applicable quarter, year, or income year. If the employer chooses to start another test period, the existing term ends just before the start of the new term.

When test period no longer representative

- (8) If the Commissioner considers that the result ascertained in the test period does not, or does no longer, fairly represent the actual private use of the motor vehicle by the employee, the Commissioner may notify the employer that the term will end on a particular date. Following notification, the employer must not use that result again.

Defined in this Act: Commissioner, employee, employer, FBT, income year, motor vehicle, notify, private use, quarter, tax year, work-related vehicle

Compare: 2004 No 35 s ND 1B(1)–(6)

RD 32 Replacement motor vehicles

For the purposes of section RD 31, a replacement motor vehicle is treated in the same way as the vehicle it replaces if the result ascertained in the test period is likely to be fairly representative of the average availability for the private use of the vehicle during the term.

Defined in this Act: motor vehicle, private use

Compare: 2004 No 35 s ND 1B(7)

RD 33 Subsidised transport

Percentage of highest public fare

- (1) The value of a benefit that an employer provides to their employee in subsidised transport is 25% of the highest fare the employer charges the public for the equivalent transport in terms of class, extent, and occasion. This subsection is overridden by subsection (2).

When benefit provided under arrangement

- (2) Despite section CX 2(2) (Meaning of fringe benefit), if the fringe benefit is provided under an arrangement with a third person, the value of the benefit is determined under subsection (3).

Percentage or actual payment

- (3) If a third person provides the employee with subsidised transport under an arrangement with their employer, the value of the benefit is the greatest of—
- (a) 25% of the highest fare the employer charges the public for the equivalent transport in terms of class, extent, and occasion; and
 - (b) 25% of the highest fare the third person charges the public for the equivalent transport in terms of class, extent, and occasion, if the third person is a company in the same group of companies as the employer; and
 - (c) the amount that the employer has paid or is liable to pay the person for the benefit provided.

RF 2 Non-resident passive income

Interest, certain dividends, and royalties

- (1) Non-resident passive income means income having a source in New Zealand that a non-resident derives and that consists of—
- (a) a dividend other than an investment society dividend:
 - (b) a royalty:
 - (c) an investment society dividend when the non-resident is not engaged in business in New Zealand through a fixed establishment in New Zealand:
 - (d) interest, other than interest derived in the circumstances set out in subsection (2B):
 - (e) non-resident financial arrangement income.

Inclusion: Capital value increase under inflation-indexed instruments

- (1B) Non-resident passive income includes an amount, arising at the time of a relevant coupon payment (the current coupon payment) equal to the amount given by the formula in section RE 18B(4) (Capital value increase under inflation-indexed instruments: RWT cap) in relation to the current coupon payment, if that current coupon payment is—

- (a) non-resident passive income under subsection (1); and
- (b) in relation to an inflation-indexed instrument.

Exclusions

(2) The following amounts derived by a non-resident are excluded from non-resident passive income:

- (a) an amount of exempt income:
- (b) interest arising because section EI 2 (Interest from inflation-indexed instruments) applies to an inflation-indexed instrument:
- (c) an amount of excluded income under sections CX 56B and CX 56C (which relate to attributed PIE income), as applicable.

Interest exceptions

(2B) Subsection (1)(d) does not include interest derived from money lent by a non-resident—

- (a) for the purposes of a business they carry on in New Zealand through a fixed establishment in New Zealand; or
- (b) when the non-resident is—
 - (i) a registered bank engaged in business in New Zealand through a fixed establishment in New Zealand; and
 - (ii) not associated with the person to whom the money is lent; or
- (c) that has given rise to non-resident financial arrangement income under section RF 12E(1).

(3) Subsection (4) applies in an income year when a person derives non-resident passive income consisting of—

- (a) a dividend other than an investment society dividend:
- (b) a royalty for the use, production, or reproduction of, or for the right to use, produce, or reproduce, a literary, dramatic, musical, or artistic work in which copyright subsists:

- (d) interest or an investment society dividend when the person paying and the person deriving the interest or dividend are not associated persons:
- (e) interest when the person paying the interest is a member of a New Zealand banking group.

Final withholding

- (4) If the person is a filing taxpayer, the schedular income tax liability for the corresponding tax year under section BC 7 (Income tax liability of person with schedular income) for non-resident passive income referred to in subsection (3) is determined by the amount of tax required to be withheld under this Part.

Exception: minimum amount

- (5) Despite subsection (4), if a person derives non-resident passive income consisting of interest, investment society dividends, or a royalty other than those described in subsection (3), the person's income tax liability for the corresponding tax year is the greater of—
- (a) the sum of the total non-resident withholding tax (NRWT) for which they are liable and the amount that would be their income tax liability for the tax year if they had not derived non-resident passive income in the tax year:
 - (b) the amount that would be their income tax liability in the absence of this subsection.

Company deriving minimum amount

- (6) For the purposes of subsection (5) for a company, if the total amount of non-resident passive income and other income derived by the company in the corresponding tax year is not more than $1,000, the income tax liability of the company for the tax year is the sum referred to in subsection (5)(a).

Application of financial arrangements rules

- (7) The financial arrangements rules do not apply to the calculation of an amount of non-resident passive income except to the extent to which the amount is non-resident financial arrangement income or an amount to which subpart FG (Treatment of notional loans to New Zealand branches of foreign banks) applies.

Interest payable by Commissioner

- (8) For interest payable under Part 7 of the Tax Administration Act 1994, NRWT withheld by the Commissioner is treated as paid on the date it is withheld. Section 100 and Part 9 of that Act do not apply to the Commissioner and that interest, but the other provisions of the NRWT rules do apply.

RF 2B Non-resident financial arrangement income: outline and concepts

What this section does

- (1) This section applies for the purposes of sections RF 2C, and RF 12D to RF 12J to provide an outline of the provisions relating to the taxation of non-resident financial arrangement income and to describe the key terms used in the provisions. This section—
 - (a) operates only as an aid to understanding; and
 - (b) does not override the definition of any term used in this Act; and
 - (c) does not prevail in any case where a conflict arises between this section and another provision of this Act.

Purpose

- (2) The purpose of the rules for non-resident financial arrangement income is to ensure that the payment of NRWT on interest derived by a related-party lender is aligned with deductions for expenditure that a borrower has under the financial arrangements rules.

Key concepts

- (3) The following are the key concepts:
 - (a) non-resident financial arrangement income, which is the equivalent of interest derived by a lender, see section RF 2C:
 - (b) related-party debt which is a financial arrangement between associated persons, or persons who are regarded as associated, that provides funds to a borrower who is allowed a deduction for expenditure under the arrangement, see section RF 12H (Meaning of related-party debt):
 - (c) indirect associated funding which is an arrangement involving some form of back-to-back lending, see section RF 12I (Concepts used for definition of related-party debt).

When does a lender derive non-resident financial arrangement income?

- (4) An offshore lender will derive non-resident financial arrangement income when—
- (a) they are associated with or related to a borrower who is resident in New Zealand; and
 - (b) the funding is provided through a financial arrangement that is a related-party debt; and
 - (c) interest payments on the arrangement are deferred when compared to interest deductions by the borrower; and
 - (d) the borrower's expenditure on related-party debt is more than a de minimis amount.

How is the income calculated?

- (5) The non-resident financial arrangement income of a lender is aligned with the amount of the expenditure incurred by the borrower on related-party debt, see section RF 12D.

What are first year adjustments?

- (6) An adjustment is made for the first year in which a lender derives non-resident financial arrangement income. The lender is treated as having derived an additional amount that is sufficient to reverse the deferral described in subsection (4)(c), see section RF 12F.

How is the income taxed?

- (7) The lender's income is non-resident passive income from which NRWT must be withheld, see section RF 2.

Defined in this Act: amount, approved issuer, associated person, deduction, financial arrangement, financial arrangements rules, interest, non-resident financial arrangement income, non-resident passive income, NRWT, pay, related-party debt, resident in New Zealand

Section RF 2B: inserted, on 30 March 2017, by section 274 (and see section 5) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

RF 2C Meaning of non-resident financial arrangement income

When this section applies

- (1) This section, and sections RF 12D to RF 12J, apply for the purposes of the NRWT rules when—
- (a) a person (the borrower) is—
 - (i) resident in New Zealand; or
 - (ii) a non-resident carrying on a business in New Zealand through a fixed establishment in New Zealand; and
 - (b) the borrower is party to a financial arrangement with a non-resident (the lender) through which funding is provided to the borrower, other than funding provided by the lender through a fixed establishment in New Zealand; and

- (c) the financial arrangement—
 - (i) gives rise to non-resident passive income under section RF 2(1)(d); or
 - (ii) would give rise to income referred to in subparagraph (i) in the absence of section RF 2(2B)(c).

Meaning of non-resident financial arrangement income

- (2) Non-resident financial arrangement income, for a financial arrangement and an income year, means an amount having a source in New Zealand that is accrued on a related-party debt and derived by a lender in the income year when—
 - (a) non-resident financial arrangement income was derived in relation to the arrangement by a lender in an earlier income year; or
 - (b) the following requirements are met for the income year:
 - (i) the total expenditure incurred by the borrower on related-party debt is more than the de minimis set out in subsection (3); and
 - (ii) in relation to the financial arrangement, the deferral calculation set out in subsection (4) is less than 90%.

Related-party de minimis

- (3) The de minimis applies when the total expenditure on all related-party debt incurred in the previous income year under the financial arrangements rules by the borrower, and all companies that are in the same group of companies as the borrower, is $40,000 or less.

Deferral calculation

- (4) Subject to subsection (6), the deferral calculation referred to in subsection (2)(b)(ii) is the percentage calculated using the formula—

$$\text{accumulated payments} \div \text{accumulated accruals}.$$

Definition of items in formula

- (5) In the formula,—
 - (a) accumulated payments for the income year is the total interest paid in relation to the financial arrangement by the borrower for the period that—
 - (i) starts on the day on which the financial arrangement first meets the requirements for a related-party debt; and
 - (ii) ends on the NRFAI due date for the borrower's income year:
 - (b) accumulated accruals is an amount equal to the total expenditure that the borrower incurs under the arrangement when the arrangement is a related-party debt for the period that—

- (i) starts on the day on which the financial arrangement first meets the requirements for a related-party debt; and
- (ii) ends on the last day of the income year before the income year referred to in paragraph (a)(ii).

When calculation treated as more than 90%

- (6) For the purposes of the calculation in subsection (4), the result of the formula is treated as more than 90% if—
 - (a) the item accumulated accruals is zero:
 - (b) the date in subsection (5)(b)(ii) occurs before the date in subsection (5)(b)(i).

NRFAI due date

- (7) The NRFAI due date, for a financial arrangement, is the due date for the payment of NRWT for the period that ends on the last day of the second month following the end of an income year.

Foreign exchange movements

- (8) For the purposes of subsections (4) and (5), the calculation of total interest and total expenditure must be made in the currency of the financial arrangement.

Choosing to disregard de minimis and deferral calculation

- (9) See section RF 12G for elections to disregard the related-party de minimis and the deferral calculation.

Example

Three years ago, NZ Sub A Ltd (A) borrowed NZ$1m from a non-resident associate (Foreign Lender Ltd). A's financial arrangement expenditure on this arrangement for each year has been $42,000, $50,000 and $53,000. For the same 3-year period, A has paid interest of $19,000, $20,000 and $21,000. At the end of the second year, the deferral calculation is $($19,000 + $20,000) \div $42,000 = 92.9\%$, so no NRFAI arises. However, at the end of the third year the deferral calculation is $($19,000 + $20,000 + $21,000) \div ($42,000 + $50,000) = 65.2\%$. As this is below 90%, NRFAI arises for the first time in the third year. The NRFAI will be treated as paid under section RF 12E on the last day of the second month after A's balance date.

Defined in this Act: amount, amount of tax, approved issuer, associated person, company, financial arrangement, financial arrangements rules, fixed establishment, income year, interest, money lent, non-resident, non-resident financial arrangement income, non-resident passive income, New Zealand, New Zealand banking group, NRFAI due date, NRWT, NRWT rules, pay, related-party debt, resident in New Zealand, source in New Zealand

- (4) For financial arrangements involving related-party debt, the spreading method that must be applied in determining the amount incurred is the method used by the borrower for the financial arrangement under subpart EW (Financial arrangements rules) excluding the following methods for which another spreading method must be substituted:

- (a) the fair value method:

- (b) the market valuation method under section EW 18 (Market valuation method).

Foreign exchange movements

- (5) The calculation of total interest and total expenditure must be made in the currency of the financial arrangement.

When lender's income zero

- (6) In the calculation of non-resident financial arrangement income, if the borrower has income on the related-party debt, the amount derived by the lender is treated as zero.

Part years

- (7) For the purposes of subsection (1), a reference to an income year includes a reference to a part of an income year.

Example

NZ Sub B Ltd (B) has borrowed US$100m from its non-resident parent and will repay US$125m in 5 years' time. Calculated in US dollars, the financial arrangement expenditure for each year is US$4m, US$4.5m, US$5m, US$5.5m, and US$6m respectively. B must calculate NRFAI in US dollars for each year then, for the purposes of paying NRWT, convert this into NZ dollars using the currency conversion in subpart YF (Currency conversion). B has also entered into a hedge to buy US $125m in 5 years' time for NZ$200m. Because the hedge does not give rise to interest or NRFAI, income or expenditure relating to the hedge is excluded from B's NRWT calculations.

Defined in this Act: amount, expenditure, fair value method, financial arrangement, income, income year, non-resident financial arrangement income, related-party debt, spreading method

Section RF 12D: inserted, on 30 March 2017, by section 279 (and see section 5) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

RF 12E When non-resident financial arrangement income treated as paid

Amount paid

- (1) An amount of non-resident financial arrangement income is treated as paid on the last day of the second month following the end of the borrower's income year.

When debt matures, ends, or no longer qualifies

- (2) Despite subsection (1), if a related-party debt matures, ends, or no longer qualifies as a related-party debt during the borrower's income year, the non-resident financial arrangement income is treated as paid on the last day of the second month following the relevant event.

Defined in this Act: amount, income year, non-resident financial arrangement income, pay, related-party debt

Section RF 12E: inserted, on 30 March 2017, by section 279 (and see section 5) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

RF 12F Adjustments: first year additional amounts

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for the first income year in which a lender derives non-resident financial arrangement income under a financial arrangement. It increases the lender's income by adding an amount that the lender would have derived if the financial arrangement had always given rise to non-resident financial arrangement income.

Formula

- (2) The amount is calculated using the formula—
$$\text{total accrual income} - \text{total interest.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula,—
 - (a) total accrual income is the total expenditure incurred by the borrower under the arrangement to the extent to which the arrangement is held by a non-resident person for the period that—
 - (i) starts on the date on which the borrower became party to the arrangement; and
 - (ii) ends on the last day of the income year that precedes the first income year:
 - (b) total interest is the total interest paid by the borrower to all non-residents for the period that—
 - (i) starts on the date on which the borrower became party to the arrangement; and
 - (ii) ends on the NRFAI due date for the borrower's income year.

Example continued from section RF 2C

Foreign Lender Ltd has derived NRFAI for the first time in the third year of a loan to NZ Sub A Ltd (A). The NRFAI derived for this year is equal to A's financial arrangement expenditure for the third year of $53,000. However, as this year is the first in which Foreign Lender Ltd has derived NRFAI on this related-party debt, it also derives an additional amount of $($42,000 + $50,000) - ($19,000 + $20,000 + $21,000) = $32,000$.

Defined in this Act: amount, financial arrangement, income, income year, interest, non-resident, non-resident financial arrangement income, NRFAI due date, NRWT, pay, related-party debt

Section RF 12F: inserted, on 30 March 2017, by section 279 (and see section 5) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

RF 12G Choosing to treat income as non-resident financial arrangement income

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for the first income year in which the borrower is party to a financial arrangement described in section RF 2C(1)(b).

Elections related to de minimis

- (2) The borrower may choose to disregard the application of the related-party de minimis referred to in section RF 2C(3).

Elections related to deferral calculation

- (3) Despite section RF 2C(4), if the result of the deferral calculation by the borrower is, or is treated as, more than 90%, they may choose to disregard the application of the calculation for an arrangement—
- (a) that is for a period of more than 12 months; and
 - (b) in relation to which they reasonably expect non-resident financial arrangement income will arise for a later income year.

Making elections

- (4) The election must be made by notifying the Commissioner by the earlier of—
- (a) the first day on which interest described in section RF 2(1)(d) is paid;
 - (b) the last day of the income year in which the arrangement becomes a related-party debt.

Example

NZ Sub C Ltd (C) has borrowed $500,000 from its non-resident parent. Although interest accrues on this loan, C does not expect to make any interest payments for some years. C has also borrowed from a bank but has no other related-party loans. C's expected financial arrangement expenditure on the related-party debt for the first 3 years is $32,000, $36,000 and $41,000. C will not have to calculate whether NRFAI arises until the end of the third year as this is when the related party de minimis is reached. However, C expects that once the related party de minimis is reached, NRFAI will arise because there are expected to be no interest payments. Therefore, C notifies Inland Revenue during the first year, that it will withhold NRWT on NRFAI from the start of the first year.

Defined in this Act: Commissioner, financial arrangement, income year, inform, interest, non-resident financial arrangement income, notify, related-party debt

Section RF 12G: inserted, on 30 March 2017, by section 279 (and see section 5) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

RF 12H Meaning of related-party debt*Meaning of related-party debt*

- (1) Related-party debt means a financial arrangement under which—
- (a) a person (the lender) is party to an arrangement that provides funds to another person (the borrower) when—
 - (i) the lender and borrower are associated persons; or
 - (ii) the funding is provided through an indirect associated funding arrangement, as described in section RF 12I(2); or
 - (iii) the lender is a member of a non-resident owning body that is associated with the borrower, as described in section RF 12I(3); and

- (b) expenditure arises for the borrower for which they are allowed a deduction.

New Zealand banking group exclusion

- (2) Subsection (1), other than paragraph (a)(ii), does not apply to a financial arrangement to which a member of a New Zealand banking group as determined under section FE 33 (New Zealand banking group) is party.

Associated persons

- (3) When subsection (1)(a)(iii) applies, the borrower and the member of the non-resident owning body are treated as if they were associated for the purposes of this section, and sections RF 2C, RF 12, RF 12D to RF 12G, RF 12I, and RF 12J and section 32M of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Defined in this Act: amount, associated person, deduction, financial arrangement, income year, New Zealand banking group, non-resident owning body, related-party debt

Section RF 12H: inserted, on 30 March 2017, by section 279 (and see section 5) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

RF 12I Concepts used for definition of related-party debt

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for the purposes of section RF 12H to describe what is meant by indirect associated funding arrangements and funding through non-resident owning bodies.

Indirect associated funding arrangements

- (2) An indirect associated funding arrangement exists when—
 - (a) a non-resident person (the indirect lender) provides funds or pays money, directly or indirectly, to another person (the direct lender) who provides funds to a third person (the borrower)—
 - (i) in order for the funds to be provided to the borrower, or to reimburse the direct lender or compensate them, for providing the funds to the borrower; and
 - (ii) with the purpose or effect that the borrower incurs financial arrangement expenditure and the indirect lender does not derive non-resident passive income from the borrower; and
 - (b) the indirect lender is associated with the borrower; and
 - (c) the funding does not meet the requirements of section RF 12H(1)(a)(i) and (iii) for related-party debt.

Non-resident owning bodies

- (3) A non-resident owning body is treated as associated with a borrower when the ownership interest, within the meaning set out in paragraph (a) of the definition of that term, in the borrower of all the members of the non-resident owning body is 50% or more.

Examples

NZ Sub D Ltd (D) borrows $1m at an interest rate of 6% from 3rd Party Finance Co Ltd (Finance Co) which agrees to provide this amount because D International, a non-resident associate of D, agrees to lend $800,000 at an interest rate of 4% to Finance Co. This is treated as a loan of $800,000 from D International to D, and a loan of $200,000 from Finance Co to D. D makes an interest payment of $60,000 to Finance Co, and Finance Co makes an interest payment of $32,000 to D International. D is treated as making an interest payment of $32,000 to Finance Co as agent for D International, so must withhold $3,200 NRWT. If D does not, Finance Co will be required to do so.

Two unrelated foreign investors agree to purchase 40% each of a New Zealand company with the remaining 20% held by a New Zealand investor. The New Zealand company has borrowed $1m, with the amounts being $400,000 from each of the foreign investors and $200,000 from the New Zealand investor and all borrowing is on similar terms. The 2 foreign investors are members of a non-resident owning body as they are acting together as if they were a single entity. Neither foreign investor is associated with the New Zealand business, either individually or as a consequence of being a member of the non-resident owning body. However, because they are members of the non-resident owning body, interest payments derived by the foreign investors will be ineligible for AIL and the loans may give rise to non-resident financial arrangement income.

Defined in this Act: arrangement, associated person, interest, non-resident, non-resident owning body, non-resident passive income, ownership interest, pay, related-party debt

Section RF 12I: inserted, on 30 March 2017, by section 279 (and see section 5) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

RF 12J Treatment of certain payments made under indirect associated funding arrangements*Payments made under funding arrangements*

- (1) The payment made under an indirect associated funding arrangement described in section RF 12I(2), to the extent to which subsection (2) applies, is treated as made under a financial arrangement between the borrower and the indirect lender, and not made under a financial arrangement between the borrower and the direct lender.

Treatment of payments

- (2) Under this subsection,—
- (a) an amount that the indirect lender pays to the direct lender is treated as paid by the indirect lender to the borrower to the extent to which the amount is not more than the amount paid by the direct lender to the borrower;
 - (b) an amount that the borrower pays to the direct lender is treated as paid to the direct lender as agent for the indirect lender to the extent to which the amount is not more than the amount paid by the direct lender to the indirect lender.

When amounts of tax not withheld

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2)(b), if the borrower does not withhold the full amount required to be withheld under sections RA 6 (Withholding and payment obligations for passive income) and RF 3, the direct lender must withhold NRWT on interest paid to them.

No liability for direct lender

- (4) Despite subsection (3), the direct lender has no liability to withhold an amount of tax for the payment if the borrower has notified the direct lender that—
- (a) the payment is not made under an indirect associated funding arrangement;
 - (b) non-resident financial arrangement income has been derived on the financial arrangement.

Determining interest paid and effect of reduction

- (5) For the purposes of subsection (3),—
- (a) paragraph (d) of the definition of pay does not apply;
 - (b) for the financial arrangement, a reduction for the direct lender through the application of subsection (4) and paragraph (a) has no effect on the amount of NRWT that must be withheld on behalf of the indirect lender.

Defined in this Act: amount, amount of tax, associated person, financial arrangement, income tax liability, interest, notify, NRWT, pay

Section RF 12J: inserted, on 30 March 2017, by section 279 (and see section 5) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2016–17, Closely Held Companies, and Remedial Matters) Act 2017 (2017 No 14).

Paying amounts of tax

RF 13 Basis for payment of amounts of tax for non-resident passive income

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when a person estimates for a tax year that they will not be required by the NRWT rules to withhold total NRWT of $500 or more.

Two instalments

- (2) The person may pay to the Commissioner the amount withheld for the tax year in 2 instalments.

When threshold reached during tax year

- (3) If the threshold amount of $500 is reached at a time in a tax year, the person must pay to the Commissioner—
- (a) the amount of tax withheld from the start of the tax year to the end of the month in which the threshold is reached; and
 - (b) for the remainder of the tax year, the amount of tax on a monthly basis.

Defined in this Act: amount of tax, Commissioner, NRWT, NRWT rules, pay, tax withheld, tax year
Compare: 2004 No 35 s NG 11(1)–(3)

RF 15 Commissioner's power to vary amounts of tax

Special circumstances

- (1) For the purposes of meeting the special circumstances of a case or class of cases, the Commissioner may—
 - (a) relieve a person from an obligation to withhold NRWT under section RA 6(2) (Withholding and payment obligations for passive income), RF 3, RF 4, or RF 10; or
 - (b) vary the amount of tax that a person must withhold under section RA 6(2).

Exclusion for certain payments of interest

- (2) This section does not apply to an amount of tax for a payment of interest derived jointly with a person resident in New Zealand as described in section RF 12(1).

NRWT rules apply as if amended

- (3) On the exercise of a power under subsection (1), the NRWT rules apply in the particular case as if they were amended in the way in which the power is exercised.

Defined in this Act: amount of tax, Commissioner, interest, NRWT, NRWT rules, pay, resident in New Zealand

Compare: 2004 No 35 s NG 10

RF 16 Relationship with RSCT rules

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when a retirement scheme contributor makes a retirement scheme contribution for a person who is non-resident and pays RSCT for the contribution.

NRWT

- (2) The contributor is treated as having withheld from the contribution an amount of NRWT equal to the lesser of—
 - (a) the amount of RSCT paid;
 - (b) the NRWT payable in relation to the contribution.

Treatment of balance

- (3) Section LB 6 (Tax credits for RSCT) applies to any balance of RSCT paid.

Defined in this Act: non-resident, NRWT, pay, retirement scheme contribution, retirement scheme contributor, RSCT

Compare: 2004 No 35 s NG 16B

RL 1 Residential land withholding tax

What this subpart does

- (1) This subpart imposes an obligation to pay a tax called residential land withholding tax (RLWT).

When this subpart applies

- (2) This subpart applies for a residential land purchase amount in relation to a disposal of residential land located in New Zealand by a person (the vendor) to another person (the purchaser) if—
- (a) the relevant residential land purchase amount would be income of the vendor under section CB 6A (Disposal within 2 years: bright-line test for residential land), ignoring sections CB 6A(6) and CB 16A (which relate to the bright-line test); and
- (b) the vendor is an offshore RLWT person.

How this subpart applies to joint owners

- (3) For the purposes of this subpart, vendors who are co-owners are treated as disposing of separate residential land on the basis of an appropriate split of the underlying residential land and the consideration for its disposal.

When this subpart does not apply

- (4) This subpart does not apply if the vendor holds an RLWT certificate of exemption that applies for the disposal of the relevant residential land. Section 54E of the Tax Administration Act 1994 provides for the issue of RLWT certificates of exemption to vendors.

When this subpart does not apply: relationship property

- (4B) This subpart does not apply if section FB 3A(2) (Residential land) applies for the disposal of the relevant residential land.

Specific rules

- (5) In this subpart,—
- (a) section RL 2 provides rules for vendors and conveyancers in relation to who must pay RLWT and satisfy RLWT liability:

- (b) section RL 3 provides rules for purchasers in relation to who must withhold RLWT from relevant residential land purchase amounts. It also provides rules for segregating the RLWT withheld:
- (c) section RL 4 provides rules for calculating how much tax must be paid or withheld and paid for residential land purchase amounts:
- (d) section RL 5 provides rules for paying RLWT:
- (e) section RL 6 provides rules for the Commissioner repaying RLWT.

Return and information provisions in Tax Administration Act 1994

- (6) Sections 54B, 54C, and 54D of the Tax Administration Act 1994 provide for the giving of returns and information in relation to RLWT obligations.

Defined in this Act: dispose, land, offshore RLWT person, residential land, residential land purchase amount, RLWT, RLWT certificate of exemption

Conveyancers: agency for RLWT obligations

- (2) The vendor's conveyancer, or if the vendor does not have a conveyancer, the purchaser's conveyancer, is treated as the agent (the paying agent) of the vendor in relation to the RLWT, and, in relation to the RLWT, must provide returns and satisfy the vendor's liability.

Conveyancers: no agency for other obligations

- (3) The paying agent is not treated as the vendor's agent for income, or for a tax obligation other than RLWT, solely because of their agency in relation to RLWT.

Conveyancers: relationship with subject matter

- (4) Sections HD 2, HD 3, and HD 4 (which relate to agents) do not apply to a paying agent that is agent only in relation to RLWT.

Liability of conveyancers

- (5) The paying agent, as agent in relation to the RLWT, is not jointly and severally liable in relation to the vendor's RLWT or in relation to a debt under section RA 10 (When obligations not met). The vendor alone is liable to pay the RLWT, despite the paying agent's obligation to satisfy the vendor's liability.

Liability of conveyancers: exception for penalties

- (6) Despite subsection (5), if the paying agent fails to satisfy the vendor's liability, then,—
- (a) for the purposes of Part 9 of the Tax Administration Act 1994, the paying agent is treated as failing to pay an amount of withholding tax equal to the amount of RLWT liability they failed to satisfy, if the paying agent has subtracted or retained an amount from a residential land purchase amount; or
 - (b) for the purposes of Part 9 of the Tax Administration Act 1994 other than section 139B, the paying agent is treated as failing to pay an amount of withholding tax equal to the amount of RLWT liability they failed to satisfy, if the paying agent has not subtracted or retained an amount from a residential land purchase amount.

Liability of conveyancers: reasonable reliance

- (7) A paying agent is not liable for a penalty under Part 9 of the Tax Administration Act 1994 for a failure described in subsection (6)(b) if, for that failure,—
- (a) the paying agent has relied on a form and accompanying documents given to them in accordance with section 54C of the Tax Administration Act 1994; and
 - (b) the paying agent's reliance on the form and accompanying documents is reasonable.

Treatment of amount

- (8) An amount subtracted or retained from a residential land purchase amount by a paying agent to satisfy the vendor's RLWT liability—
- (a) is treated as received—
 - (i) by the vendor; and
 - (ii) at the time the residential land purchase amount is paid to them; and
 - (b) is treated for the purposes of this Act as derived by the vendor at the same time and in the same way as they derive the residential land purchase amount.

Defined in this Act: agent, amount, amount of tax, Commissioner, conveyancer, pay, residential land purchase amount, RLWT
