What is not a dividend?

CD 22 Returns of capital: off-market share cancellations

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when a company pays an amount to a shareholder because of the off-market cancellation of a share in the company, other than on liquidation of the company.

Ordering rule

- (2) The amount is not a dividend to the extent to which it is less than or equal to the available subscribed capital per share calculated under the ordering rule, if—
- (a) 1 of the bright line tests in subsection (3) is met; and
 - (b) the company is not an unlisted trust that has chosen the slice rule for the share under subsection (4); and
 - (c) the anti-avoidance rule in subsection (6) does not apply.

Bright line tests

- (3) The bright line tests referred to in subsection (2)(a) are as follows:
- (a) the cancellation is part of a pro rata cancellation that results in a fifteen percent capital reduction for the company;
 - (b) the cancellation is part of a pro rata cancellation that results in a ten percent capital reduction for the company and the Commissioner has given a notice under subsection (8);
 - (c) the cancellation is not part of a pro rata cancellation and results in the shareholder suffering a fifteen percent interest reduction;
 - (d) the company is an unlisted trust and the cancellation is not part of a pro rata cancellation;
 - (e) the share is a non-participating redeemable share.

Unlisted trusts choosing slice rule

- (4) If the company is an unlisted trust, it may issue a share on terms that the ordering rule does not apply and that instead the slice rule applies to the cancellation. If this happens, the amount paid is not a dividend to the extent to which it is less than or equal to the available subscribed capital per share calculated under the slice rule (but still subject to the anti-avoidance rule in subsection (6)).

Calculation concessions for foreign unlisted widely-held trusts

- (5) If a company is an unlisted widely-held trust not resident in New Zealand and a shareholder cannot obtain sufficient information to calculate the available subscribed capital per share under the ordering rule,—

- (a) the share is treated as if it were issued under subsection (4) on terms that the slice rule applies; and
- (b) the available subscribed capital under the slice rule is—
 - (i) the amount paid for the issue of the share, if subparagraph (ii) does not apply; or
 - (ii) the value of the money or property in which a beneficial interest would have vested in the shareholder had the share not been issued, if the share is a taxable bonus issue under paragraph (d) of the definition of the term.

Overriding anti-avoidance rule

- (6) Neither subsection (2) nor (4) excludes an amount paid by a company on cancellation of a share from being a dividend if any part of the payment is in lieu of the payment of a dividend.

Factors relevant in applying anti-avoidance rule

- (7) For the purposes of applying subsection (6), the following factors must be considered:
 - (a) the nature and amount of dividends paid by the company before or after the cancellation; and
 - (b) the issue of shares in the company after the cancellation; and
 - (c) the expressed purpose or purposes of the cancellation; and
 - (d) any other relevant factor.

Calculation rules

CD 38 General calculation rule for transfers of value

Difference in value

- (1) The amount of a dividend that is a transfer of value from a company to a person is calculated using the formula—

$$\text{value from company} - \text{value from person.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (2) In the formula,—
 - (a) value from company is the market value of the money or money's worth that the company provides to the person:
 - (b) value from person—
 - (i) is the market value of the money or money's worth, if any, that the person provides to the company as consideration for the transfer; and
 - (ii) excludes any amount that is attributable merely to the holding or giving up of rights as a shareholder in the company.

Relationship with sections CD 39 to CD 42

- (3) This section is overridden by sections CD 39 to CD 42.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, dividend, shareholder, transfer of value

Compare: 2004 No 35 s CD 27

CD 39 Calculation of amount of dividend when property made available

How this section applies

- (1) This section applies to determine the amount of a dividend that arises under section CD 3 because a company makes property available to a person.

Amounts calculated quarterly

- (2) The amount of the dividend is calculated for each quarter during which the property is made available.

Date when amounts treated as paid

- (3) The amount of the dividend calculated for a quarter is treated as being paid by the company to the person and as being derived by the person 6 months after the end of the company's income year. However, if the company gives notice to the shareholder on an earlier date of the amount of the dividend for that quarter, the amount is treated as being paid and derived on that earlier date instead.

Using FBT rules

- (4) Unless the property made available is a loan, the amount of the dividend for each quarter is the value of the fringe benefit for that quarter calculated under the fringe benefit tax (FBT) rules as if—
- (a) making the property available were the provision of a fringe benefit by the company to an employee in relation to employment, despite anything in sections CX 6 to CX 38 (which relate to fringe benefits); and
 - (b) the company were not to choose to pay fringe benefit tax on an income year basis under section RD 60 (Close company option).

Using difference from benchmark rate

- (5) If the property made available is a loan, the amount of the dividend for each quarter is the excess, if any, of interest, calculated for the quarter on the basis of the daily balance of the loan and the benchmark rate specified in subsections (6) to (8), over the actual amount of interest accruing on the loan in the quarter. However, the company may choose instead to calculate the dividend as the excess of the benchmark interest rate amount over the amount of income accruing to the company in the quarter calculated under the yield to maturity method.

Benchmark rate: fringe benefit tax rate for certain loans

- (6) For the purposes of subsection (5), the benchmark rate of interest is the prescribed rate of interest if—
- (a) all amounts payable to the company for the loan are expressed in New Zealand dollars; and
 - (b) either the borrower is not a company or, if the borrower is another company, the company making the loan notifies the Commissioner that this subsection is to apply to the loan and the quarter.

Setting benchmark rate

- (7) For the purposes of subsection (5), the benchmark rate is the rate set by the Commissioner if—
- (a) all amounts payable to the company in relation to the loan are payable in a single currency other than New Zealand dollars; and

- (b) the Commissioner has set a benchmark rate for that currency and the quarter; and
- (c) either the borrower is not a company or, if the borrower is another company, the company making the loan notifies the Commissioner that this subsection is to apply to the loan and the quarter.

Default benchmark rate

- (8) For the purposes of subsection (5), if neither subsection (6) nor (7) applies, the benchmark rate of interest is a market rate determined at the end of the quarter for a loan made on the same terms between persons at arm's length.

Daily loan balance: certain repayments backdated

- (9) For the purposes of subsection (5), in determining the daily balance of a loan during a tax year, an amount repaid during the tax year is treated as having been applied in repayment of the loan at the start of the company's tax year or, if later, the day the loan was made, if—
 - (a) the amount is repaid by applying any salary, wages, extra pay, dividends, or interest payable by the company to the borrower; and
 - (b) the amount payable by the company is income of the borrower in the tax year or an earlier tax year; and
 - (c) the amount payable by the company is—
 - (i) payable without any amount of tax being withheld and paid under the PAYE rules, the RWT rules, or the NRWT rules;
 - (ii) a fully-imputed dividend.

Daily loan balance: company nominating amount

- (10) Subject to subsection (9), for the purposes of subsection (5), the daily balance of the loan for a tax year is treated as being equal to the notional balance chosen under subsection (11) by the company making the loan if—
 - (a) the borrower is a company; and
 - (b) the loan is a variable principal debt instrument; and
 - (c) the company making the loan notifies the Commissioner that this subsection applies for the loan and the tax year; and
 - (d) the amount of the dividend calculated as a result for the loan, the borrower, and the tax year is no more than 30% greater or less than the amount that would be calculated if this section did not apply.

Notional balance options

- (11) The notional balance referred to in subsection (10) is whichever of the following is chosen by the company making the loan and notified to the Commissioner:
 - (a) the average of the outstanding balances of the loan at the end of each month in the company's tax year:

- (b) the average of—
 - (i) the outstanding balance of the loan at the start of the tax year or the first time during the tax year at which the loan exists, whichever is later; and
 - (ii) the outstanding balance of the loan at the end of the tax year or the last time during the tax year at which the loan exists, whichever is earlier.

Notice generally by tax returns

- (12) Reference in this section to a company notifying the Commissioner is a reference to—
 - (a) a notice given to the Commissioner with the company's return of income for the relevant tax year; or
 - (b) if no return is required, a notice given by the date on which a return would be required to be filed for the tax year if a return had been required.

CD 43 Available subscribed capital (ASC) amount

Formula for calculating amount of available subscribed capital

- (1) For a share (the share) in a company at any relevant time (the calculation time), the amount of available subscribed capital is calculated using the formula—

1 July 1994 balance + subscriptions – returns – look-through company returns.

Definition of items in formula

- (2) In the formula in subsection (1),—
- (a) 1 July 1994 balance is,—
 - (i) if the company existed before 1 July 1994, the amount calculated under subsection (3); and
 - (ii) in any other case, zero:
 - (b) subscriptions, subject to subsections (6) to (21), is the total amount of consideration that the company received, after 30 June 1994 and before the calculation time, for the issue of shares of the same class (the class)

as the share, ignoring section HB 1 (Look-through companies are transparent):

- (c) returns, subject to subsections (22) and (23), is the total amount of consideration that the company paid, after 30 June 1994 and before the calculation time, on the cancellation of shares in the relevant class and that was not a dividend because of section CD 22, CD 23B, or CD 24 or a corresponding provision of an earlier Act:
- (d) look-through company returns is the total amount of consideration that the company paid, before the calculation time, on the cancellation or buyback of shares in the relevant class while the company was a look-through company, ignoring section HB 1.

1 July 1994 balance

- (3) The 1 July 1994 balance is calculated using the formula—
$$((\text{paid-up capital} + \text{premiums}) \div \text{all shares issued}) \times 30 \text{ June } 1994 \text{ shares.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (4) In the formula in subsection (3),—
 - (a) paid-up capital, subject to subsection (5) relating to bonus issues, is the total amount of capital paid up before 1 July 1994 for shares in the class:
 - (b) premiums is the total amount of qualifying share premium paid to the company before 1 July 1994 for shares in the class, but not including amounts applied before 1 July 1994 in paying up capital:
 - (c) all shares issued is the number of shares in the class ever issued at the end of 30 June 1994:
 - (d) 30 June 1994 shares is the number of shares in the class on issue at the end of 30 June 1994.

1 July 1994 balance: bonus issues after 30 September 1988

- (5) The capital amount included in calculating the 1 July 1994 amount does not include an amount paid up by way of a bonus issue made after 30 September 1988, unless—
 - (a) the bonus issue was a taxable bonus issue; or
 - (b) the amount was paid up by application of an amount of qualifying share premium.

Subscriptions amount: taxable bonus issues and debt capitalisations

- (6) The subscriptions amount includes,—
 - (a) in the case of a bonus issue in lieu, the amount offered as an alternative to the bonus issue; and
 - (ab) in the case of a share issued under a profit distribution plan, the amount offered by the company for the repurchase of the share; and

- (b) in the case of a taxable bonus issue that is not a bonus issue in lieu or a share issued under a profit distribution plan, the amount of the dividend arising from the taxable bonus issue; and
- (c) in the case of shares issued on conversion of, or as consideration for the release of, a debt claim against the company, the amount of debt converted or released.

When subsection (6D) applies

- (6B) Subsection (6D) applies for a company (the calculation company) for which the calculation in subsection (1) is being performed if—
- (a) section EW 46C(1)(a) or (b) (Consideration when debt forgiven within economic group) applies to a creditor and debtor that are in the same wholly-owned group of companies as the calculation company; and
 - (b) the creditor is a non-resident company; and
 - (c) section EW 46C(3) does not apply; and
 - (d) the calculation company is the debtor, or the calculation company holds, before section YC 4 (Look-through rule for corporate shareholders) is applied to the calculation company, voting interests or, if a market value exists for a company that is part of the wholly-owned group of companies, market value interests, in the debtor.

When subsection (6D) applies

- (6C) Subsection (6D) also applies if section EW 46C(1)(c) applies to a creditor or single creditor group under that section, and the company for which the calculation in subsection (1) is being performed (the calculation company)—
- (a) is the creditor's debtor, to whom section EW 46C(1)(c) applies;
 - (b) has, before the application of section YC 4, either voting interests in the creditor's debtor, to whom section EW 46C(1)(c) applies, or market value interests in the creditor's debtor, to whom section EW 46C(1)(c) applies, if a market value circumstance exists for the debtor.

Subscriptions amount: debt forgiven within economic group

- (6D) For the calculation company, the subscriptions amount is treated as including the amount of debt to which section EW 46C(5) applies for the creditor, for the class of shares that the creditor has the most voting interests for, or, if the creditor is the single creditor group under section EW 46C(1)(c), for the class of shares for which a member has the most voting interests. The maximum subscriptions amount included for an amount of debt for a calculation company is—
- (a) if the calculation company is the debtor, the amount of debt;
 - (b) if the calculation company is not the debtor, the amount of debt multiplied by 1 of the following interests, determined before the application of section YC 4:

- (i) the calculation company's voting interests in the creditor's debtor; or
- (ii) the calculation company's market value interest in the creditor's debtor, if there is a market value circumstance.

Subscriptions amount: exclusions for bonus issues

- (7) The subscriptions amount does not include—
 - (a) an amount for a bonus issue if none of subsection (6)(a), (ab), or (b) applies;
 - (ab) an amount for an imputation credit attached to the dividend arising from a taxable bonus issue if subsection (6)(b) applies;
 - (b) an amount for a taxable bonus issue made to a shareholder to whom the bonus issue was exempt income under section CW 9 (Dividend derived by company from overseas) or CW 10 (Dividend within New Zealand wholly-owned group), or under a corresponding repealed provision, except to the extent to which the taxable bonus issue is fully credited.

Subscriptions amount: reinvested exempt dividends

- (8) The subscriptions amount does not include—
 - (a) an amount received by the company that is mainly attributable, directly or indirectly, to the company paying a dividend to a shareholder,—
 - (i) if the dividend was exempt income of the shareholder under section CW 9 or CW 10, or a corresponding provision of an earlier Act; and
 - (ii) [Repealed]
 - (iii) to the extent to which the dividend is not fully credited; or
 - (b) an amount received by the company if the amount is mainly attributable, directly or indirectly, to the payment by the company of a dividend to a controlled foreign company at a time when the company is also a controlled foreign company, regardless of whether either company is a grey list company or non-attributing Australian CFC.

Subscriptions amount: share-for-share exchanges

- (9) Subsection (10) applies if—
 - (a) the company receives an amount, directly or indirectly, for the issue of shares in the class that is in the form of shares in another company; and
 - (b) immediately after the issue there are 1 or more persons whose common voting interests (or common market value interests), as measured in section IC 3(3) to (5) (Common ownership: group of companies), in the company and the other company total 10% or greater; and
 - (c) the receipt is not on an amalgamation.

Subscriptions amount: no uplift for share-for-share exchanges

- (10) If subsection (9) applies, the subscriptions amount does not include the amount received to the extent to which it is more than the total available subscribed capital per share, calculated under the slice rule and calculated after deducting any ineligible capital amount described in subsections (13) and (14) of the shares in the other company at the date on which the amount is received.

Subscriptions amount: company share capital reorganisation

- (11) Subsection (12) applies if a company receives an amount for the issue of shares in the class in the form of—
- (a) a shareholder giving up rights of membership in the company; or
 - (b) a shareholder giving up rights of membership in a company associated with the company or that is in substance the same company.

Subscriptions amount: no uplift for share capital reorganisation

- (12) If subsection (11) applies, the subscriptions amount does not include the amount received to the extent to which it is more than the total available subscribed capital per share of the rights given up at the date they are given up, calculated—
- (a) under the slice rule; and
 - (b) after deducting any ineligible capital amount described in subsections (13) and (14); and
 - (c) as if the rights given up were shares, if they are not shares.

Subscriptions amount: when ineligible capital arises

- (13) For the purposes of subsections (10) and (12), an ineligible capital amount arises if—
- (a) a company (the acquiring company) issues shares in consideration for acquiring, directly or indirectly, shares in another company (the acquired company); and
 - (b) the acquired company has issued shares in anticipation of the shares being acquired by the acquiring company; and
 - (c) those shares issued in anticipation are not a fully credited taxable bonus issue; and
 - (d) the acquiring company pays an amount in consideration for acquiring the shares in the acquired company in addition to issuing shares in the acquiring company.

Subscriptions amount: amount of ineligible capital

- (14) The ineligible capital amount is the lesser of—
- (a) the total of the available subscribed capital per share calculated under the slice rule of the shares in the acquired company that is attributable to the shares issued in anticipation, except to the extent to which the shares issued in anticipation are a fully credited taxable bonus issue; and

- (b) the total additional amount paid by the acquiring company referred to in subsection (13)(d).

Subscriptions amount: amalgamated company

- (15) The subscriptions amount for a company that is an amalgamated company resulting from an amalgamation—
 - (a) includes an amount, as if it were consideration received at the time of the amalgamation for the issue of the amalgamated company's shares, equal to the available subscribed capital, at the time of the amalgamation, of all shares in the amalgamating companies that are—
 - (i) of an equivalent class to the class; and
 - (ii) not held directly or indirectly by an amalgamating company; and
 - (iii) not shares in the amalgamated company:
 - (b) does not include any other amount for the agreement of shareholders of an amalgamating company to the amalgamation and the resulting property acquisitions by the amalgamated company.

Subscriptions amount: emigrating company

- (16) If a company has been treated under section FL 2 (Treatment of emigrating companies and their shareholders) as paying a distribution to shareholders, the subscriptions amount includes the amount of the distribution that is a dividend.

Subscriptions amount: Maori authority

- (17) If the company is a Maori authority, the subscriptions amount includes the taxable income derived by the Maori authority in the 2003–04 tax year or an earlier tax year.

Subscriptions amount: no double counting

- (18) The subscriptions amount does not include amounts included in calculating the 1 July 1994 balance.

Subscriptions amount: treasury stock disposals excluded

- (19) The subscriptions amount does not include the amount of consideration received by a company for disposing of a share if the disposal is taken into account under section CD 25 to determine that the amount paid by the company on a previous share acquisition is not subject to section CD 25(4) to (6).

Subscriptions amount: superannuation fund's interest in GIF

- (20) The subscriptions amount of a company that is a group investment fund includes the value of the interest of a superannuation fund in the group investment fund at the end of 31 March 1999.

1 July 1994 and subscriptions amount: foreign currency conversions

- (21) If an amount of consideration that a company receives for the issue of shares is payable in a foreign currency, the amount paid is treated, for the purposes of this section, as if it were converted into New Zealand currency at the calculation time.

Returns amount: on-market cancellations by associate

- (22) If the acquisition of a share by an associate of the company is within the meaning of an acquisition under paragraph (d) of the definition of on-market cancellation, it is treated in the same way for the purposes of calculating the returns amount.

Returns amount: recovered amounts

- (23) The returns amount does not include any amount recovered by the company before the calculation time under section 56 of the Companies Act 1993 or an equivalent provision of foreign law.

Returns amount: shares cancelled on amalgamation

- (24) If shares in an amalgamated company held by an amalgamating company are cancelled on the amalgamation, the returns amount included in calculating the available subscribed capital amount of a share in the amalgamated company that is of the same class as the cancelled shares is increased by the amount calculated using the formula—

$$\text{cancelled shares} \times \text{asc per share.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (25) In the formula in subsection (24),—
- (a) cancelled shares is the number of cancelled shares:
 - (b) asc per share is the available subscribed capital per share calculated under the slice rule of each cancelled share immediately before the amalgamation.

Meaning of fully credited

- (26) In this section, the part of a dividend that is fully credited is the part that is calculated using the formula—

$$\text{dividend excluding credits} \times \text{actual ratio} \div \text{maximum ratio.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (27) In the formula in subsection (26),—
- (a) dividend excluding credits is the dividend excluding any attached imputation credit:
 - (b) actual ratio is the imputation ratio of the dividend (section OZ 13 (Fully credited dividends: modifying actual ratio) may apply to modify this paragraph):

CD 44 Available capital distribution amount

Formula for calculating amount of available capital distribution

- (1) For a share (the share) on the liquidation of the company, the available capital distribution amount is calculated using the formula—

$$\frac{(\text{receipt} - \text{asc per share}) \times (\text{capital gains} + \text{capital property distributed} - \text{cost}) - \text{capital losses}}{\text{total receipts} - \text{total asc}}.$$

Definition of items in formula

- (2) In the formula,—
- (a) receipt is the amount received by the shareholder on the liquidation for the share:
 - (b) asc per share is the available subscribed capital per share calculated under the ordering rule for the share at the time of the liquidation:
 - (c) capital gains is the total of the capital gain amounts available for distribution to shareholders in the company on the liquidation, but excluding any gain occurring when the company distributes property to a shareholder on the liquidation:
 - (d) capital property distributed is the total market value of capital property of the company distributed to shareholders on the liquidation:
 - (e) cost is the total cost to the company of the capital property included in the capital property distributed item:
 - (f) capital losses is the total of capital loss amounts of the company arising in the 1992–93 tax year or a later tax year, but excluding any loss occurring when the company distributes property to shareholders on the liquidation:
 - (g) total receipts is the total of all amounts received by shareholders on the liquidation:

- (h) total asc is the total of the available subscribed capital of all shares in the company at the time of the liquidation.

Positive amounts

- (3) Despite subsection (1), the available capital distribution amount per share is zero if either multiplier in the formula is negative.

When foreign company information inadequate

- (4) Despite subsection (1), the available capital distribution amount is zero if—
- (a) the company is not resident in New Zealand; and
 - (b) the shareholder cannot obtain sufficient information to calculate the actual available capital distribution amount.

Capital gain amount: bonus issued capital gains

- (5) A capital gain amount is treated as still being available for distribution to the extent to which—
- (a) it has been applied to pay up a bonus issue made after 30 September 1988; and
 - (b) the bonus issue is a non-taxable bonus issue; and
 - (c) the bonus issued share is still on issue at the time of the company's liquidation.

This subsection is overridden by subsection (6).

Capital gain amount: capital gains after 31 March 1988 and before 1992–93

- (6) A capital gain amount, derived after 31 March 1988 and before the 1992–93 tax year, is not available for distribution to the extent to which a capital loss amount has arisen for the company in the tax year in which the capital gain amount was derived or in a later tax year before the 1992–93 tax year. Capital loss amounts are offset against capital gain amounts in the chronological order in which each arose and, to the extent offset, are then disregarded for the purposes of this subsection.

Capital gain amount: when capital gain amounts arise

- (7) For the purposes of this section, a company derives a capital gain amount if,—
- (a) after 31 March 1988, it disposes of capital property for an amount of consideration that is more than the cost of the property to the company, including a disposal that the company is treated as making under section DB 26 (Amount from profit-making undertaking or scheme and not already in income) or DB 27 (Amount from major development or division and not already in income); the capital gain amount is the excess; or
 - (b) after 31 March 1988, it receives a capital gain, including a gift, and no part is assessable income of the company; the capital gain amount is the amount of the capital gain; or

- (c) an amount is derived by the company from another company on liquidation of the other company that is excluded from being a dividend as a result of section CD 26(2)(b) and this section; or
- (d) an amount is derived by the company that is attributable to a revaluation of livestock in the 1992–93 tax year or a later tax year under section 86D of the Income Tax Act 1976 or section EC 16 (Valuation under herd scheme) or EC 20 (Herd livestock disposed of before values determined); or
- (db) an amount is derived by the company that is attributable to the difference between the consideration for disposal or acquisition of livestock and the value of that livestock under section EC 4C (Value and timing of transfers); or
- (e) the amount is described in section CZ 9(1) (Available capital distribution amount: 1965 and 1985–1992).

Capital gain amount: amalgamated company inheriting gain

- (8) An amalgamated company is treated as deriving a capital gain amount at the time of the amalgamation equal to a capital gain amount of an amalgamating company to the extent to which—
 - (a) the amalgamating company ends its existence on the amalgamation; and
 - (b) the amalgamating company's capital gain amount was available for distribution at the time and was not distributed to anyone other than the amalgamated company.

Capital gain amount: consideration when debt forgiven within economic group

- (8B) The amount of a debt to which section EW 46C (Consideration when debt forgiven within economic group) applies does not give rise to a capital gain amount if section CD 43(6D) does not apply to it.

When capital losses arise

- (9) For the purposes of this section, a company incurs a capital loss if it disposes of capital property for an amount of consideration that is less than—
 - (a) the adjusted tax value of the property at the date of disposal, if the property is an item of depreciable property; or
 - (b) the cost of the property to the company at the date of disposal, if the property is not an item of depreciable property.

Capital loss amount

- (9BA) The capital loss amount for a disposal referred to in subsection (9) is equal to the deficit referred to in that subsection for the disposal.

Capital losses amount: herd scheme

- (2) The value of an accommodation allowance provided to a person is income of the person when it is provided in relation to their employment or service. The value is equal to the amount of the allowance paid to the person.

Payments and reimbursements

- (3) An amount paid for or towards the provision of accommodation for a person, whether as expenditure on account of an employee or as a reimbursement, is income of the person when it is paid in relation to their employment or service.

Adjustments to values

- (4) The value under subsection (1) may be adjusted as follows:
 - (a) when more than 1 person referred to in that subsection shares in the accommodation provided, the amount may be—
 - (i) apportioned equally among the number of persons referred to in that subsection who are sharing in the accommodation; or
 - (ii) if the persons referred to in that subsection who are sharing in the accommodation agree with the person providing the accommodation, apportioned on another reasonable basis:

- (b) when the person to whom the accommodation is provided contributes towards their occupation of the accommodation, the amount may be reduced by the amount contributed:
- (c) when the person to whom the accommodation is provided uses part of the accommodation wholly or mainly for work purposes related to their employment or service, the amount may be apportioned between business use and private use.

Relevant local rental

- (1) Despite section CE 1B, if accommodation is provided at or near a work location that is overseas, the value of the accommodation is an amount equal to the relevant market rental value of accommodation in New Zealand. The relevant market rental value is determined taking into account—
 - (a) the location where the person would be likely to work for their employer in New Zealand; and
 - (b) the equivalent accommodation in New Zealand that the person would be likely to occupy; and
 - (c) the average or median market rental value in the vicinity of the location referred to in paragraph (a).

Inclusion of allowances or payments

- (1B) For the purposes of subsection (1), the provision of accommodation at or near an overseas work location includes an accommodation allowance or an amount paid for or towards the provision of the accommodation when the amount of the allowance or payment is—
 - (a) the actual cost to the employee for the accommodation; or
 - (b) a reasonable estimate of the expenditure that is likely to be incurred by the employee, or group of employees, for whom the amount is payable.

When overseas rental is less than New Zealand equivalent

- (2) For the purposes of subsection (1), if the value of the accommodation in the overseas location is less than the New Zealand equivalent market rental value, the value that must be used is the value in the overseas location.

When location in New Zealand is uncertain

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (1)(a), if the location where the person would be likely to work for their employer in New Zealand is uncertain, the relevant market rental value is taken as either the average market rental value or the median market rental value, as applicable, for the whole of New Zealand.

CE 1E Exception: accommodation provided to ministers of religion

Income

- (1) Despite section CE 1B(1) and to the extent described in subsection (2), the value of accommodation that is provided to a person who is a minister of religion is income of the person when the property in which the accommodation is provided is supplied by the religious society or organisation of which they are a minister.

Limited amount

- (2) The amount of income for an income year is calculated using the formula—
$$\text{remuneration} \times (1 - \text{adjustment}) + \text{excess rental}.$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula,—
- (a) remuneration is the amount that equals 10% of the remuneration that the person receives for the income year for the performance of their duties as a minister from the religious society or organisation of which they are a minister:
- (b) adjustment is the adjustment referred to in subsection (4), and is the part of the amount that is the value of the accommodation for the income year apportioned to work-related use, expressed as a decimal fraction of the total value of the accommodation:
- (c) excess rental is the amount that is not less than zero that is the difference between—
- (i) the market rental value for the income year of the accommodation provided; and
- (ii) the market rental value for the income year of accommodation that is reasonably commensurate with the duties of the person as a minister and for the location in which they perform their duties.

Calculation of remuneration for purposes of section

- (3B) For the purposes of subsection (3)(a), the calculation of the amount of the item remuneration excludes the value of accommodation described in subsection (1) that is provided to the person.

Adjustments

- (4) An adjustment referred to in subsection (3)(b) is as follows:
- (a) if the person to whom the accommodation is provided uses part of the accommodation wholly or mainly for work purposes related to their duties as a minister, the amount is apportioned between that business use and private use:
 - (b) if more than 1 person referred to in subsection (1) shares in the accommodation provided, the amount is apportioned equally between them.

Part-year

- (5) For the purposes of this section, if accommodation is provided for part of an income year, the reference to income year is read as a reference to the relevant part of the income year.

Meaning of minister of religion

- (6) For the purposes of this section, minister of religion—
- (a) means a person—
 - (i) who is ordained, commissioned, appointed, or otherwise holds an office or position, regardless of their title or designation, as a minister of a religious denomination or community that meets the charitable purpose of the advancement of religion; and
 - (ii) whose duties are related mainly to the practice, study, teaching, or advancement of religious beliefs; and

CE 2 Value and timing of benefits under share purchase agreements

What this section does

- (1) This section determines the value of a benefit that an employee receives under a share purchase agreement and the allocation of the benefit to a particular income year. If restrictions apply to the disposal of shares received under a share purchase agreement, section CE 3 applies.

If employees acquire shares

- (2) If an employee acquires shares under a share purchase agreement, the value of the benefit to the employee is the amount by which the value of the shares when they were acquired is more than the amount paid or payable for them. The employee receives the benefit in the income year in which they acquire the shares.

If employees dispose of rights to non-associates

- (3) If an employee disposes of their rights under a share purchase agreement to a person who is not associated with them, the value of the benefit is the consideration for the disposal of the rights. The employee receives the benefit in the income year in which they dispose of the rights.

If associates acquire shares

- (4) If, following 1 or more transactions between associated persons, an associated person acquires the shares under a share purchase agreement, the value of the benefit is the difference between the value of the shares on the date of acquisition by the associated person and the amount paid or payable for them. If the difference is negative, the value is zero. The employee receives the benefit in the income year in which the associated person acquires the shares.

If associates dispose of rights to non-associates

- (5) If, following 1 or more transactions between associated persons, a person who is not an associated person acquires the rights under a share purchase agreement, the value of the benefit is the consideration paid for that disposal. The employee receives the benefit in the income year in which the last associated person disposes of the rights.

If shares transferred when employees end employment or die

- (6) The value of the benefit is zero if a share purchase agreement provides unconditionally that, when the employee ends their employment or service or dies, the shares must be transferred to the employer or to the person from whom they were acquired, either without consideration or for a consideration no more than that paid by the employee.

If benefits arise under approved schemes

- (7) The value of the benefit is zero if the benefit arises under a share purchase scheme.

Disposal of rights under share purchase option

- (8) For the purposes of subsection (3), a disposal of rights under a share purchase agreement includes the cancellation of a share option in return for a cash payment.

Reduction of value of benefit in circumstances relating to non-resident

- (9) The value of a benefit arising from a period of employment is reduced, from the value that the benefit would have in the absence of this subsection,—
- (a) if, when the employee acquires the shares under the share purchase agreement or disposes of the rights under the share purchase agreement, the employee is a transitional resident; and
- (b) by an amount calculated using the formula—value before reduction \times period employed as non-resident \div period employed.

When subsection (11) applies

- (10) Subsection (11) applies when an employer to whom section RD 22(2B) (Returns for amounts of tax paid to Commissioner) and section 46(1) of the Tax Administration Act 1994 apply—
- (a) has made an election under section RD 7B (Treatment of certain benefits under employee share agreements) to withhold and pay an amount of tax in relation to a benefit received by an employee under subsection (2) or (4); or
- (b) is required to furnish an employer monthly schedule under section 46(6B) of that Act in relation to a benefit received by an employee under subsection (2) or (4).

Deferral of income recognition

- (11) The employee is treated as deriving employment income in relation to the benefit in the PAYE income payment form period after the 1 in which they receive the benefit.

Defined in this Act: amount, amount of tax, associated person, employee, employer, employment income, income year, non-resident, pay, pay period, PAYE income payment form period, share, share purchase agreement, share purchase scheme, transitional resident

CE 3 Restrictions on disposal of shares under share purchase agreements

Effect of restrictions

- (1) When the benefit to an employee under a share purchase agreement is being valued, a restriction in the agreement on the disposal of the shares is taken into account only if the restriction is of a kind described in subsection (2) or (3).

First restriction

- (2) The first restriction is one that applies for a period that ends—
 - (a) at least 8 years after the end of the tax year in which the employee receives the benefit; or

 - (a) applies for a period that ends—

Transfers of shares under relationship agreements

- (4) If a share purchase agreement does not restrict an employee from transferring the shares under a relationship agreement, but the disposal of the shares by the person to whom the shares are transferred is restricted for a period that ends at least 8 years after the end of the tax year in which the employee would otherwise have received the benefit or after the death of the employee, then the restriction is treated as applying to the employee.

- (b) further consideration is required for the shares; or
- (c) the shares are reacquired either without consideration or for a consideration no more than that paid by the employee.

CF 3 Withdrawals from foreign superannuation scheme

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when a New Zealand resident derives a benefit (a foreign superannuation withdrawal) that is not a pension or annuity and arises from an interest in a foreign superannuation scheme (the scheme) that—
 - (a) is not a FIF superannuation interest and is acquired—
 - (i) when the person is a non-resident or is treated under a double tax agreement as being resident in a foreign country or territory:
 - (ii) in a transaction referred to in subsection (21)(b) or (d) from a person who acquired the interest in the scheme when being a non-resident or when treated under a double tax agreement as being resident in a foreign country or territory:

- (b) is a FIF superannuation interest (a low-value FIF superannuation interest) from which the person does not have FIF income or loss because the person, although not acting as a trustee, does not meet the requirements of sections CQ 5(1)(d) and DN 6(1)(d) (which relate to when FIF income and FIF loss arise).

Income

- (2) The foreign superannuation withdrawal is income of the person if the benefit is in the form of—
 - (a) an amount derived by the person as a member or beneficiary of the scheme;
 - (b) an interest of the person in the scheme, withdrawn for reinvestment as an interest of the person in a superannuation scheme in New Zealand;
 - (c) an interest of the person in the scheme, outside Australia, withdrawn for reinvestment as an interest of the person in a superannuation scheme in Australia;
 - (d) an interest of the person in the scheme withdrawn for reinvestment as an interest of another person in a superannuation scheme.

Exception

- (3) A foreign superannuation withdrawal is not income of the person under subsection (2)(d) if—
 - (a) the benefit is an interest of the person in the scheme that is withdrawn on the death of the person or under a relationship agreement arising from an event (the relationship cessation) that occurs when,—
 - (i) for a marriage or civil union of the person, the marriage or civil union is dissolved or the person and the person's spouse or civil union partner separate or begin to live apart (whether or not they continue to live in the same residence);
 - (ii) for a de facto relationship of the person, the de facto relationship ends; and
 - (b) immediately before the death or the relationship cessation, the person is a New Zealand resident who is treated under no double tax agreement as being resident in a foreign country or territory; and
 - (c) the interest withdrawn is immediately reinvested as an interest, in a foreign superannuation scheme outside Australia, of another person who is—
 - (i) a spouse, civil union partner, or de facto partner of the person immediately before the death or the relationship cessation; and
 - (ii) a New Zealand resident who is treated under no double tax agreement as being resident in a foreign country or territory.

Amounts within other provisions

- (4) A foreign superannuation withdrawal derived by a resident is subject to—
- (a) section CW 28B (Foreign superannuation withdrawal in initial period of residency), if the person—
 - (i) is a resident under section YD 1; and
 - (ii) derives the foreign superannuation withdrawal in the exemption period referred to in subsection (6):
 - (b) section CW 28C (Foreign superannuation withdrawal exceeding given amount), if the foreign superannuation withdrawal is derived in the person's assessable period referred to in subsection (8), to the extent to which the foreign superannuation withdrawal exceeds—
 - (i) the amount referred to in subsection (10) as the assessable withdrawal amount, if the person uses the schedule method; or
 - (ii) the amount referred to in subsection (16) as the assessable withdrawal amount, if the person uses the formula method.

Eligibility for exemption period

- (5) A person has an exemption period referred to in subsection (6) for an interest in the scheme, other than a low-value FIF superannuation interest, if the person—
- (a) does not have, before acquiring the interest, an exemption period for an interest in a foreign superannuation scheme; and
 - (b) acquires the interest as a non-resident; and
 - (c) owns the interest as a non-resident until a date (the exemption commencement), whether before or after the commencement of this Act, when the person becomes a New Zealand resident.

Exemption period

- (6) The period (the exemption period) in which a foreign superannuation withdrawal may be exempt income of the person under section CW 28B is the period from the exemption commencement to the earlier of—
- (a) the end of the period of 48 months beginning after the month in which the person meets the requirements of section YD 1(2) or (3) ignoring the rule in section YD 1(4);
 - (b) the date on which the person becomes a non-resident again.

Assessable withdrawal amount

- (7) The part (the assessable withdrawal amount) of a foreign superannuation withdrawal that is treated as not being exempt income of the person depends on the total period (the assessable period) referred to in subsection (8) for the person and the interest in the scheme.

Assessable period

- (8) The assessable period for the person and a foreign superannuation withdrawal arising from an interest in the foreign superannuation scheme—
- (a) if the person is a non-resident when they acquire the interest, begins on the later of—
 - (i) the date when the person becomes, for the first time after acquiring the interest in the scheme, a New Zealand resident who owns the interest in the scheme;
 - (ii) the end of the person's exemption period;
 - (ab) if the person is a resident who is treated under a double tax agreement as being resident in a foreign country or territory when they acquire the interest in the scheme, begins on the date when the person becomes, for the first time after acquiring the interest, a New Zealand resident who is treated under no double tax agreement as being resident in a foreign country or territory and who owns the interest in the scheme;
 - (ac) if the person is a resident when they acquire the interest and paragraph (ab) does not apply, begins when they acquire the interest;
 - (b) ends on the date when the person derives the foreign superannuation withdrawal (the distribution time);
 - (c) does not include a period in which the person is a non-resident.

Methods for determining assessable withdrawal amount

- (9) The assessable withdrawal amount for a foreign superannuation withdrawal derived by the person is calculated for—
- (a) the schedule method under subsection (10), if paragraph (b) does not apply; or
 - (b) the formula method under subsection (16), if—
 - (i) the scheme is a foreign defined contribution scheme; and
 - (ib) the interest is not a low-value FIF superannuation interest; and
 - (ii) the person has the information required for the application of the formula method; and
 - (iii) the person derives no withdrawal, other than a pension or annuity, from the scheme before 1 April 2014; and
 - (iv) the person has not used the schedule method for the interest in the scheme; and
 - (v) for a person who acquires the interest in the scheme of a spouse, civil union partner, or de facto partner by a transfer referred to in subsection (21)(d), the other person did not use the schedule method for the interest in the scheme; and

- (vi) the person chooses to use the formula method for the interest in the scheme.

Schedule method: assessable withdrawal amount

- (10) The assessable withdrawal amount under the schedule method is calculated using the formula—

Definition of items in formula in subsection (10)

- (11) In the formula in subsection (10),—
- (a) super withdrawal is the amount of the foreign superannuation withdrawal:
- (b) contributions left is the lesser of the amount of the item super withdrawal and the total amount of recognised contributions under subsection (19) made in the assessable period before the distribution time, reduced, for each withdrawal (the earlier withdrawal), other than a pension or annuity, made in the assessable period before the distribution time, by an amount equal to the lesser of—
- (i) the amount of the earlier withdrawal:
- (ii) the value of the item contributions left, immediately before the time of the earlier withdrawal:
- (c) schedule year fraction is the fraction given in schedule 33 (Default fractions of foreign superannuation withdrawals), column 2 of the row for which the entry in column 1 corresponds to the greater of 1 and the number of income years beginning—
- (i) in the assessable period under subsection (8); and
- (ii) before the distribution time.

Formula method: distributed gain

- (12) Under the formula method, the part (the distributed gain) of a foreign superannuation withdrawal that is treated as consisting of gains made by the scheme during the assessable period is calculated using the formula—

$$(\text{super withdrawal} \times \text{calculated gains fraction}) - \text{other gains.}$$

Definition of items in formula in subsection (12)

- (13) In the formula in subsection (12),—
- (a) super withdrawal is the amount of the foreign superannuation withdrawal:
- (b) other gains is the total amount of distributed gains referred to in subsection (12) for foreign superannuation withdrawals in the assessable period before the distribution time.

Formula method: calculated gains fraction

- (14) In the formula in subsection (12), calculated gains fraction is the greater of zero and the amount calculated using the formula—
$$(\text{predistribution} + \text{withdrawals} - \text{value} - \text{contributions}) \div \text{predistribution}.$$

Definition of items in formula in subsection (14)

- (15) In the formula in subsection (14),—
- (a) predistribution is the value of the interest in the scheme immediately before the distribution time:
 - (b) withdrawals is the total amount of foreign superannuation withdrawals from the interest in the scheme in the assessable period before the distribution time:
 - (c) value is the value of the interest in the scheme at the beginning of the assessable period:
 - (d) contributions is the amount of recognised contributions under subsection (19) made to the interest in the scheme in the assessable period before the distribution time.

Formula method: assessable withdrawal amount

- (16) The assessable withdrawal amount under the formula method is the amount calculated using the formula—
$$\text{gain} \times (\text{grow rate} - 1) \times \text{tax rate} \times (\text{assessable years} - 1) + \text{gain}.$$

Formula method: grow rate

- (17) In the formula in subsection (16), grow rate is the amount calculated using the formula—

$$(\text{accrued total} \div \text{value})^{(1 \div \text{assessable years})}.$$

Definition of other items in formulas in subsections (16) and (17)

- (18) In the formulas in subsections (16) and (17),—
- (a) gain is the amount of the distributed gain referred to in subsection (12) for the foreign superannuation withdrawal:
 - (b) tax rate is the tax rate referred to in schedule 6, table 1, row 1 (Prescribed rates: PIE investments and retirement scheme contributions):
 - (c) assessable years is the greater of 1 and the number of tax years beginning in the assessable period and before the distribution time:
 - (d) accrued total is the value of the interest in the scheme immediately before the distribution time, increased by the value of foreign superannuation withdrawals from the interest in the scheme in the assessable period before the distribution time, and reduced by the value of recognised contributions under subsection (19) made to the interest in the scheme in the assessable period before the distribution time:

- (e) value is the value of the interest in the scheme at the beginning of the assessable period.

Recognised contributions

- (19) The value of a payment to the scheme is taken into account in the formulas in subsections (10), (14), and (17) as a contribution (a recognised contribution) if the payment—
 - (a) is made when the person is a New Zealand resident who is treated as a New Zealand resident under all applicable double tax agreements; and
 - (b) is made by the person, by the person's employer, or for the benefit of the person; and
 - (c) is required by the rules of the scheme; and
 - (d) is subject to employer superannuation contribution tax or fringe benefit tax if made by the person's employer.

Interests in superannuation scheme

- (20) For the purposes of this section, if a person acquires, under an arrangement with a foreign superannuation scheme that provides for contributions to the superannuation scheme by or for the person, rights (benefit rights) in the foreign superannuation scheme to benefit as a member or beneficiary from distributions by the superannuation scheme, the person holds an interest in the foreign superannuation scheme under the arrangement for the period beginning when the person acquires benefit rights under the arrangement and ending when the arrangement ends.

When person acquires rights

- (21) In determining when a person who acquires rights in a foreign superannuation scheme acquires an interest in the foreign superannuation scheme,—
 - (a) if none of paragraphs (b) to (d) apply, the person is treated as acquiring the rights when the first contribution is made to the superannuation scheme, in relation to the rights, by or for the person; or
 - (b) if the person is converting existing rights of the person in another foreign superannuation scheme (the former scheme) to corresponding rights of the person in the superannuation scheme, the person is treated as acquiring the corresponding rights when the person acquired the rights in the former scheme; or
 - (c) if the person is acquiring existing rights in the superannuation scheme from another person, other than by a transaction to which paragraph (d) applies, the person is treated as acquiring the existing rights when the person acquires the rights; or
 - (d) if the person is acquiring existing rights in the superannuation scheme of a New Zealand resident (the former owner) as a surviving spouse, civil union partner, or de facto partner of the deceased former owner, or as a former spouse, civil union partner, or de facto partner of the former owner under a relationship agreement arising from the end of the marriage, civil union, or de facto relationship, the person is treated as—

- (i) having owned the existing rights from the time the former owner acquired the existing rights; and
- (ii) having made all payments to the scheme that were made by or for the former owner; and
- (iii) having derived all distributions from the scheme that the former owner derived; and
- (iv) having been a New Zealand resident who is treated under no double tax agreement as being resident in a foreign country or territory and as having owned the existing rights during the assessable period of the former owner, at the time of the transfer, for the interest consisting of the rights; and
- (v) continuing to own the existing rights from the time of the transfer.

Relationship with rest of Act

- (22) If the assessable period for a person and an interest begins before 1 April 2014, this section overrides any provision of this Act that would otherwise quantify and allocate income of the person, from the part of the interest unaffected by withdrawals derived before 1 April 2014,—
- (a) for the period of ownership before 1 April 2014; and
 - (b) not assessed for tax before 1 April 2014.

DB 65 Allowance for certain commercial buildings

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when—
 - (a) a person owns an item that is a commercial building (the building), and the building is depreciable property with an annual rate of 0%, in an income year; and

- (b) the item starting pool described in subsection (3)(a) is greater than the total of all deductions allowed under this section for income years before the income year; and
- (c) the person has been allowed a deduction for an amount of depreciation loss for the building for the 2010–11 income year and the person has not disposed of it since then; and
- (d) the person has never had a deduction for an amount of depreciation loss for a separate item of depreciable property that is commercial fit-out and that was acquired at the same time as the building and relates to the building; and
- (e) the building was acquired in the 2010–11 or earlier income years; and
- (f) the person is not allowed a deduction under any other provision in relation to the building, for the income year.

Deduction

- (2) Except as provided by subsection (6), the person is treated as having a loss for the income year equal to the amount calculated using the formula—

$$\text{starting pool} \times 0.02 \times \text{whole months} \div 12.$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula in subsection (2),—
- (a) starting pool is the amount given by the formula in subsection (4):
 - (b) whole months is the number of whole months in the income year in which the item is used, or is available for use, by the person in deriving assessable income or carrying on a business for the purpose of deriving assessable income.

Starting pool: formula

- (4) For the purposes of subsection (3)(a), the amount is calculated using the formula—

$$(0.15 \times \text{building atv}) - \text{fitout atv}.$$

Definition of items in formula

- (5) In the formula in subsection (4),—
- (a) building atv is the adjusted tax value of the building that results for the 2010–11 income year after all relevant amounts for that income year have been subtracted under subpart EE (Depreciation):
 - (b) fitout atv is the total adjusted tax value of all items of commercial fit-out that results for the 2010–11 income year after all relevant amounts for that income year have been subtracted under subpart EE, if—
 - (i) the items of commercial fit-out relate to the building and were acquired after the building was acquired; and

- (ii) the person has had a deduction for an amount of depreciation loss for the items of commercial fit-out.

Exception: deductible amount

- (6) Despite subsection (2), if the item starting pool described in subsection (3)(a), reduced by the total of all deductions allowed under this section for income years before the income year, is equal to an amount (the deductible amount) that is smaller than the amount given by the formula in subsection (2) (the formula amount), then the person is treated as having a loss for the income year equal to the deductible amount instead of the formula amount.

Treatment of amounts under specific and general rules for deductions

- (7) The capital limitation does not apply to a loss under this section merely because the item of property is itself of a capital nature.

Defined in this Act: adjusted tax value, amount, assessable income, building, capital limitation, commercial building, commercial fit-out, deduction, depreciable property, depreciation loss, dispose, estimated useful life, income year

Section DB 65: inserted, on 1 April 2011 (applying for the 2011–12 and later income years), by section 39(1) of the Taxation (GST and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 130).

Actual records

DE 5 Actual records

To determine the proportion of business use of a motor vehicle, a person may use actual records showing the reasons for and the distance of journeys by a motor vehicle for business purposes. However, when the period covered falls within a logbook term, actual records may be used only if the person and the Commissioner agree.

Defined in this Act: business use, Commissioner, logbook term, motor vehicle

Compare: 2004 No 35 s DE 5

Logbook

DE 6 Using logbook for test period

A person may keep a logbook for a test period for the purpose of establishing the proportion of the business use of a motor vehicle for an income year, or part of an income year, that falls within a logbook term. If a person uses a logbook as a method of establishing the proportion of business use, they must also record the total distance travelled in each income year, or part of an income year, that falls within a logbook term.

Defined in this Act: business use, income year, logbook term, motor vehicle

Compare: 2004 No 35 s DE 6

DE 7 Logbook requirements

Test period

- (1) When a logbook is used to establish the proportion of business use of a motor vehicle, a person must select a start date, and keep the logbook for at least 90 consecutive days at a time that represents, or is likely to represent, the average proportion of travel by the vehicle for business purposes during the logbook term.

Record of reasons for, and distance of, journeys

- (2) The logbook must record—
 - (a) the start and end of the 90 day test period; and
 - (b) the vehicle's odometer readings at the start and end of the test period; and
 - (c) the distance of each business journey; and
 - (d) the date of each business journey; and
 - (e) the reason for each business journey; and
 - (f) any other detail that the Commissioner may require.

DE 8 Logbook term

Meaning of logbook term

- (1) A logbook term is a period to which the proportion of business use of a motor vehicle established by the logbook applies. The term lasts up to 3 years and starts and ends as described in subsections (2) and (3).

Start of term

- (2) A logbook term starts on the date that is the latest of the following days:
 - (a) the first day of the income year in which a person starts to keep a logbook:

- (b) the day that a person acquires the motor vehicle, unless the vehicle is a replacement vehicle, which is dealt with in section DE 11:
- (c) the day immediately after the last day of the previous logbook term:
- (d) a day that a person specifies.

End of term

- (3) The logbook term ends on the date that is the earliest of the following days:

Compare: 2004 No 35 s DE 8

DE 9 Inadequate logbook

Non-representative logbook proportion

- (1) If the Commissioner considers that the proportion of business use recorded in a logbook does not, or does no longer, represent the average use of a motor vehicle for business purposes during an income year that falls within a logbook term, the Commissioner may,—
 - (a) within the logbook term, direct a person to keep a further logbook and specify another 90 day period in the logbook term for keeping the logbook; or
 - (b) treat a person as not having kept a logbook that applies to the logbook term.

Further logbook

- (2) If the Commissioner directs a person to keep a further logbook, and the proportion of business use calculated under that logbook is less by at least 20% than the proportion under the first logbook, the Commissioner may find that the first logbook—
 - (a) represented the average use of the motor vehicle for business purposes for only part of the logbook term; or
 - (b) did not represent that use at all.

Partly representative logbook

- (3) If subsection (2)(a) applies, the Commissioner may determine a date on which the application of the first logbook ended, and the further logbook applies to a new logbook term that starts on the day after that date.

Non-representative logbook

- (4) If subsection (2)(b) applies, the Commissioner may direct that the further logbook applies for the logbook term to which the first logbook applied.

Defined in this Act: business use, Commissioner, income year, logbook term, motor vehicle

Compare: 2004 No 35 s DE 9

DE 10 Variance during logbook term

If, in any month during a logbook term, the proportion of business use in that month is less by at least 20 percentage points than the proportion established by the logbook, and the proportion of business use recorded in the logbook no longer represents the average use of the motor vehicle for business purposes, the logbook term must end on the last day of that month.

Defined in this Act: business use, logbook term, motor vehicle

Compare: 2004 No 35 s DE 10

Section DE 10: amended (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 21 December 2010 (applying for the 2008–09 and later income years), by section 41(1) of the Taxation (GST and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 130).

DE 11 Replacement vehicles

For the purpose of establishing the proportion of business use of a motor vehicle, a replacement vehicle is treated in the same way as the vehicle it replaces if—

- (a) the logbook is likely to be representative of the average travel for business purposes for the remainder of the logbook term; and
- (b) from the date of replacement, a person keeps a record of the total distance travelled by the replacement vehicle for each income year, or part of an income year, of the remaining logbook term.

Defined in this Act: business use, income year, logbook term, motor vehicle

- (1) This section applies for the purposes of calculating a deduction for the business use of a motor vehicle under section DE 2(1) if a person made an election under section DE 2B to apply this section.

Amount of deduction

- (2) The amount of the deduction allowed for the business use of the vehicle in an income year is the sum of the amounts calculated under the following formula for each applicable kilometre rate for the vehicle for the income year:

kilometre rate × kilometres travelled × business proportion.

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula,—
- (a) kilometre rate is the applicable kilometre rate that is published by the Commissioner:
 - (b) kilometres travelled is the total number of kilometres the vehicle has travelled, for both business purposes and other purposes, to which the applicable kilometre rate applies:
 - (c) business proportion is the proportion of business use of the vehicle for the income year, calculated using a method described in sections DE 5 to DE 11, and expressed as a decimal.

Defined in this Act: capital limitation, deduction, excluded income, general limitation, general permission, government screen production payment, grant-related suspensory loan, pay, public authority

Introductory provisions

Heading: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 1 What this subpart does

This subpart sets out the rules for the deductibility and apportionment of expenditure incurred for an income year in relation to an asset when the asset is used partly for income-earning purposes and partly for private purposes, and for a time during the income year, the asset is not in use.

Defined in this Act: asset, deduction, income, income year

Section DG 1: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 2 Application of this subpart

Asset by asset

- (1) The rules in this subpart apply on an asset by asset basis.

Relationship with sections DB 5, DB 7, and DB 8

- (2) The rules in this subpart override sections DB 5, DB 7, and DB 8 (which relate to deductions for financing expenditure) in relation to expenditure that this subpart applies to.

Relationship with subpart DD

- (3) Subpart DD (Entertainment expenditure) does not apply to expenditure incurred in relation to the private use of an asset to which this subpart applies.

Relationship with FBT rules and dividend rules

- (4) No liability to pay fringe benefit tax arises from the private use of an asset to which this subpart applies. In circumstances where section CX 17 (Benefits provided to employees who are shareholders or investors) applies to a company to which this subpart also applies, the company must choose to treat a non-cash benefit referred to in that section as a dividend.

Application to groups of and interests in companies

- (5) For the purposes of this subpart,—
- (a) a group of companies is treated as a wholly-owned group of companies:
 - (b) a voting interest in a company includes a market value interest when a market value circumstance exists for the company.

Rules for identifying voting and market value interests

- (6) In this subpart,—
- (a) for the purposes of determining the extent to which a company (company A) has a voting interest or market value interest in another company (company B), the look-through rule in section YC 4 (Look-through rule for corporate shareholders) does not apply to treat company A's voting interest or market value interest as held by company A's shareholders or anyone else; and
 - (b) for the purposes of determining the extent to which company A has a voting interest or market value interest of more than 10% in an associated company, the look-through rule in section YC 4 does not apply to treat a voting interest or a market value interest of company A in the associated company as held by their respective shareholders or anyone else; and
 - (c) a zero voting interest is not a voting interest, and a zero market value interest is not a market value interest.

Defined in this Act: asset, associated, company, deduction, dividend, fringe benefit tax, group of companies, market value circumstance, market value interest, private use, voting interest, wholly-owned group of companies

Section DG 2: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 3 Meaning of asset for this subpart

Meaning of asset

- (1) For the purposes of this subpart, an asset, for an income year, means an item of property described in subsection (2) held by a person described in subsection (3) to the extent to which the item—
- (a) is used by the person in the income year partly to derive income and partly for private use; and
 - (b) is not in use—
 - (i) for at least 62 days in the income year; or

- (ii) when the asset is typically used only on working days, for at least 62 working days in the income year.

What items of property?

- (2) Subsection (1) applies to an asset that, in the complete form in which the person uses it for income-earning purposes,—
 - (a) is 1 of the following:
 - (i) land, including improvements to land;
 - (ii) a ship, boat, or craft used in navigation on or under water, whether or not it has a means of propulsion;
 - (iii) an aircraft; and
 - (b) for an item referred to in paragraph (a)(ii) and (iii), has—

 - (c) includes any related items, things, or accessories pertaining to the asset.

Which persons?

- (3) A person excludes a company other than a close company and, for the purposes of this subpart, a reference in the definition of close company to a natural person includes a reference to a trustee.

Exclusions

- (4) Despite subsection (2), an asset is excluded from the operation of the rules in this subpart if—
 - (a) the use of the asset meets the following criteria:
 - (i) the private use of the asset is minor; and
 - (ii) the main use of the asset is use in a business that is not a rental or charter business; and
 - (iii) for a company or a trustee of a trust, the use of the asset places an obligation on the company or the trustee, as applicable, to pay fringe benefit tax or income tax:
 - (b) the asset is a residential property and its only income-earning use is as a long-term rental property:
 - (c) [Repealed]

Meaning of market value

- (5) For the purposes of this subpart, other than subsection (2)(b)(ii), market value means the price at which the asset is provided for use at a particular time or for a particular season—
 - (a) in the open market; and
 - (b) freely offered; and

- (c) made on ordinary terms; and
- (d) to a member of the public at arm's length.

Partnerships and look-through companies

- (6) For the purposes of this section, if the asset is held through a partnership or a look-through company, the value of the interests in the asset held by all the partners in the partnership or all the shareholders in the look-through company, as applicable, is aggregated.

What constitutes use

- (7) For the purposes of this subpart, the use of an asset is the active use of the asset for its intended purpose.

Example

Graeme owns a yacht that he used with his family for a 4-week holiday. He also rented the yacht at market rates to other people who were not associates on 4 occasions, totalling 3 weeks. The cost of the yacht (including some capital improvements and items such as lifejackets and a dinghy) is $85,000. The rules in this subpart apply to Graeme.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, business, close company, company, deduction, fringe benefit tax, income, income tax, income year, land, look-through company, market value, partnership, private use, shareholder, tax, trustee, working day

Section DG 3: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

Section DG 3(4)(c): repealed (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years), on 27 February 2014, by section 35(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Foreign Superannuation, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 4).

DG 4 Meaning of private use for this subpart

What is private use?

- (1) For the purposes of this subpart, private use of an asset—
 - (a) means the use of the asset by a person described in subsection (2), whether or not—
 - (i) the use is exclusive:
 - (ii) an amount of income is derived in relation to its use:
 - (b) includes the use of an asset when income derived in relation to the use of the asset is an amount that is less than 80% of the market value amount:
 - (c) excludes the use of the asset referred to in subsections (3) to (5).

Use by natural persons

- (2) The person referred to in subsection (1)(a) is a natural person who—
 - (a) owns, leases, licenses, or otherwise has the asset:

- (b) is associated with a person who owns, leases, licenses, or otherwise has the asset.

Ordinary business use

- (3) The use of an asset is not private use if—
 - (a) the asset is used to derive income for a particular period; and
 - (b) during the period, use of the asset by the person is limited to:
 - (i) use in the ordinary course of business;
 - (ii) deriving the person's employment income.

Repairs

- (4) The use of an asset is not private use if—
 - (a) the asset is used to derive income for a particular period; and
 - (b) damage is caused to the asset during the period; and
 - (c) the damage is not the result of ordinary wear and tear; and
 - (d) the person uses the asset after the end of the period to repair the damage; and
 - (e) the use of the asset referred to in paragraph (d) is necessary in order for the person to carry out the repairs.

Relocation expenses

- (5) The use of an asset is not private use if—
 - (a) the asset is used to derive income for a particular period in an income year; and
 - (b) the person uses the asset before the start of the period, or after the end of the period, or both, to relocate the asset; and
 - (c) the use referred to in paragraph (b) and the relocation of the asset are necessary for the income-earning purposes; and
 - (d) the income the person derives for the income year from the use of the asset includes an amount payable for the cost of relocation.

Exempt income

- (6) Subsections (3) to (5) do not apply if the person derives an amount of exempt income in relation to the use of the asset. For the treatment of certain amounts of income derived from the use of assets as described in this section, see section CW 8B (Certain amounts derived from use of assets).

Example

Mary owns a launch. During the course of an income year, she takes her family out on the launch, she lets her brother use the launch (paying the market rate of $200 per day) and she lets her friend use the launch (paying fuel costs only at the rate of $50 per day). All these uses are instances of private use. When Mary rents out the launch to non-associates at market rates, takes the launch to another port for rental to non-associates at $250 per day and then back again to the home port, or takes the launch to a boatyard for repair after damage was caused by a non-associate during a rental period, none of these instances is private use.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, associated person, business, exempt income, income, lease, market value, pay, private use

DG 5 Meaning and treatment of interest expenditure for this subpart

Interest expenditure

- (1) In this subpart, interest expenditure, for a person to whom this subpart applies, means expenditure on interest, and includes an amount of interest on the sum of the outstanding balances of financial arrangements entered into by the person, if the financial arrangement—
- (a) provides funds to the person; and
 - (b) gives rise to an amount for which the person would have a deduction.

Apportionment

- (2) For the purposes of this subpart,—
- (a) if the person is not a company, an amount of interest expenditure incurred in relation to an asset is included in the item expenditure in section DG 9(3)(a):
 - (b) if the person is a company other than a qualifying company, an amount of interest expenditure incurred in relation to an asset is apportioned under section DG 11:
 - (c) if the person is a qualifying company, they are treated for the purposes of this subpart as a person that is not a company.

Exchange rate fluctuations

- (3) Interest expenditure does not include a deduction for an amount that arises only from movement in currency exchange rates.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, company, deduction, financial arrangement, interest, interest expenditure, qualifying company

Section DG 5: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 6 Associated persons: company rule modified

Despite section YB 3(1) (Company and person other than company), for the purposes of this subpart, a company and a person other than a company are associated persons if—

- (a) [Repealed]
- (b) the person's share in the company gives them a right to use the asset.

Defined in this Act: asset, associated person, company, share

Section DG 6: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

Section DG 6: amended (with effect on 1 April 2013), on 30 June 2014, by section 53(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

Section DG 6(a): repealed (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years), on 30 June 2014, by section 53(2) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

Section DG 6 list of defined terms voting interest: repealed (with effect on 1 April 2013), on 30 June 2014, by section 53(3) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

When assets held simply

Heading: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 7 Expenditure related to income-earning use

Expenditure on certain business and regulatory requirements

- (1) A person is allowed a deduction for expenditure or loss, including an amount of depreciation loss, to the extent to which the amount incurred—
 - (a) relates solely to the use of an asset for deriving income of the person, other than exempt income; and
 - (b) is expenditure—
 - (i) from which the person would not reasonably expect to receive a personal benefit, or for a company, an associate of the person:
 - (ii) that the person must reasonably incur to meet a regulatory requirement so that they may use the asset for deriving income and that would not have been incurred but for the requirement.

Expenditure that must be apportioned

- (2) Despite subsection (1) and for the avoidance of doubt, all expenditure on repairs and maintenance incurred in relation to an asset must be treated as expenditure that is limited under section DG 8. However, this subsection does not apply to the cost of repairing damage described in section DG 4(4).

Example

John operates a charter boat which he also uses privately. He incurs expenses including costs in meeting Maritime New Zealand survey requirements, advertising costs, and general maintenance costs. The advertising costs are fully deductible because they deliver no personal benefit. The survey costs are fully deductible if they are incurred only for charter purposes. The maintenance costs are not deductible under this provision because they deliver a personal benefit as well as an income-earning benefit. A portion of these maintenance costs may be allowed as a deduction under section DG 8.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, associated person, company, deduction, depreciation loss, exempt income, income

Section DG 7: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 8 Expenditure limitation rule*Limited deduction*

- (1) A person is allowed a deduction for expenditure or loss, including an amount of depreciation loss, that they incur in relation to the income-earning use of an asset to the extent of the amount calculated using the formula in section DG 9(2).

Depreciation recovery and loss on disposal

- (2) In the treatment of assets generally,—
- (a) if some or all of the expenditure on an asset is apportioned for tax purposes on the basis of space, floor area, or on another similar basis, that method of apportionment overrides the rules in this subpart to the extent of the amount of the deduction:
 - (b) depreciation recovery income on disposal is dealt with in section EE 49 (Amount of depreciation recovery income when item partly used for business):
 - (c) depreciation loss on disposal is dealt with in sections EE 44 to EE 48, and EE 50(6) and (7) (which relate to amounts of depreciation loss).

Relationship with other sections

- (3) This section—

- (a) supplements the general permission and overrides the capital limitation and the private limitation, but the other limitations still apply:
- (b) overrides section EE 50(2) (Amount of depreciation loss when item partly used to produce income).

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, capital limitation, deduction, depreciation loss, depreciation recovery income, general permission, private limitation

Section DG 8: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 9 Apportionment formula

What this section does

- (1) This section provides the formula for use where it is referred to in sections DG 8 and DG 11 to DG 13 to calculate the way in which an amount of expenditure or loss that a person incurs in relation to an asset is apportioned between its income-earning use and its private or other use.

Formula

- (2) The apportionment formula is—
$$\text{expenditure} \times \text{income-earning days} \div (\text{income-earning days} + \text{counted days}).$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula,—
 - (a) expenditure is the total expenditure or loss that is incurred by the person for an income year in relation to the asset, other than expenditure that is related solely to—
 - (i) the income-earning use of the asset as described in section DG 7:
 - (ii) the private use of the asset:
 - (iii) a use of the asset for which the expenditure is of a capital nature:
 - (b) income-earning days is the total number of days in the income year for which the person derives income from the use of the asset, other than exempt income, including any days on which—
 - (i) the use made of the asset is use described in section DG 4(3) to (5):
 - (ii) the asset has become unavailable for use because another person who had earlier reserved the asset for their own use, subsequently did not take advantage of that reservation:
 - (iii) a fringe benefit tax liability arises:
 - (c) counted days is the total number of days in the income year on which the asset is in use, and the day is not an income-earning day as described in paragraph (b).

Other units of measurement

- (4) A unit of measurement of time other than days, whether relating to hours, or nights, or anything else, is to be used in the formula and in subsection (3)(b) and (c), if it achieves a more appropriate apportionment. For this purpose, the same unit must be used in relation to both items in subsection (3)(b) and (c).

Example

Jim rents out his aeroplane at market value for 100 hours in an income year, and uses it for his personal enjoyment for 50 hours. Jim incurs expenditure of $10,000 for general repairs and maintenance of the plane. He may deduct two-thirds of the expenditure (section DG 9(2)). The formula is $$10,000 \times (100/(100 + 50)) = $6,666.67$.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, deduction, exempt income, fringe benefit tax, income, income year, market value, private use

Section DG 9: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

Section DG 9(1): amended (with effect on 1 April 2013), on 24 February 2016, by section 102(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2015–16, Research and Development, and Remedial Matters) Act 2016 (2016 No 1).

Section DG 9(3)(a): replaced (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 30 June 2014, by section 54(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

Section DG 9(3)(a)(iii): replaced (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying, for the 2013–14 and later income years, for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i); for the 2014–15 and later income years, for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 24 February 2016, by section 102(2) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2015–16, Research and Development, and Remedial Matters) Act 2016 (2016 No 1).

Section DG 9(3)(b): amended (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 30 June 2014, by section 54(2) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

DG 10 Interest expenditure rules*Groups of companies*

- (1) Sections DG 11 to DG 14 provide for the apportionment of interest expenditure incurred by a company that has an asset to which this subpart applies, and by other companies that are in the same group of companies as the company, and by shareholders. Companies must provide information disclosure statements under section 30D of the Tax Administration Act 1994 to enable the calculations to be made.

Exclusions: group companies

- (2) A company (company A) that is treated as part of a wholly-owned group under this subpart, but is not part of a wholly-owned group for the other purposes of this Act, is excluded from the interest expenditure rules in sections DG 11 to DG 14 for an income year if—
- (a) no private use of an asset of a company in the group has been made in the income year by a shareholder of company A;
 - (b) no tax losses have been made available under subpart IC (Grouping tax losses) between company A and other companies in the group.

Exclusion: corporate shareholders

- (3) Section DG 13 does not apply to a corporate shareholder if—
- (a) the shareholder has a direct or indirect interest of less than 50% in the company that has the asset; and
 - (b) the shareholder has not enjoyed any private use of the asset.

Exclusion: non-corporate shareholders

- (4) Section DG 14 does not apply to a shareholder if—
- (a) the shareholder has a direct or indirect interest of less than 50% in the company that has the asset; and
 - (b) the shareholder has not enjoyed any private use of the asset.

Treatment of qualifying companies

- (5) The interest expenditure rules apply to a qualifying company in the following way:
- (a) the company is treated as if section DG 11(3) applied to it in order to calculate the amount of the company's net asset balance; and
 - (b) sections DG 12 to DG 14 then apply to determine the amount of the deduction to which the company, another company, or a shareholder is entitled.

Associated persons

- (6) For the purposes of subsections (2), (3), and (4), a reference to a shareholder includes a person associated with the shareholder, unless the associated person is also a shareholder.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, associated person, company, deduction, group of companies, income year, interest expenditure, net asset balance, private use, qualifying company, shareholder, tax loss, wholly-owned group

Section DG 10: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 11 Interest expenditure: close companies

What this section does

- (1) This section quantifies the amount of a deduction that a close company is allowed for an income year when—
- (a) the company has an asset to which this subpart applies; and
 - (b) the company incurs interest expenditure for the income year.

Determining values and deductions

- (2) The company must first determine the amount of its debt value and its asset value for the income year, and then apply either subsection (3) or subsections (4) to (6).

Debt value less than asset value

- (3) If the debt value for the income year is equal to or less than the asset value for the income year, the company is allowed a deduction for interest expenditure incurred for the income year of an amount calculated using the formula in subsection (3B).

Formula

- (3B) The formula is—

$$\frac{\text{interest expenditure} \times (\text{income-earning days} + \text{capital-use days})}{\text{income-earning days} + \text{counted days}}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3C) In the formula in subsection (3B),—
- (a) interest expenditure is the amount of interest expenditure incurred by the company for the income year;
 - (b) income-earning days is the number of days in the income year for which the company derives income from the use of the asset, other than exempt income, including days on which—
 - (i) the use of the asset is described in section DG 4(3) to (5);
 - (ii) the asset has become unavailable for use because another person who had earlier reserved the asset for their own use, subsequently did not take advantage of that reservation;
 - (iii) a fringe benefit tax liability arises;
 - (c) capital-use days is the number of days in the income year on which the asset is used in such a way that the expenditure relating to the use is of a capital nature:

- (d) counted days is the number of days in the income year on which the asset is in use, each of which is not an income-earning day as described in paragraph (b).

Debt value more than asset value

- (4) If the debt value for the income year is more than the asset value for the income year, the company must calculate a reduced amount of interest expenditure for the income year using the formula—interest expenditure \times company's asset value \div company's debt value.

Definition of items in formula

- (5) In the formula in subsection (4),—
- (a) interest expenditure is the total amount of interest expenditure incurred by the company for the income year:
 - (b) company's asset value is the amount of the company's asset value for the income year:
 - (c) company's debt value is the amount of the company's debt value for the income year.

Apportionment of reduced amounts

- (6) The company is allowed a deduction for the income year of a portion of the reduced amount described in subsection (4),—
- (a) of an amount calculated using the formula in subsection (3B); and
 - (b) treating the reduced amount as if it were the item interest expenditure in the formula.

Deductions for interest expenditure in excess of reduced amounts

- (6B) The company is allowed a deduction for the amount of interest expenditure calculated under subsection (6C) to the extent to which the amount would be a deduction under Part D (Deductions) in the absence of this subpart.

Formula

- (6C) The formula is—

interest expenditure – reduced amount.

Definition of items in formula

- (6D) In the formula in subsection (6C),—
- (a) interest expenditure is the amount of interest expenditure incurred by the company for the income year:
 - (b) reduced amount is the reduced amount of interest expenditure calculated using the formula in subsection (4).

Net asset balance

- (7) When subsection (3) applies for an income year, the amount that remains outstanding after subtracting the debt value for the income year from the asset value for the income year (the net asset balance), must be used under sections DG 12 to DG 14, as applicable.

Meaning of asset value

- (8) For the purposes of this subpart, asset value means the value of the asset at the end of an income year, using—
- (a) for land, including an improvement to land, the amount given under subsection (8B);
 - (b) for other property, its adjusted tax value.

Asset value for land, including improvements to land

- (8B) For the purposes of subsection (8)(a), the asset value is the following amount, as applicable:
- (a) the amount given by the later of either—
 - (i) its most recent capital value or annual value as set by the relevant local authority; or
 - (ii) its cost on acquisition or, if the transaction involves an associated person, its market value:
 - (b) if the land or improvement to land is a leasehold estate in land, the market value of the leasehold estate which the person may establish by a valuation that is or has been made by a registered valuer no more than 3 years before the end of the income year:
 - (c) if different activities are carried out on the land on a single certificate of title within the meaning of the Land Transfer Act 1952, the value applying under paragraph (a) or (b), as applicable, adjusted as follows:
 - (i) by multiplying the value by the percentage that the area of land that is the portion of the land used in relation to the asset to which this subpart applies bears to the total land area described in the certificate of title:
 - (ii) by a valuation that is or has been made by a registered valuer no more than 3 years before the end of the income year, of the portion of land used in relation to the asset to which this subpart applies.

Meaning of debt value

- (9) For the purposes of this subpart, debt value—
- (a) means the average outstanding amount that gives rise to the interest payable by the company, measured by reference to the amounts outstanding at the start of and at the end of an income year; and
 - (b) for a person who has, in the income year, more than 1 asset to which this subpart applies, is reduced in subsection (5)(c), sections DG 12(6)(c) and DG 13(8)(c), by an amount previously taken into account under this subpart for the income year.

Example

Holiday Home Ltd holds a holiday home with a rateable value of $200,000. The company has debt of $40,000, with associated interest expenditure of $4,000. Since the debt value is less than the asset value, all the interest expenditure must be apportioned (section DG 11(3)–(3C)).

Boat Ltd has a charter boat whose adjusted tax value is $60,000. The company has debt of $100,000, with associated interest expenditure of $10,000. Since the debt value is more than the asset value, the company must apportion the interest expenditure of $6,000 (section DG 11(4)–(6)). The formula is $$10,000 \times ($60,000/$100,000) = $6,000$.

The remaining interest expenditure of $4,000 is not subject to apportionment under subpart DG and is allowed as a deduction under section DB 7 (section DG 11(6B)–(6D)). The formula is $$10,000 - $6,000 = $4,000$.

Defined in this Act: adjusted tax value, amount, asset, asset value, associated person, close company, cost, debt value, deduction, income, income year, interest, interest expenditure, land, market value, net asset balance, pay

DG 12 Interest expenditure: group companies

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for an income year when—
 - (a) a close company or a qualifying company (company A) has a net asset balance; and
 - (b) company A is part of the same group of companies as another company (company B); and
 - (c) company B has interest expenditure for which it is allowed a deduction.

How this section applies: looping rule

- (2) This section applies sequentially to every group company B until—
 - (a) the net asset balance for the income year is reduced to zero, or is treated as reduced to zero; or
 - (b) no other group companies exist to which this section applies.

Debt value less than net asset balance

- (3) If company B's debt value for the income year is equal to or less than the net asset balance for the income year, company B is allowed a deduction of a portion of interest expenditure incurred for the income year,—
 - (a) of an amount calculated by company A using the formula in section DG 11(3B); and
 - (b) treating company B's total interest expenditure for the income year as if it were the item interest expenditure in the formula.

Recalculation of net asset balance

- (4) In the application of subsection (3), the amount of the net asset balance must be recalculated on each application, being reduced by an amount equal to each counted group company's debt value.

Debt value more than net asset balance

- (5) If company B's debt value for the income year is more than the net asset balance for the income year, company B must calculate a reduced amount of interest expenditure for the income year using the formula—

$$\text{interest expenditure} \times \text{net asset balance} \div \text{company B's debt value.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (6) In the formula in subsection (5),—

- (a) interest expenditure is the total amount of interest expenditure incurred by company B for the income year:
- (b) net asset balance is the amount of the net asset balance for the income year:
- (c) company B's debt value is the amount of company B's debt value for the income year.

Apportionment of reduced amounts

- (7) Company B is allowed a deduction for the income year of a portion of the reduced amount described in subsection (5),—
 - (a) of an amount calculated by company A using the formula in section DG 11(3B); and
 - (b) treating the reduced amount as if it were the item interest expenditure in the formula.

Deductions for interest expenditure in excess of reduced amounts

- (7B) Company B is allowed a deduction for the amount of interest expenditure calculated under subsection (7C) to the extent to which the amount would be a deduction under Part D (Deductions) in the absence of this subpart.

Formula

- (7C) The amount of interest expenditure is calculated using the formula—

$$\text{interest expenditure} - \text{reduced amount.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (7D) In the formula in subsection (7C),—
 - (a) interest expenditure is the amount of interest expenditure described in subsection (6)(a):
 - (b) reduced amount is the reduced amount of interest expenditure calculated using the formula in subsection (5).

Net asset balance zero

- (8) Once a calculation is made under subsection (5), company B's net asset balance is treated as zero.

Net asset balance

- (9) If a net asset balance remains outstanding after the application of this section for an income year, the amount must be used under sections DG 13 and DG 14, as applicable.

Example

Holiday Home Ltd has an asset balance of $160,000 ($200,000 less $40,000) and is wholly owned by Parent Ltd. Parent has debt of $30,000, with associated interest expenditure of $3,000. Since Parent's debt value is less than the asset balance, all of Parent's interest expenditure must be apportioned (section DG 12(3)).

 - (b) the company is 1 or more of—
 - (i) a company that is a shareholder in company A;
 - (ii) a company that is a shareholder in a company that is part of the same group of companies as company A and has a voting interest in company A;
 - (iii) a company that has a voting interest in a company referred to in subparagraph (i) or (ii).

How this section applies: looping rule

- (2) This section applies sequentially as follows:
 - (a) first, to the companies referred to in subsection (1)(b)(i) and (ii); and
 - (b) secondly, to the extent to which the debt value of the company for the income year remains less than the company's share of the net asset balance, to the companies that are shareholders in a company referred to in paragraph (a); and
 - (c) so on, until either—
 - (i) the company's share of the net asset balance for the income year is reduced to zero or is treated as reduced to zero; or
 - (ii) no other corporate shareholders exist to which this section applies.

Limitation by share in asset balance

- (3) The deduction that the company is allowed for interest expenditure incurred for the income year is limited by its share of the net asset balance. The share of the asset balance is calculated using the formula—

$$\text{net asset balance} \times \text{company's interest.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (4) In the formula in subsection (3),—
- (a) net asset balance is the amount of the net asset balance after the application of section DG 11 or DG 12, as applicable, and as recalculated under subsection (6):
- (b) company's interest is the relevant voting interest in company A, expressed as a percentage.

Debt value less than asset balance

- (5) If the debt value for the company for the income year is equal to or less than its share of the net asset balance for the income year, the company is allowed a deduction of a portion of interest expenditure incurred for the income year,—
- (a) of an amount calculated by company A using the formula in section DG 11(3B); and
- (b) treating the total interest expenditure for the income year as if it were the item interest expenditure in the formula.

Recalculation of asset balance

- (6) In the application of subsection (5), the amount that is the company's share of the net asset balance must be recalculated on each application, being reduced by an amount equal to each counted company's debt value.

Debt value more than asset balance

- (7) If the debt value for the company for the income year is more than its share of the net asset balance, the company must calculate a reduced amount of interest expenditure incurred for the income year using the formula—

$$\frac{\text{interest expenditure} \times \text{company's share of net asset balance}}{\div \text{company's debt value.}}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (8) In the formula in subsection (7),—
- (a) interest expenditure is the total amount of interest expenditure incurred by the company for the income year:
- (b) company's share of net asset balance is the amount calculated for the company under subsection (3):
- (c) company's debt value is the amount of the debt value of the company for the income year.

Apportionment of reduced amounts

- (9) The company is allowed a deduction for the income year of a portion of the reduced amount described in subsection (7),—
- (a) of an amount calculated by company A using the formula in section DG 11(3B); and
 - (b) treating the reduced amount as if it were the item interest expenditure in the formula.

Deductions for interest expenditure in excess of reduced amounts

- (9B) The company is allowed a deduction for the amount of interest expenditure calculated under subsection (9C) to the extent to which the amount would be a deduction under Part D (Deductions) in the absence of this subpart.

Formula

- (9C) The formula is—
- $$\text{interest expenditure} - \text{reduced amount.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (9D) In the formula in subsection (9C),—
- (a) interest expenditure is the amount of interest expenditure incurred by the company for the income year;
 - (b) reduced amount is the reduced amount of interest calculated using the formula in subsection (7).

Net asset balance zero

- (10) Once a calculation is made under subsection (7), the amount that is the company's share of the net asset balance is treated as zero.

Net asset balance

- (11) If a net asset balance remains outstanding after the application of this section for an income year, the amount must be used under section DG 14.

Example

Parent Ltd has 2 equal corporate shareholders, company Y, which has debt of $20,000 with associated interest expenditure of $2,000, and company Z, which has debt of $70,000 with associated interest expenditure of $7,000. Both companies' share of the net asset balance is $65,000 ($$130,000 \times 50\%$). Since company Y's debt value is less than its share of the net asset balance, all its interest expenditure must be apportioned (section DG 13(5)). Company Z's debt value is greater than its share of the net asset balance, so it must apportion interest expenditure of $6,500 (section DG 13(7)–(9)). The formula is $$7,000 \times ($65,000/$70,000) = $6,500$.

DG 14 Interest expenditure: non-corporate shareholders

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for a person, for an income year and a company (company A) that is a close company or qualifying company, when—
 - (a) a net asset balance remains outstanding for an income year after the application of—
 - (i) first, section DG 13, if applicable;
 - (ii) secondly, section DG 12, if applicable;
 - (iii) thirdly, section DG 11, if neither applies; and
 - (b) the person—
 - (i) is not a company, other than a company acting as a trustee; and
 - (ii) has a voting interest in company A; and
 - (iii) has interest expenditure for which they are allowed a deduction.

Amount to be apportioned

- (2) For a natural person, the amount of interest expenditure that must be apportioned is only the amount of interest that the person incurs on money borrowed to acquire shares in company A or in a company referred to in section DG 13(1)(b).

Method of apportionment

- (3) The apportionment is made using the rules set out in section DG 13(2) to (10), treating the person as if they were the company.

Example

Company Y has 2 shareholders: Thomas, who has borrowed $200,000 to acquire a 50% interest in the company, and Brent, who has borrowed $10,000 to buy his 50% interest. Each has a share of the remaining net asset balance of $22,500. The formula is $($65,000 - $20,000) \times 50\% = $22,500$. Since Thomas's debt value is greater than his share of the net asset balance, Thomas must apportion 11.25% of his total interest expenditure (sections DG 14 and DG 13(7)–(9)). The formula is $22,500/200,000$. Since Brent's debt value is less than his share of the net asset balance, all Brent's interest expenditure must be apportioned (sections DG 14 and DG 13(5)).

Defined in this Act: amount, company, deduction, income year, interest, interest expenditure, net asset balance, share, trustee, voting interest

Section DG 14: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

Section DG 14(1): amended (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying, for the 2013–14 and later income years, for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i); for the 2014–15 and later income years, for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 24 February 2016, by section 106(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2015–16, Research and Development, and Remedial Matters) Act 2016 (2016 No 1).

Section DG 14(1)(b): amended (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying, for the 2013–14 and later income years, for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i); for the 2014–15 and later income years, for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 24 February 2016, by section 106(2) of the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2015–16, Research and Development, and Remedial Matters) Act 2016 (2016 No 1).

Quarantined expenditure

Heading: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 15 Quarantined expenditure rules

Sections DG 16 and DG 18 provide the rules that limit the amount of a person's deduction under sections DG 7, DG 8, and DG 11 to DG 14 for an income year when the income derived from the use of the asset does not reach a specified threshold. The excess expenditure is quarantined and denied as a deduction for the income year. Sections DG 17 and DG 19 provide for the allocation of the quarantined amount to a later income year when the income derived is sufficient to offset the expenditure. Companies must provide information disclosure statements under section 30D of the Tax Administration Act 1994 to enable the calculations to be made.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, company, deduction, income, income year

Section DG 15: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 16 Quarantined expenditure when asset activity negative

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when—

- (a) a person incurs expenditure or loss for which they are allowed a deduction that is limited under section DG 7, DG 8, or DG 11, as applicable, for an income year; and
- (b) the amount of income derived for the income year from the use of an asset, other than an amount of exempt income, is less than 2% of—
 - (i) for land, including an improvement to land, the amount given under subsection (1B):
 - (ii) for other property to which this subpart applies, its adjusted tax value.

Amount for land, including improvements to land

(1B) For the purposes of subsection (1)(b)(i), the amount is the following amount, as applicable:

- (a) the amount given by the later of either—
 - (i) its most recent capital value or annual value as set by the relevant local authority; or
 - (ii) its cost on acquisition or, if the transaction involves an associated person, its market value:
- (b) if the land or improvement to land is a leasehold estate in land, the market value of the leasehold estate which the person may establish by a valuation that is or has been made by a registered valuer no more than 3 years before the end of the income year:
- (c) if different activities are carried out on the land on a single certificate of title within the meaning of the Land Transfer Act 1952, the value applying under paragraph (a) or (b), as applicable, adjusted as follows:
 - (i) by multiplying the value by the percentage that the area of land that is the portion of the land used in relation to the asset to which this subpart applies bears to the total land area described in the certificate of title:
 - (ii) by a valuation that is or has been made by a registered valuer no more than 3 years before the end of the income year, of the portion of land used in relation to the asset to which this subpart applies.

Quarantined amount

(2) The amount of the person's excess expenditure for the income year is calculated using the formula—

$$\text{expenditure} - \text{asset income.}$$

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

- (a) expenditure is the total of the following amounts:

- (i) the total amount of deductions that the person is allowed for the income year under sections DG 7, DG 8, and DG 11, as applicable and after any necessary apportionment; and
 - (ii) an amount of the person that was quarantined under this section for an earlier income year and is not yet allocated to an income year:
- (b) asset income is the total amount of income, other than an amount of exempt income, derived for the income year from the use of the asset.

No deduction for quarantined amount

- (4) The excess expenditure calculated under subsection (2) is quarantined and denied as a deduction for the income year.

Outstanding profit balance

- (5) If the amount of expenditure for the income year is less than the amount of income for the income year, the excess income is the outstanding profit balance for the income year to be used under section DG 18. If the amount of expenditure for the income year is equal to or more than the amount of income for the income year, the outstanding profit balance is treated as zero.

Zero result

- (6) For the purposes of the formula in subsection (2), if the amount of income for the income year is greater than the amount of expenditure for the income year, the result of the formula is treated as zero.

Example

David has a city apartment with a rateable value of $300,000. He rents out the apartment and also uses it privately. He receives market rate rental of $4,000 from non-associates, and $6,000 from associates. David's total allowable expenditure, under sections DG 7, DG 8, and DG 11, is $15,000. The income from associates is exempt under section CW 8B, and is ignored. David therefore has asset income of $4,000 and deductions of $15,000, giving rise to an excess of expenditure over income of $11,000. Since David's income from non-associates is less than 2% of the apartment's rateable value, the excess expenditure of $11,000 is denied as a deduction. The amount denied may be allocated to a later income year under section DG 17.

Defined in this Act: adjusted tax value, amount, asset, associated person, cost, deduction, exempt income, income, income year, land, market value

Section DG 16: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

Section DG 16 example: amended (with effect on 1 April 2013), on 30 June 2014, by section 59 of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

DG 17 Allocation of amounts quarantined under section DG 16

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for an income year (the current year) when—
 - (a) a person has an amount of excess expenditure quarantined under section DG 16 in relation to an asset for an income year before the current year; and
 - (b) the person's income for the current year from the use of the asset is more than the amount of their deductions under sections DG 7, DG 8, and DG 11, as applicable.

Deduction and allocation

- (2) The amount of previously quarantined expenditure that the person is allowed as a deduction for the current year must not be more than the lesser of—
 - (a) the amount referred to in subsection (1)(a);
 - (b) the amount calculated using the formula—

$$\text{asset income} - \text{expenditure}.$$

Definition of items in formula

- (3) In the formula,—
 - (a) asset income is the total amount of income, other than an amount of exempt income, derived for the current year from the use of the asset;
 - (b) expenditure is the total amount of deductions that the person is allowed in relation to the asset for the current year under sections DG 7, DG 8, and DG 11, as applicable, and after any necessary apportionment.

Outstanding profit balance

- (4) If the lesser amount in subsection (2) is the quarantined amount referred to in subsection (2)(a), an outstanding profit balance arises of an amount that is the difference between the amount of income for the current year and the amount of expenditure for the current year, including the quarantined amount allocated to the current year. The outstanding profit balance is available for use under section DG 19.

Zero result

- (5) For the purposes of the formula in subsection (2), if the amount of expenditure for the current year is greater than the amount of income for the current year, the result of the formula is treated as zero.

Modification for certain assets

- (6) For the purposes of subsection (1)(a), a quarantined amount that is related to an asset may be used in relation to another asset of the person if—
- (a) the first asset is damaged, destroyed, or lost, and is no longer held by the person; and
 - (b) a second asset is acquired to replace the first asset; and
 - (c) the 2 assets are identical or substantially the same.

Example, continued from section DG 16

In the following income year, David derives $10,000 from renting his city apartment at market rates to a non-associate. David's total allowable expenditure, under sections DG 7, DG 8, and DG 11, is $8,000. He also has expenditure of $11,000 quarantined from the previous income year. David is able to deduct $2,000 of that quarantined expenditure. The remaining $9,000 continues to be quarantined and may be allowed as a deduction for a later income year.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, deduction, income, income year

Section DG 17: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

Section DG 17(3)(a): amended, on 30 June 2014 (applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), by section 57(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

Section DG 17 example: amended (with effect on 1 April 2013), on 30 June 2014, by section 59 of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

DG 18 Quarantined expenditure: group companies and shareholders

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when—
- (a) a person incurs expenditure for an income year for which they are allowed a deduction that is limited under 1 or more of sections DG 12 to DG 14; and
 - (b) the income year is an income year in which section DG 16(1)(b) applies.

How this section applies: first looping rule

- (2) The first application of this section is to every group company B in sequence until no other group companies exist to which this subsection applies.

How this section applies: second looping rule

- (3) The second application of this section is sequentially to—
- (a) first, 1 or more of the following persons, none of which is a company referred to in subsection (2):
 - (i) a person who is a shareholder in company A;
 - (ii) a person who is a shareholder in a company that is part of the same group of companies as company A and has a voting interest in company A; and
 - (b) secondly, a person who is a shareholder in a company referred to in paragraph (a); and
 - (c) so on, until no other persons exist to which this subsection applies.

Quarantined amount

- (4) The amount of the person's excess expenditure for the income year is calculated using the formula—

$$\text{expenditure} - \text{outstanding profit balance.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (5) In the formula,—
- (a) expenditure is the total of the following amounts:
 - (i) the total amount of deductions that the person is allowed for the income year under sections DG 12 to DG 14, as applicable and after any necessary apportionment; and
 - (ii) an amount of the person that was quarantined under this section for an earlier income year and is not yet allocated to an income year:
 - (b) outstanding profit balance,—
 - (i) for company B, is the amount of the outstanding profit balance referred to in section DG 16(5);
 - (ii) for a shareholder, is the amount that is the person's share of the outstanding profit balance referred to in section DG 16(5), calculated using the formula in section DG 13(3), treating the outstanding profit balance as if it were the net asset balance.

No deduction for quarantined amount

- (6) The excess expenditure calculated under subsection (4) is either quarantined or remains quarantined, as applicable, and is denied as a deduction for the income year.

Recalculation of outstanding profit balance

- (7) For the purposes of subsections (4) and (5)(b), the amount that is the outstanding profit balance must be recalculated on each application, being reduced by an amount equal to the amount of any deduction counted.

Zero result

- (8) For the purposes of the formula in subsection (4), if the amount of the outstanding profit balance for the income year is greater than the amount of expenditure for the income year, the result of the formula is treated as zero.

Example

Aircraft Ltd owns an aircraft to which the rules in this subpart apply; the income derived from the asset in the current year is less than 2% of the cost of the aircraft. The company has calculated an outstanding profit balance of $12,000 after the application of section DG 16. Aircraft is 100% owned by Parent Ltd, which has apportioned interest expenditure of $5,000 calculated under section DG 12. Parent has 2 equal shareholders, Alisa who has apportioned interest expenditure of $8,000, and Hamish who has apportioned interest expenditure of $1,000, both calculated under section DG 14. Parent must apply section DG 18 first, and is not required to quarantine any of its interest expenditure; the outstanding profit balance is reduced to $7,000 ($12,000 – $5,000). Alisa’s and Hamish’s share of the outstanding profit balance is $3,500 each ($7,000 × 50%). Alisa must quarantine $4,500 of interest expenditure ($8,000 – $3,500); Hamish is not required to quarantine any interest expenditure.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, company, deduction, group of companies, income year, net asset balance, shareholder, voting interest

Section DG 18: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

Section DG 18 example: amended (with effect on 1 April 2013), on 30 June 2014, by section 59 of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

DG 19 Allocation of amounts quarantined under section DG 18

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies for an income year (the current year) when—
- (a) a person has an amount of excess expenditure quarantined under section DG 18 for an income year before the current year; and
 - (b) an outstanding profit balance referred to in section DG 17(4) is available for use for the current year.

How this section applies

- (2) This section applies sequentially in the order set out in section DG 18(2) and (3) until the outstanding profit balance is reduced to zero.

Deduction and allocation

- (3) The amount of previously quarantined expenditure that the person is allowed as a deduction for the current year must not be more than the lesser of—
- (a) the quarantined amount referred to in subsection (1)(a):
 - (b) the amount calculated using the formula—

$$\text{outstanding profit balance} - \text{expenditure.}$$

Definition of items in formula

- (4) In the formula,—
- (a) outstanding profit balance,—
 - (i) for company B, is the amount of the outstanding profit balance determined for the company for the current year under section DG 18(5), if applicable, or otherwise under section DG 17(4):
 - (ii) for a shareholder, is the amount that is the person's share of the outstanding profit balance for the current year under section DG 18(5), if applicable, or otherwise under section DG 17(4), calculated using the formula in section DG 13(3), treating the outstanding profit balance as if it were the net asset balance:
 - (b) expenditure is the total amount of deductions that the person is allowed for the current year under sections DG 12 to DG 14, as applicable, and after any necessary apportionment.

Recalculation of outstanding profit balance

- (5) For the purposes of subsections (3) and (4)(a), the amount that is the outstanding profit balance must be recalculated on each application, being reduced by an amount equal to the amount of any deduction for quarantined expenditure counted.

Zero result

- (6) For the purposes of the formula in subsection (3), if the amount of expenditure for the current year is greater than the amount of the outstanding profit balance for the current year, the result of the formula is treated as zero.

Example, continued from section DG 18

In the following income year, Aircraft Ltd has calculated an outstanding profit balance of $16,000. Section DG 19 does not apply to Parent Ltd or Hamish because they have no previously quarantined interest expenditure. However, the section does apply to Alisa because she has $4,500 of quarantined interest expenditure from the previous year. Because Parent Ltd does not have any current year expenditure, Alisa's share of the outstanding profit balance of Parent Ltd is $8,000 ($$16,000 \times 50\%$).

Alisa's current year apportioned interest expenditure is $7,000, calculated under section DG 14. Alisa is allowed a deduction for all her current year expenditure and also a deduction for $1,000 of previously quarantined expenditure ($8,000 – $7,000). Her remaining quarantined expenditure is $3,500 ($4,500 – $1,000).

Defined in this Act: amount, company, deduction, income year, net asset balance, shareholder

Section DG 19: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

Section DG 19 example: replaced (with effect on 1 April 2013), on 30 June 2014, by section 59 of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Employee Allowances, and Remedial Matters) Act 2014 (2014 No 39).

Certain modifications to rules

Heading: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 20 When income cannot be separately attributed

Exclusion from rules

- (1) Sections DG 16 and DG 18 do not apply to the use of an asset for an income year when—
 - (a) the person derives an amount of income for the income year from the use of the asset in a business activity; and
 - (b) because of the nature of the activity, an amount cannot be separately attributed to the use of the asset.

Re-inclusion

- (2) Subsection (1) does not apply if—
 - (a) the person also uses the asset in deriving an amount of income that is separately attributable to the use of the asset; and
 - (b) the use of the asset referred to in paragraph (a) is at least 80% of the total use of the asset both in the business activity referred to in subsection (1) and as described in paragraph (a).

Example

Paul uses a helicopter on his farm to check stock for 50 hours in an income year, rents it out for 50 hours, and also uses it privately. While the income from the rental is clear, the income Paul derives in relation to the use of the helicopter in farming operations is not. The use of the helicopter falls outside the rules under the exclusion in section DG 20(1), and does not meet the requirements for re-inclusion under section DG 20(2) as the use of the helicopter to earn rental income is only 50% of the total income-earning use of the helicopter. Any loss attributable to the helicopter is not quarantined.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, business, income, income year

Section DG 20: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 21 Opting out of treatment under this subpart

Opt-out threshold

- (1) If the amount of income derived for an income year from the use of an asset is less than $4,000, the person who has the asset may choose to treat the income as exempt income under section CW 8B(2) (Certain amounts derived from use of assets). The threshold amount does not include an amount of income exempt under section CW 8B(3).

Quarantined expenditure

- (2) If, in relation to the use of an asset in an income year, the person has an amount of quarantined expenditure for the income year, they may choose to treat the amount of income derived that gives rise to the quarantined expenditure as exempt income under section CW 8B for the income year.

Consequences of opting out

- (3) When a person who has an asset chooses under subsection (1) or (2) to treat the income derived from the use of the asset as exempt income, any interest expenditure that must be apportioned under section DG 9 is treated as expenditure incurred in deriving exempt income.

No application to companies

- (4) This section does not apply when the person who has the asset is a company.

Example

Mike rents his bach out through the Internet to a non-associate. The gross amount he receives for an income year is $3,000. Mike can opt out of the rules in this subpart, which would mean that he would not be liable to tax on the amount, but would also not be entitled to claim any deductions in relation to the bach.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, exempt income, income, income year, interest expenditure

Section DG 21: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

DG 22 Application of rules to part years

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when the total income-earning use, private use, and non-use of an asset of a person relates to only part of an income year.

Non-use period

- (2) For the purposes of section DG 3(1)(b), the number of days is calculated using the formula—

$$(\text{days} \div 365) \times 62.$$

When assets acquired during year: debt value

- (3) For the purposes of section DG 11(9), if the company acquires the asset during the income year, the debt value is treated as the outstanding amount at the end of the income year.

When assets disposed of during year: debt value

- (4) For the purposes of section DG 11(9), if the company disposes of the asset during the income year, the debt value is treated as the outstanding amount at the start of the income year.

When assets both acquired and disposed of during year

- (5) For the purposes of section DG 11(9), if the company both acquires and disposes of the asset during the income year, the debt value is treated as the average of the outstanding amounts on the date on which the asset was acquired and the date of its disposal.

When assets acquired during year: interest expenditure

- (6) For the purposes of sections DG 11 to DG 14, when company A acquires or disposes of an asset during an income year, the amount of interest expenditure that must be apportioned is calculated on a pro rata basis.

Ring-fenced losses in part years

- (7) For the purposes of section DG 16(1)(b), the threshold is calculated using the formula—

$$(\text{days} \div 365) \times 2\%.$$

Definition of item in formulas

- (8) In the formulas in subsections (2) and (7), days is the number of days in the income year on which the person has the asset, and for the purposes of the calculation, section DG 9(4) similarly applies.

Defined in this Act: amount, asset, company, debt value, income year, interest expenditure, private use

Section DG 22: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2013 and applying for the 2013–14 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(i), and for the 2014–15 and later income years for an item of property referred to in section DG 3(2)(a)(ii) and (iii)), on 17 July 2013, by section 30(1) of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

General rule

- (1) A person has a FIF loss in an income year if,—
 - (a) at any time in the year, the person has—

Petroleum exploration expenditure

DT 1A Ring-fenced allocations

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies to an amount of a person's deductions for expenditure and loss for an income year to the extent to which it is—
 - (a) petroleum exploration expenditure:
 - (b) petroleum development expenditure:
 - (c) residual expenditure.

Basis for allocation of deductions

- (2) If, but for this subsection, an amount that relates to petroleum mining operations undertaken outside New Zealand would be allocated to an income year (the current year), including an amount carried forward and allocated to the current year, the amount that is allocated to the current year is no more than the amount of the person's income derived for the current year from all petroleum mining operations undertaken outside New Zealand.

Excess allocations: carried forward and re-instated next year

- (3) Any excess not allocated to the current year because of subsection (2) is carried forward and treated as—
 - (a) relating to petroleum mining operations undertaken outside New Zealand for the next income year; and
 - (b) allocated to that next income year.

Restriction on reinstating excess allocations

- (4) Despite subsection (3), the excess is not allocated to the next income year, and no deduction is allowed or allocated to any income year for the excess, if sections IA 5 and IP 3 (which relate to the carrying forward of tax losses for companies) would not have allowed the excess to be carried forward to that next income year in a loss balance, treating the excess as a tax loss component arising on the last day of the current year.

Defined in this Act: deduction, income year, loss balance, New Zealand, petroleum development expenditure, petroleum exploration expenditure, petroleum mining operation, residual expenditure, tax loss component

Section DT 1A: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 6 October 2009, by section 97(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

- $$\text{previous expenditure} - \text{consideration}.$$

Compare: 2004 No 35 s DV 1

DV 2 Transfer of expenditure to master fund

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when—
- (a) a superannuation fund (the member superannuation fund) invests some or all of its funds in another superannuation fund (the master superannuation fund); and
 - (b) while the member superannuation fund has funds invested in the master superannuation fund, the member superannuation fund incurs expenditure of a kind described in subsection (2).

Expenditure on publicising or managing

- (2) The expenditure is expenditure to which all the following apply:
- (a) it is incurred—
 - (i) in developing, marketing, selling, promoting, or advertising the fund; or
 - (ii) in managing the fund; and
 - (b) it is not incurred in acquiring a building, equipment, land, machinery, or plant; and
 - (c) it is assessable income of the recipient.

When expenditure becomes master superannuation fund's

- (3) The member superannuation fund may choose to treat some or all of the expenditure as expenditure incurred by the master superannuation fund in deriving assessable income.

How election made

- (4) The member superannuation fund makes the election by giving notice to the Commissioner within 1 of the following times:
- (a) the time in which its return of income must be filed under section 37 of the Tax Administration Act 1994; or

When expenditure incurred

- (6) The expenditure is treated as being incurred by the master superannuation fund as follows:
- (a) for a master fund that is a multi-rate PIE, in the income year in which the expenditure is transferred by the member superannuation fund; or
 - (b) for other master funds, in the same income year as that in which it was incurred by the member superannuation fund.

Deduction allowed to master superannuation fund

- (7) The master superannuation fund is allowed a deduction for the expenditure. The amount of the deduction is limited by subsection (8).

Amount of deduction

Amount of deduction when master fund is portfolio tax rate entity

- (8B) Despite subsection (8), a master superannuation fund that is a multi-rate PIE is allowed a deduction for expenditure transferred to it by a member superannuation fund. However, the maximum amount transferred must be no more than the member fund's share of the taxable income of the PIE for the income year in which the amount is transferred, any excess being treated as not transferred.

Deducted expenditure not incurred by member superannuation fund

- (9) The expenditure for which the master superannuation fund is allowed a deduction is treated as not being incurred by the member superannuation fund.

Link with subpart DA

- (10) The link between this section and subpart DA (General rules) is as follows:
- (a) for subsection (7),—
 - (i) it supplements the general permission:

DV 4 Carry forward of expenditure

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when—

[Repealed]

- (2) [Repealed]

Surplus carried forward

- (3) The member superannuation fund carries the surplus expenditure forward to the next income year and takes the following steps:
- (a) it gets the combined expenditure by adding the surplus expenditure to the expenditure, if any, incurred by it in the income year that it chooses to treat as being incurred by the master superannuation fund;
 - (b) it calculates the maximum deduction for the income year, using the formula in section DV 3;
 - (c) if the combined expenditure is the same as or less than the maximum deduction, it—
 - (i) treats the surplus expenditure as expenditure incurred by the master superannuation fund in deriving assessable income in the income year; and
 - (ii) applies subsections (5) to (8):
 - (d) if the combined expenditure is more than the maximum deduction, it—
 - (i) carries forward the new surplus expenditure to the next income year; and
 - (ii) applies subsection (4).

Surplus dealt with until gone

- (4) The member superannuation fund repeats the steps in subsection (3) for the following income years until all surplus expenditure is deducted.

Deduction allowed to master superannuation fund

 - (d) company A and company B remain part of the group at the end of the income year; and
 - (e) either—
 - (i) the income years of company A and company B end on the same date; or

EC 2 Valuation of livestock

Valuation method

- (1) A person must determine the value of their livestock at the end of each income year by a method that is available under this subpart for them to use.

Use of value

- (2) The value determined under subsection (1) is—
- (a) the closing value of the livestock for the income year for the purposes of section CH 1 (Adjustment for closing values of trading stock, livestock, and excepted financial arrangements); and
 - (b) the opening value of the livestock for the next income year for the purposes of section DB 49 (Adjustment for opening values of trading stock, livestock, and excepted financial arrangements).

Defined in this Act: income year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EC 2

EC 3 Livestock valuation methods*Specified livestock*

- (1) The value of specified livestock is determined under sections EC 6 to EC 27.

Non-specified livestock

- (2) The value of non-specified livestock is determined under sections EC 28 to EC 31.

High-priced livestock

- (3) The value of high-priced livestock is determined under sections EC 32 to EC 37.

Bloodstock

- (4) The value of bloodstock is determined under sections EC 38 to EC 48.

EC 4 Transfers of livestock within wholly-owned groups*When this section applies*

- (1) This section applies in an income year to livestock held by a company that is part of a wholly-owned group of companies, when—
- (a) a group company (company A) originally acquires and holds the livestock; and
 - (b) from the time it is acquired to the end of the income year, the livestock is held within the group by a company or companies that are resident in New Zealand; and
 - (c) through transfers within the group, another group company (company B) holds the livestock at the end of the income year; and
 - (d) company A and company B remain part of the group at the end of the income year; and
 - (e) either—
 - (i) the income years of company A and company B end on the same date; or
 - (ii) they end on different dates, and the Commissioner has approved both dates as corresponding to the end of a business cycle and as necessary to avoid material distortion of net income that would occur if the income years ended on the same date.

Choice of treatment

- (2) Company B may choose to value the livestock at the cost of the livestock to company A.

When company stops being part of group

- (3) If the companies stop being part of the same wholly-owned group, company B is treated as disposing of and reacquiring the livestock for its market value at the time. If the market value of the livestock cannot be determined separately from other property, its market value at the time company B acquired it is treated as its value.

Defined in this Act: business, Commissioner, company, income year, net income, resident in New Zealand, wholly-owned group of companies

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EC 5

EC 4B Compulsory use of herd scheme method for associated persons

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies if, in an income year (the current year), a person (the transferor) disposes of livestock of a type for which they use the herd scheme (the transfer) to an associated person (the transferee), and the transfer is not in the ordinary course of business.

When this section does not apply

- (2) This section does not apply to the transfer of livestock if,—
- (a) the transferor and the transferee would not be associated if the transferee or an associate were not the descendants in relation to the transferor or an associate of the transferor; and
 - (b) the transfer is at market value and the transfer's consideration is wholly on arm's length commercial terms and conditions, ignoring terms and conditions relating to financing; and
 - (c) for the transferor and associates of the transferor, but excluding their descended associates,—
 - (i) all of their specified livestock in the income year of the transfer have been disposed of; and
 - (ii) they do not derive income from the disposal of specified livestock that are part of a farming business in the next 4 income years.

When this section does not apply: deceased treated as alive and transferor

- (3) This section does not apply if it would not apply treating a transfer of livestock to or from the estate of a deceased or under a will of a deceased as a transfer made by the deceased immediately before their death to the relevant transferee. However, this subsection does not apply if the will of the deceased creates a life interest in the relevant livestock.

Compulsory use of herd scheme method

- (4) Despite sections EC 7(2), EC 12(1), EC 22(1), and EC 25(1), the transferee is treated as choosing and giving a notice of election, with application beginning for the current year, to use the herd scheme for a type of livestock, if the formula in subsection (5) calculates zero or a positive amount for a class in the type of livestock.

Formula

- (5) The formula, for the purposes of subsections (1) and (4), is—hypothetical end herd scheme amount – minimum herd scheme amount.

Definition of items in formula

- (6) In the formula,—
- (a) hypothetical end herd scheme amount is the lesser of the following 2 amounts, or the first amount if they are the same:
- (i) the number of animals in the current year that the person would have of a class (the relevant class), adding back animals in all transfers described in subsection (1) that this section would apply to:
 - (ii) the number of animals of the relevant class that the person valued under the herd scheme at the end of the year before the current year:
- (b) minimum herd scheme amount is the number of animals of the relevant class that the person has in the current year.

Definitions

- (7) In this section,—
- (a) descendant means the son, daughter, or grandchild of the transferor or of an associate of the transferor:
- (b) descended associate means—
- (i) an associate (the associate) of the transferor that would not be associated if the associate or another associate were not descendants in relation to the transferor or another associate of the transferor:
 - (ii) an associate (the associate) of the transferor that carries on a farming business separately from the transferor, and would not be associated if the associate or another associate were not relatives in relation to the transferor or another associate of the transferor.

Defined in this Act: amount, associated, class, descendant, descended associate, herd scheme, income year, notice

Section EC 4B: inserted (with effect on 28 March 2012), on 17 July 2013, by section 39 of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

EC 4C Value and timing of transfers

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies to a transfer (the transfer) of specified livestock that section EC 4B applies to.

Same tax year

- (2) If the transfer occurs in the same tax year for both the transferor and transferee, then the transfer is treated as a disposal and acquisition at the value of the relevant livestock under the herd scheme at the end of the transferor's corresponding income year.

Different tax year

- (3) If the transfer occurs in different tax years for the transferor and transferee, then subsection (4) or (5) applies.

Different tax year: transferee earlier

- (4) If the transferee acquires the relevant livestock in a tax year earlier than the tax year in which the transferor disposes of it, then the transfer is treated as a disposal and acquisition at the value of the relevant livestock under the herd scheme at the beginning of the transferor's corresponding income year.

Different tax year: transferee later

- (5) If the transferee acquires the relevant livestock in a tax year (the later tax year) later than the tax year in which the transferor disposes of it, then—
- (a) the transfer is treated as a disposal and acquisition at the value of the relevant livestock under the herd scheme at the end of the transferor's corresponding income year:
 - (b) for the purposes of the transferee's opening value under section EC 16, the transferee is treated as owning and valuing the relevant livestock under the herd scheme on the last day of the transferee's income year corresponding to the tax year before the later tax year.

Defined in this Act: herd scheme, income year, specified livestock, tax year

Section EC 4C: inserted (with effect on 28 March 2012), on 17 July 2013, by section 39 of the Taxation (Livestock Valuation, Assets Expenditure, and Remedial Matters) Act 2013 (2013 No 52).

- (a) for use in a farming or agricultural business that is affected by a self-assessed adverse event; and
 - (b) by a donor or supplier who is not associated with the recipient.

Treatment by donor or supplier

- (a) no value, if the livestock is donated to the recipient:
 - (b) the value of the consideration provided by the recipient.

 - (b) the person who has the use of the livestock; and
 - (c) any other person who has made livestock of the same type available to the person referred to in paragraph (b) under a profit-sharing arrangement.

Partnerships interests

- (4) For the purpose of an election under this section, a person's interest in a partnership that owns livestock is treated separately from any other interest that the person has in livestock. Separate elections are required for the person's partnership interest and for their other livestock interests. The person is not required to choose the same valuation method in both cases.

- (ii) derived income in either income year from specified livestock of the same type as that owned by the new partnership.

Valuation

- (2) The value of specified livestock owned by the new partnership must be taken into account in the way the old partnership determines the value of livestock of the particular type at the end of the income year in which the new partnership is formed. If the old partnership has no specified livestock of the type on hand at the end of the income year, the value is taken into account as the old partnership would have determined it, had it owned specified livestock of that type.

- (2) The opening value of herd livestock in an income year is determined under subsection (3) if a person—
- (a) has valued the livestock under the herd scheme in the previous income year; and
 - (b) has the livestock on hand at the start of the income year; and
 - (c) has not chosen to value the livestock by a different method for the income year.

Determining opening value

- (3) The opening value of herd livestock in an income year is either its herd value for the income year or, if the person has adopted a herd value ratio, its herd value for the income year multiplied by its herd value ratio for the previous income year. This subsection overrides section DB 49(3) (Adjustment for opening values of trading stock, livestock, and excepted financial arrangements).

- (1) A herd value ratio is available for a person to use in determining the value of specified livestock in the herd scheme. A person may adopt a herd value ratio for herd livestock of a particular type by giving notice in the way described in section EC 11. A person may also adopt a recalculated ratio by giving notice in the same way.

Chatham Islands livestock

- (2) Herd value ratios calculated under subsection (5) do not apply to livestock on the Chatham Islands. The Chatham Islands adjustment to the herd value ratio is dealt with in section EC 19.

When herd value ratio applies

- (a) the income year in which it is superseded by a recalculation of the ratio; or
 - (b) the income year in which the person stops valuing, under an election, livestock of that type under the herd scheme; or
 - (c) the income year following 2 consecutive income years in which the person has not valued livestock of that type under the herd scheme.

Assessment of average value

- (4) For the purpose of calculating a herd value ratio, a person must obtain from a recognised livestock valuer an assessment of the value of an average animal of that person in each applicable class of livestock. The value is determined as at the 30 April that is closest to the day on which the national average market values are set.

Calculation of herd value ratio

- (5) The herd value ratio for livestock of a particular type is calculated by using the formula in subsection (6) and rounding the result of the calculation to the nearest of the following figures: 0.9, 1.0, 1.1, 1.2, 1.3.

Formula

- (6) The formula is—

$$\Sigma(\text{average value} \times \text{number}) \div \Sigma(\text{herd value} \times \text{number}).$$

Definition of items in formula

- (7) In the formula,—
- (a) Σ is the total of the individual calculations for all applicable classes of livestock type valued under the herd scheme;
 - (b) average value is the average value of an animal in a class as described in subsection (4);
 - (c) number is the number of all livestock of that class on hand at the end of the income year, including livestock that are not in the herd scheme, but not including high-priced livestock:

(d) herd value is the herd value of livestock for a class.

Defined in this Act: class, herd livestock, herd scheme, herd value, herd value ratio, high-priced livestock, income year, livestock on the Chatham Islands, national average market value, notice, specified livestock, type

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EC 17

Defined in this Act: assessment, Commissioner, herd value ratio, income tax, income year, type

- (a) the income year in which the person stops valuing, under an election, livestock of that type in the herd scheme; or
- (b) the income year following 2 consecutive income years in which the person has not valued livestock of that type on the Chatham Islands under the herd scheme.

Setting adjustment

(3) The Commissioner must set and may vary from time to time the level of Chatham Islands adjustment to the herd value ratio that applies in an income year.

Defined in this Act: Commissioner, herd livestock, herd scheme, herd value, herd value ratio, income year, livestock on the Chatham Islands, notice, type

- (b) bailed livestock is all the livestock in a class that person A has been given the use of under a bailment, lease, or other agreement that remains in force at the end of the income year.

Result of applying formula

Partnerships: cost price and national standard cost scheme

Heading: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2009), on 6 October 2009, by section 114(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EC 26B Entering partners' cost base

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when an entering partner has acquired specified livestock that includes female breeding livestock for which section HG 10 (Disposal of livestock) applies, and the partners use the cost price method or the national standard cost scheme.

Existing cost base

- (2) For the specified livestock, the entering partner is treated as having the same existing cost base that the exiting partner would have had for the purposes of the cost price method or national standard cost scheme for an income year, if they had not disposed of the interests.

Addition to cost base

- (3) For the purposes of determining the value of the specified livestock at the end of an income year for the purposes of section EC 2, the entering partner must add to the existing cost base, described in subsection (2), the amount for the income year (the current year) calculated using the following formula:

livestock cost base difference × current year count ÷ allowed years.

Definition of items in formula

- (4) In the formula,—
 - (a) livestock cost base difference is the cost base that the entering partner would have for the specified livestock at the end of the income year in which the acquisition of the specified livestock occurred, ignoring subsection (2) reduced by the entering partner's existing cost base for the specified livestock at the end of that year, described in subsection (2). It must be a positive number:

- (b) current year count,—
- (i) is the allowed years reduced by the number of years between the current year and the income year in which the entering partner's acquisition of the specified livestock occurred, ignoring years in which the partners do not use the cost price method or national standard cost scheme (for example: current year count is 1, if the allowed years is 4, and the acquisition of the specified livestock occurred in the 2010–11 income year, and the current year is the 2013–14 income year, and the relevant method or scheme was used for all relevant income years):
 - (ii) may equal the allowed years (for example: the current year is the same year as the income year in which the entering partner's acquisition of the specified livestock occurred), but must not be a negative number:
- (c) allowed years is—
- (i) 4, if the partners acquire or dispose of any partnership interests that include any livestock after the entering partner's acquisition of the specified livestock and before the end of the income year in which that acquisition occurred; or
 - (ii) 5, if the partners do not acquire or dispose of any partnership interests that include any livestock after the entering partner's acquisition of the specified livestock and before the end of the income year in which that acquisition occurred.

Defined in this Act: amount, cost price, dispose, entering partner, exiting partner, income year, national standard cost scheme, partner, partner's interest, specified livestock

Valuation of high-priced livestock

EC 32 Application of sections EC 33 to EC 37

Sections EC 33 to EC 37

- (1) Sections EC 33 to EC 37 set out the rules for valuing high-priced livestock.

Person chooses valuation method

- (2) A person may choose to use either the straight-line method or the diminishing value method to value high-priced livestock.

Diminishing value method

- (3) If the person chooses to use the diminishing value method, they must give notice to the Commissioner that they are using the method at the time of filing their return of income for the first income year in which the value of the high-priced livestock is determined under section EC 34. The person cannot revoke their election to use the diminishing value method for the livestock.

Defined in this Act: Commissioner, high-priced livestock, income year, notice, return of income

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EC 32

EC 33 Determining depreciation percentages

Determined by Commissioner

- (1) The Commissioner must determine a depreciation percentage for an income year for each type, class, or category of high-priced livestock.

Purpose

- (2) The percentage represents the average percentage decline in the value of livestock of the type, class, or category.

Factors

- (3) The Commissioner must take into account—
- (a) the average cost of livestock of the type, class, or category; and
 - (b) the estimated useful life of the livestock; and
 - (c) the average estimated residual market value of the livestock.

Defined in this Act: class, Commissioner, depreciation percentage, estimated residual market value, estimated useful life, high-priced livestock, income year, type

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EC 33

EC 34 General rule

Value in income year of acquisition and later income years

- (1) The closing value of high-priced livestock at the end of the income year in which it is acquired is its cost price minus the reduction applying in the income year. In a later income year, the value is its opening value minus the reduction applying in the income year until the value reaches or falls below the national average market value for the class to which the livestock belongs.

Straight-line method

- (2) When a person has chosen to use the straight-line method, the reduction is calculated using the formula—
- $$\text{cost price} \times \text{depreciation percentage.}$$

Diminishing value method

- (3) When a person has chosen to use the diminishing value method, the reduction is calculated as follows:
- (a) in the first income year in which the election applies, the cost price multiplied by the diminishing value equivalent of the depreciation percentage for the income year;
 - (b) in later income years, the opening value of the livestock multiplied by the diminishing value equivalent of the depreciation percentage for the income year.

Meaning of diminishing value equivalent

- (4) In this section, diminishing value equivalent, for a depreciation percentage, means the diminishing value depreciation rate in schedule 12, column 1 (Old banded rates of depreciation) to which the amount in column 2 equal to the depreciation percentage is the straight-line equivalent. Two qualifications are—
- (a) if no amount in column 2 is equal to the depreciation percentage, the amount closest to it is taken; and
 - (b) if 2 amounts in column 2 are equidistant from the depreciation percentage, the depreciation percentage is rounded down.

Exclusions

- (5) This section does not apply in the cases described in sections EC 35 and EC 36.
- Defined in this Act: amount, class, cost price, depreciation percentage, diminishing value equivalent, high-priced livestock, income year, national average market value

EC 35 Livestock reaching national average market value and livestock no longer used for breeding

Livestock at or less than national average market value

- (1) This section applies to a person's high-priced livestock whose value at the end of an income year is equal to or less than the national average market value for the class to which the livestock belongs.

Livestock no longer used for breeding

- (2) This section also applies to high-priced livestock that, in an income year, a person—
- (a) does not expect to use for breeding for that or any later income year; and
 - (b) does not intend to dispose of to any other person to use for breeding.

Closing value

- (3) The closing value of the high-priced livestock at the end of the income year is determined as follows:
- (a) when the person values any specified livestock of that type under the herd scheme for the income year, the value of the animal under the herd scheme; and
 - (b) when the person values all specified livestock of that type that is older than 1 year under the national standard cost scheme or the cost price method, the national average market value for the income year of livestock of the class to which the animal belongs; and
 - (c) when the person values all specified livestock of that type that is older than 1 year under the market value method or the replacement price method, the market value or replacement price of the animal at the end of the income year.

Valuation in later income years

- (4) In later income years, the animal that was high-priced livestock is treated as the person's specified livestock and is valued under the valuation method the person chooses for specified livestock of the type to which the animal belongs.

Entry into herd scheme in later income years

- (5) This subsection applies if, in a later income year (year A), the person values any specified livestock of the same type as the animal under the herd scheme and, in the next year, values the animal under the herd scheme. The animal is treated as if it were valued under the herd scheme at the end of year A.

Valuation method for right to acquire share under share-lending arrangement

- (2) Despite subsection (1), a share supplier's share-lending right has the value at the end of each income year that is equal to the amount described in subsection (4).

Valuation method for share acquired by share supplier under share-lending arrangement

Valuation when disposal of shares acquired under taxable bonus issue

- (4B) Despite subsection (1), a share that a person acquires under a taxable bonus issue is valued immediately before the person disposes of the share at an amount equal to the amount of the dividend derived by the person from the issue of the share, not including the amount of imputation credits attached to the dividend by the issuer of the share and withholding tax withheld by the issuer of the share.

Cost-flow methods

- (5) The person must use 1 of the following cost-flow methods to allocate costs:
- (a) the first-in first-out cost method; or
 - (b) the weighted average cost method.

Certain emissions units not pooled with other types of emissions unit

- (5B) No emissions unit described in 1 of the following paragraphs may be pooled for the purposes of subsection (5) with an emissions unit described in another of the paragraphs:
- (a) pre-1990 forest land emissions units relating to pre-1990 forest land, if the holder of the units would derive income, other than exempt income and excluded income, from a disposal of the land without timber:
 - (b) post-1989 forest land emissions units:
 - (bb) forest sink emissions units:

 - (db) fishing quota emissions units, if the holder of the units would derive no income, other than exempt income and excluded income, from a disposal of the individual transferable quota to which the units relate:
 - (e) emissions units issued for no consideration—
 - (i) to which section ED 1B applies; and
 - (ii) that have not been assigned a cost under section ED 1B(3)(a).

 - (b) emissions units described in paragraphs (d) and (db) may be pooled together.

Persons complying with generally accepted accounting practice

- (6) A person who complies with generally accepted accounting practice must comply with the consistency and disclosure requirements of NZIAS 8 or an equivalent standard issued in its place.

Other persons

 - (i) the change is justified by sound commercial reasons and for this purpose, the advancement, deferral, or reduction of an income tax liability is not a sound commercial reason; or
 - (ii) the change is required by another provision in this subpart; and
 - (c) must keep sufficient details of any such change, and the reasons for it, under section 22 of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Valuation of emissions units issued for zero price

- (7B) Despite subsection (1),—
- (a) an emissions unit transferred under Part 4, subpart 2, of the Climate Change Response Act 2002 in an income year for no payment of a price, and to which section ED 1B does not apply, has a value of zero for the period beginning with the transfer and ending before the end of the income year:
 - (b) a forest land emissions unit has a value of zero at the end of each income year:
 - (c) a replacement forest land emissions unit has a value of zero at the end of each income year:
 - (cb) a fishing quota emissions unit has a value at the end of each income year of—
 - (i) the market value of the unit at the end of the income year, if the holder of the unit would derive income, other than exempt income and excluded income, from a disposal of the individual transferable quota to which the units relate; or
 - (ii) zero, if subparagraph (i) does not apply:

- (d) an emissions unit to which section ED 1B applies has the value at the end of each income year that is given by that section.

Worthless arrangements

- (8) If an excepted financial arrangement has no present or likely future market value and has been written off as worthless, its closing value is zero.

Closing value for replacement ETS unit

[Repealed]

- (8B) [Repealed]

ED 1B Valuation of emissions units issued for zero price

What this section applies to

- (1) This section applies to emissions units held by a person in an income year that—
 - (a) are transferred to the person at a price of zero—
 - (i) under sections 80 to 86F of the Climate Change Response Act 2002;
 - (ii) under section 64 of the Climate Change Response Act 2002 for a removal activity listed in Schedule 4, Part 2 of that Act;
 - (iii) by a public authority under a supplementary agreement to a negotiated greenhouse agreement;
 - (iv) by a public authority as a rebate, under a negotiated greenhouse agreement, for an indirect emissions charge; and
 - (b) have been held continuously by the person from the time of the transfer; and
 - (c) have not been valued under either of subsections (4)(a) and (8)(a) before the income year; and
 - (d) [Repealed]
 - (e) [Repealed]
 - (f) [Repealed]

Value of units transferred to person if no earlier emissions unit shortfall year

- (2) If an emissions unit is transferred to the person in the income year and there is no earlier income year that is an emissions unit shortfall year for the person under subsections (9) and (10), the emissions unit is assigned a value of zero at the time of the transfer.

Value of units transferred to person in income year after emissions unit shortfall year

- (3) If an earlier income year is an emissions unit shortfall year for the person immediately before an emissions unit (the transferred unit) is transferred to the person in the income year, the value of the transferred unit at the time of the transfer is given by the application of the paragraphs in subsection (4) in alphabetical order to transferred units until all the transferred units are assigned a value.

Valuation method at transfer for transferred units

- (4) If emissions units are transferred to the person in an income year when there is a unit shortfall under subsections (9) and (10) for an earlier emissions unit shortfall year,—
- (a) for each emissions unit shortfall year in date order, transferred units, up to the number corresponding to the unit shortfall relating to the emissions unit shortfall year, are each assigned a value equal to the market value of an emissions unit at the end of the emissions unit shortfall year:
 - (b) transferred units are each assigned a value equal to zero.

Value of units with zero value immediately before end of income year

- (5) If the value of an emissions unit (the revalued unit) held by the person immediately before the end of the income year is zero, the value of the revalued unit at the end of the year is given by the application of the paragraphs in subsection (8) in alphabetical order to revalued units until all the revalued units are assigned a value.

Limit on application of subsection (8)(a)

- (6) The maximum number of units valued under subsection (8)(a) for the income year is the greater of zero and the number calculated using the formula—
- unit entitlement – disposals at zero value.

Definition of items in formula

- (7) In the formula,—
- (a) unit entitlement is the total for the income year of amounts, each of which the person would have for the period of overlap between a calendar year ending 31 December and the income year if the period of overlap were treated as a year, of—
 - (i) final allocation entitlement under section 83 of the Climate Change Response Act 2002:
 - (ii) allocation entitlement under section 85 of that Act:
 - (iii) allocation entitlement under section 64 of the Climate Change Response Act 2002 for a removal activity listed in Schedule 4, Part 2 of that Act:
 - (iv) emissions units corresponding to the actual emissions amount under a supplementary agreement to a negotiated greenhouse agreement:
 - (v) emissions units corresponding to a rebate, under a negotiated greenhouse agreement, for an indirect emissions charge:

- (b) disposals at zero value is the number of emissions units disposed of by the person in the income year that had a value of zero at the disposal.

Valuation method at end of income year for revalued units

- (8) If the person holds revalued units immediately before the end of the income year, the units are each assigned a value—
 - (a) equal to the market value of an emissions unit at the end of the income year:
 - (b) equal to zero.

Emissions unit shortfall year

- (9) If the number of units assigned a market value for an income year under subsection (8)(a) is less than the maximum number given by subsection (6) for the income year, at the end of the income year—
 - (a) the income year is an emissions unit shortfall year and has 2 numbers (the unit shortfall and the unit shortfall value) associated with it:
 - (b) the unit shortfall relating to the emissions unit shortfall year is the difference between the maximum number given by subsection (6) for the income year and the number of zero value units assigned a market value under subsection (8)(a) for the income year:
 - (c) the unit shortfall value relating to the emissions unit shortfall year is the unit shortfall multiplied by the market value of an emissions unit at the end of the income year.

Reductions in unit shortfall and unit shortfall value

- (10) When an emissions unit held by a person is assigned a value under subsection (4)(a) in relation to a year that is an emissions unit shortfall year for the person,—
 - (a) the unit shortfall relating to that year is reduced by the number of emissions units assigned a value in relation to that year:
 - (b) the unit shortfall value relating to that year is reduced by an amount equal to the number of emissions units assigned a value in relation to that year multiplied by the value assigned to each of those emissions units:
 - (c) the year ceases to be an emissions unit shortfall year, if the unit shortfall relating to the year is reduced to zero.

Unit shortfall values treated as values of additional emissions units for purposes of adjustments

- (11) For the purposes of sections CH 1 and DB 49 (which relate to adjustments for values of excepted financial arrangements), the person is treated as holding at the end of the income year additional emissions units with a value equal to the total of the unit shortfall values relating to emissions unit shortfall years for the person.

Section ED 1B(7)(a)(v): inserted (with effect on 1 July 2010), on 2 November 2012, by section 32(3) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Returns Filing, and Remedial Matters) Act 2012 (2012 No 88).

ED 2 Transfers of certain excepted financial arrangements within wholly-owned groups

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when—
- (a) a company that is part of a wholly-owned group of companies (company A) transfers to another company in the same group (company B) an excepted financial arrangement that is revenue account property of company A; and
 - (b) the transfer of the excepted financial arrangement is not made under a share-lending arrangement; and
 - (c) both companies are resident in New Zealand on the date of the transfer; and
 - (d) the market value of the excepted financial arrangement on the date of the transfer is less than its cost to company A.

Transfer at cost

- (2) The consideration for the transfer is treated as being equal to the cost of the excepted financial arrangement to company A.

Company stops being part of group

- (3) If company B stops being part of the wholly-owned group, the company is treated as disposing of and reacquiring the excepted financial arrangement at its market value at the time the company stops being part of the group.

Not dividend

- (4) A transfer of an excepted financial arrangement to which this section applies does not give rise to a dividend.

Defined in this Act: company, dividend, excepted financial arrangement, resident in New Zealand, revenue account property, wholly-owned group of companies

Compare: 2004 No 35 s ED 2

ED 3 Part-year tax calculations for transfers: general insurance OCR

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when a person (the transferor) transfers general insurance contracts to another person (the transferee) in an income year and sections CR 4 and DW 4 (which relate to outstanding claims reserves) apply to either or both of the transferor and transferee.

Transfer from non-resident

- (1B) If sections CR 4 and DW 4 apply to the transferee and not to the transferor, the transferee—
- (a) does the calculations that the transferor would be required to perform under this section if sections CR 4 and DW 4 applied to the transferor; and
 - (b) uses the results of the calculations in the way required under this section for a transferee.

Part-year calculations for transfers

- (2) A transferor to whom sections CR 4 and DW 4 apply does a part-year calculation immediately before the transfer, as described in subsection (3), for the transferred general insurance contracts, but only for their part-year ending on the day the transfer occurs. A transferee to whom sections CR 4 and DW 4 apply also does a part-year calculation for the transferred contracts, as described in subsection (3), but only for their part-year starting on the day the transfer occurs. The transferee's relevant opening outstanding claims reserve amounts equal the transferor's relevant closing outstanding claims reserve amounts immediately before the transfer, but if the reinsurance associated with transferred policies is not assigned by the transferor to the transferee, the transferee's reserve amounts are calculated without subtracting relevant reinsurance amounts.

Part-year calculations for transfers: description

- (3) For calculating their income tax liability for the tax year that corresponds to the income year, the transferor and transferee treat references, in sections CR 4 and DW 4 and in the new life insurance rules, to an income year or a tax year as if they are references to 2 separate tax years and corresponding income years (the part-years) within that tax year.

Part-year calculations for transfers: effect

- (4) Transferor's and transferee's part-year calculations may give rise to income and deductions for the income year, but they do not create any part-year tax return obligations.

Defined in this Act: amount, deduction, general insurance, IFRS 4, income, income tax liability, income year, insurer, outstanding claims reserve, pay, tax year

Section ED 3: inserted (with effect on 7 September 2010), on 2 November 2012, by section 33(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Returns Filing, and Remedial Matters) Act 2012 (2012 No 88).

ED 4 Valuation of certain excepted financial arrangements denominated in foreign currency

Who this section applies to

- (1) This section applies to a person who, in an income year (the current year),—
- has an excepted financial arrangement, of a type (the arrangement type) described in section EW 5(21) to (25) (What is an excepted financial arrangement?), denominated in a foreign currency; and

Person may choose valuation timing used for financial statements

- (2) The person may choose to value a foreign currency payment at the close of trading spot exchange rate applicable at the end of the current year, if the person, in preparing financial statements, determines values at the end of the income year for amounts of foreign currency payable or receivable by the person.

Consistent valuation timing for excepted financial arrangement

- (3) If foreign currency payments under a person's excepted financial arrangement are valued under subsection (2) for an income year, the amounts of foreign currency payable or receivable under all of the person's excepted financial arrangements of the arrangement type are valued in the same way for the income year and later income years.

Defined in this Act: amount, close of trading spot exchange rate, excepted financial arrangement, financial arrangement, income year

Introductory provision

EE 1 What this subpart does

Quantifying amounts of depreciation loss and depreciation recovery income

(1) This subpart—

- (a) quantifies the amount of depreciation loss for which a person is allowed a deduction if the provisions of Part D (Deductions) are met; and
- (b) quantifies the amount of depreciation recovery income that is income under Part C (Income).

When amount of depreciation loss arises

- (2) A person has an amount of depreciation loss for an item for an income year if—
 - (a) the person owns an item of property, as described in sections EE 2 to EE 5; and
 - (b) the item is depreciable property, as described in sections EE 6 to EE 8; and
 - (c) the item is used, or is available for use, by the person in the income year; and
 - (d) the amount of depreciation loss is calculated for the person, the item, and the income year under sections EE 9 to EE 11.

When amount of depreciation recovery income arises

- (3) A person has an amount of depreciation recovery income for an item for an income year if—
 - (a) the person owns an item of property, as described in sections EE 2 to EE 5; and
 - (b) the item is depreciable property, as described in sections EE 6 to EE 8; and
 - (c) the item is disposed of or an event of a kind described in section EE 47 or EE 52 occurs; and
 - (d) the amount of depreciation recovery income is calculated for the person, the item, and the income year under any of sections EE 22(5), EE 38(5), EE 48(1), EE 49(2), EE 51(3), EE 52(3), EZ 23B, and EZ 23BB (which relate to property, and interests in property, acquired after depreciable property was affected by the Canterbury earthquakes).

Amounts of loss incurred and income derived

- (4) To avoid doubt,—
 - (a) an amount of depreciation loss is treated as being incurred in the income year for which it is calculated; and
 - (b) an amount of depreciation recovery income is treated as being derived in the income year for which it is calculated.

Allocation of deduction for depreciation loss

- (5) A person who in an income year uses an item for research or development or for market development that gives rise to a deduction allocated under section EJ 22 (Deductions for market development: product of research, development), and as a result has an amount of depreciation loss for the item for the income year, may choose to allocate all or part of the deduction for the depreciation loss—

- (a) to an income year after the income year for which the person has the depreciation loss; and
- (b) in the way required by section EJ 23 (Allocation of deductions for research, development, and resulting market development).

Partial income-producing use

- (6) Subpart DE (Motor vehicle expenditure) and section EE 50 contain rules for calculating the amount of deduction available for depreciation loss in circumstances in which an item of property is only partly used or available for use in a way that satisfies the general permission.

Defined in this Act: amount, deduction, depreciable property, depreciation loss, depreciation recovery income, development, dispose, general permission, income, income year, own, property, research

Separately depreciated item included

- (2) If a person chooses in an income year to include in a pool an item of poolable property that they depreciated separately in the previous income year,—
- (a) the pool's adjusted tax value is increased by the item's adjusted tax value on the date it is included in the pool; and

Insurance or compensation for damage to item

- (2B) If a person in an income year derives an amount of insurance, indemnity, or compensation (the compensation amount) for damage to an item included in a pool at the end of the income year and the compensation amount exceeds the expenditure or loss that the person incurs because of the damage, the excess is subtracted from the adjusted tax value of the pool.

Item disposed of

- (3) If a person disposes of an item included in a pool, and derives an amount of consideration from the disposal, or derives an amount of insurance, indemnity, or compensation to which subsection (2B) does not apply for damage to the item occurring before the disposal, any excess of the amount derived over the expenditure or loss incurred in deriving the amount is subtracted from the adjusted tax value of the pool in which the item was included on the date of the disposal.

All items disposed of

- (4) If, on the last day of an income year, the adjusted tax value of a person's pool is positive but the person has disposed of all items that were in the pool,—
- (a) the amount of depreciation loss that the person has for the pool for the income year is the pool's adjusted tax value; and
 - (b) on the first day of the following income year, the pool's adjusted tax value is zero.

Negative adjusted tax value

- (5) If, on the last day of an income year, the adjusted tax value of a person's pool is negative,—
- (a) the amount by which the adjusted tax value is negative is an amount of depreciation recovery income of the person derived in the income year; and
 - (b) on the first day of the following income year the pool's adjusted tax value is zero.

Relationship with section EZ 10

- (6) Section EZ 10 (Pool items accounted for by globo method for 1992–93 income year) limits the amount of income arising under subsection (5)(a) in the circumstances described in the section.

Combining pools allowed

- (1) A person using the pool method may at any time combine any number of pools to form a single pool.

Consequences

- (2) When a person combines pools,—
- (a) the new pool's adjusted tax value is the same as the sum of the adjusted tax values of the constituent pools; and
 - (b) the adjusted tax value of each of the constituent pools at the end of the income year in which the pools are combined is zero; and

EE 37 Improvements

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies when a person makes an improvement to an item of depreciable property.

Income year in which improvement made

- (2) In the income year in which the person makes the improvement, the provisions of this subpart apply to the improvement, as if it were a separate item of depreciable property, in the period that—
- (a) starts at the start of the month in which the person first uses the improvement or has it available for use; and
 - (b) ends at the end of the income year.

Following income years

- (3) For income years following the income year in which the person makes the improvement,—
- (a) a person who uses the diminishing value method or the straight-line method for the item that was improved may choose to apply subsection (4) or (5), if paragraph (ab) does not apply:
 - (ab) a person who uses the diminishing value method or the straight-line method for the item that was improved must use subsection (3B) if—
 - (i) treating the improvement as an item, section EE 31(2A) does not apply, but section EE 31(3A) does apply; and
 - (ii) the item that was improved is a grandparented structure, or is not a building, is not a used import car, is not an international aircraft, or has not been used or held for use in New Zealand as an item of depreciable property before the date on which the person acquires it:
 - (b) a person who uses the pool method for the item that was improved must apply subsections (6) and (7).

- (a) if they use the diminishing value method for the item, add the improvement's adjusted tax value at the start of the income year to the item's adjusted tax value at the start of the income year:
 - (b) if they use the straight-line method for the item,—
 - (i) add the improvement's adjusted tax value at the start of the income year to the item's adjusted tax value at the start of the income year; and
 - (ii) add the improvement's cost to the item's cost.

Pool method

- (6) For the purposes of subsection (3)(b), a person who uses the pool method for the item that was improved must treat the improvement as a separate item of depreciable property. Adjustment of pool's value

- (7) When an improvement is included in a pool under subsection (6),—
- (a) the pool's adjusted tax value is increased by the improvement's adjusted tax value on the date it is included in the pool; and

EE 45 Consideration for purposes of section EE 44

General rule

- (1) For the purposes of section EE 44, the consideration equals the amount that a person derives excluding any GST charged if the person is a registered person, as modified by subsections (3) to (11) minus the amount (the disposal cost) that they incur in deriving that amount, to the extent to which the disposal cost—
 - (a) is not allowed as a deduction to the person other than as a deduction for an amount of depreciation loss; and
 - (b) is not counted in “the amount that a person derives”.

GST for disposal costs

- (1B) All amounts deducted or deductible by the person under section 20(3) of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985 in relation to the disposal cost described in subsection (1) are subtracted from the disposal costs under that subsection.

Consideration may be zero or negative

- (2) For the purposes of section EE 44, the consideration may be zero or a negative amount.

Other than market value

- (3) If the person has consideration that is not the item’s market value, the amount that the person derives is the item’s market value. Three qualifications are—
 - (a) if the person makes a taxable supply, “market value” means the market value minus any GST that would be charged on the supply;
 - (b) this subsection does not apply to a transfer under a relationship agreement; and
 - (c) this subsection does not apply in a case described in any of subsections (5) to (10).

Relationship with subpart FC

- (4) Subsection (3) does not apply to a disposal of property to which any of sections FC 3 and FC 4 (which relate to the distribution or transmission of property) applies.

Change of use or location of use

- (5) The consideration that a person derives from the event described in section EE 47(2) is the item's market value. Two qualifications are—
- (a) if the person makes a taxable supply, "market value" means the market value minus any GST that would be charged on the supply:
 - (b) this subsection does not apply to a transfer under a relationship agreement.

Loss or theft

- (6) The amount that a person derives from the event described in section EE 47(3) is the amount of insurance, indemnity, or compensation they receive for the loss or theft (amount A). If the person is a registered person, amount A does not include the amount, if any, of GST charged on amount A to the extent to which amount A is treated as being consideration received for a supply of services by the registered person under section 5(13) of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985.

Unused geothermal well brought into use

- (7) The amount that a person derives from the event described in section EE 47(6) is the amount of the deduction for depreciation loss allowed under section EE 39(4).

Irreparable damage or damage rendering building useless

- (8) The amount that a person derives from the event described in section EE 47(4) is the total of the amount of insurance, indemnity, or compensation, and the amount of proceeds from the disposal, they receive for the affected item (amount A). If the person is a registered person, amount A does not include the amount, if any, of GST charged on amount A to the extent to which amount A is treated as being consideration received for a supply of services by the registered person under section 5(13) of the Goods and Services Tax Act 1985.

Repossession

- (9) The amount that a person derives from the event described in section EE 47(5) is the item's cost minus the net amount paid. Two qualifications are—
- (a) if the person is a registered person, the "amount that a person derives" does not include any GST charged on a taxable supply they make:
 - (b) "net amount paid" means the amount paid by the buyer to the seller for the item under the contract minus any amount refunded by the seller to the buyer.

Other items

- (10) The amount that a person derives from the disposal of an item along with any other item, or from the occurrence of an event involving an item that also involves other items, is the item's market value. Two qualifications are—

- (a) if the person makes a taxable supply, “market value” means the market value minus any GST that would be charged on the supply:
- (b) this subsection does not apply to a transfer under a relationship agreement.

Item leaving New Zealand permanently

- (11) The amount that a person derives from the event referred to in section EE 47(10) is described in section EZ 21(1) (Sections EE 45 and EE 47: permanent removal: allowance before 1 April 1995).

Item fitted to aircraft or aircraft engine in aircraft engine overhaul

- (12) The amount that the person derives from the event referred to in section EE 47(11) is the adjusted tax value of the item before it is fitted as a replacement piece to an aircraft or aircraft engine as part of the aircraft engine overhaul.

Defined in this Act: adjusted tax value, aircraft engine, aircraft engine overhaul, amount, consideration, deduction, depreciation loss, dispose, geothermal well, GST, GST charged, New Zealand, registered person, relationship agreement, services, taxable supply

EG 1 Election to use balance date used in foreign country*When this section applies*

- (1) This section applies when—
 - (a) a person has foreign source income or foreign expenditure that is taken into account in determining the income tax, not merely the withholding tax, payable by them in a foreign country or territory; and
 - (b) the foreign source income or foreign expenditure has been included in 1 of their income tax returns in the country or territory; and
 - (c) the annual income tax balance date that is relevant for them for the income tax return in the country or territory falls in a period that is an income year for them; and
 - (d) if the person did not make an election under this section,—
 - (i) the foreign source income would be allocated to their previous income year; or
 - (ii) the foreign expenditure would be a deduction allocated to the previous income year if the only income of the person were foreign source income to which this section applies.

Election to allocate

- (2) If the person has not already included the foreign source income or foreign expenditure in their return of income for the previous tax year, they may choose to allocate the foreign source income or the foreign expenditure to the income year referred to in subsection (1)(c).

How election made

- (3) The person makes the election by including the foreign source income or foreign expenditure in their return of income for the income year referred to in subsection (1)(c).

What election applies to

- (4) The election applies to all the person's foreign source income and foreign expenditure to which subsection (1) applies, except for—
 - (a) income or expenditure under the financial arrangements rules, unless the Commissioner notifies the person that the election can apply; or
 - (b) dividends, unless the Commissioner notifies the person that the election can apply and the person is not a company; or
 - (c) attributed controlled foreign company (CFC) income; or
 - (d) foreign investment fund (FIF) income or income derived from an attributing interest; or
 - (e) in the case of foreign expenditure, foreign expenditure that would be allowed as a deduction if the only income of the person were income to which paragraphs (a) to (d) apply.

Timing of income

- (5) The foreign source income and foreign expenditure to which the election applies is allocated to the income year referred to in subsection (1)(c).

Election treated as continuing

- (6) An election made by a person under subsection (2) applies for the income year referred to in subsection (1)(c) and all later income years, unless—
- (a) the person seeks the Commissioner's agreement to revoke the election, and the Commissioner notifies them that they may revoke the election; or
 - (b) the person's net income for the relevant income year would be more than $100,000 if their only income in the income year were foreign source income.

Net income of more than $100,000

- (7) If subsection (6)(b) applies,—
- (a) foreign source income and foreign expenditure is allocated to the income year referred to in subsection (1)(c) only if it was derived or incurred in that year; and
 - (b) foreign source income and foreign expenditure to which the election would have applied if subsection (6)(b) had not existed is allocated to the previous income year; and
 - (c) if necessary, the previous tax year's return is amended.

Factors considered

- (8) In deciding whether to agree to an election applying to income or expenditure under the financial arrangements rules or dividends, the Commissioner must consider—
- (a) whether the person is likely to incur significant compliance costs if the Commissioner does not agree to the election; and
 - (b) the risk to the revenue if the Commissioner agrees to the election; and
 - (c) any other factors the Commissioner considers relevant.

Person ceasing to be, or becoming, resident

- (9) If the person ceases to be, or becomes, resident in New Zealand, this section applies in the same way as for other persons except that—
- (a) it does not apply to income or expenditure that is allocated, other than under this section, to a period when the person is not resident in New Zealand; and
 - (b) if it allocates foreign source income derived or foreign expenditure incurred while the person is resident in New Zealand to a period after the person has ceased to be resident in New Zealand,—

- (i) the foreign source income is assessable income in the income year in which the foreign source income is allocated under this section, despite section BD 1(5)(c) (Income, exempt income, excluded income, non-residents' foreign-sourced income, and assessable income); and
- (ii) the foreign expenditure is allowed as a deduction in the income year to which the foreign expenditure is allocated under this section.
