(2) Levy of execution against the owner of the mark carried out in accordance with the law shall also be deemed to be a transfer of rights.

Art. 41

(1) Rights in a trademark may be assigned independently of the transfer of the business in which the trademark is incorporated. Assignment shall be effected in writing and signed by the parties to the contract, on pain of nullity.

(2) Assignment of rights in a trademark may be effected for all or a part of the goods or services in respect of which the trademark is registered; an assignment, even in part, may not limit use of the trademark for the goods or services to which it applies to a given territory.

(3) Transfer of the whole of the patrimony of the trademark owner shall include transfer of the rights in the trademark. The transfer of certain elements of the owner's patrimony shall not affect his capacity as owner of the right in the trademark.

(4) Identical or similar trademarks belonging to the same owner that are used for identical or similar goods or services may be assigned only as a whole and only to one person, on pain of nullity of the instrument of assignment.

Art. 42

(2) OSIM shall not enter the assignment in the Register where it is obvious that public is misled as to the nature, quality or geographic origin of the goods or services in respect of which the trademark is registered, unless the assignee accepts to limit the trademark transfer to the goods and services in respect of which it is not likely to mislead.

(3) Upon request by person concerned and on payment of the prescribed fee, OSIM shall enter the assignment in the Trademark Register and publish it in the Official Industrial Property Bulletin. Assignment may be invoked against third parties as from the date of its publication.

Art. 43

(1) The owner of a trademark may, under a licensing contract, authorize third parties to make use of the trademark on the whole or a part of the territory of Romania for all or a part of the goods or services for which the trademark was registered. Licenses may be exclusive or non-exclusive.

(2) The owner of a trademark may invoke the rights conferred by that trademark against a licensee who contravenes the provisions of his licensing contract with regard to its duration, the form of the trademark and the nature of the goods or services for which the license is granted, the territory in which the trademark may be used, or the quality of the goods manufactured or of the services provided by the licensee under the trademark for which the license has been granted.

(3) Throughout the term of the trademark licensing contract, the licensee shall be required:

(a) to use, for the goods on which the trademark is affixed, only the trademark that is the subject of the licensing contract, whilst remaining free to affix on such products signs which show that he is the manufacturer;

(b) to add the term "under license ..." to the mark affixed on the products that are the subject matter of the license, in accordance with the contract.

(4) Licenses shall be entered in the Trademark Register on payment of the prescribed fee and shall be published in the Official Industrial Property Bulletin. A license may be invoked against third parties as from the date of its publication.

Art. 44

(1) Unless otherwise provided in the licensing contract, the licensee may not institute infringement proceedings without the consent of the trademark owner.

(2) The holder of an exclusive license may institute infringement proceedings if, after having notified the trademark owner of the infringing acts of which he has obtained knowledge, the latter has not acted within the time limits prescribed by the licensee.

(3) Where infringement proceedings are instituted by the owner, any of the licensees may intervene in the proceedings in order to obtain compensation for damage occasioned by the infringement of the trademark.

(4) Failure to register a license with OSIM shall not affect:

(a) the validity of the trademark registration which is the subject-matter of the license or with regard to the trademark license protection;

(b) the intervention in an infringement case instituted by the owner or the grant of damages within said proceedings, as a consequence of the infringement of a trademark which is the subject-matter of the license.

(5) License registration shall not be a condition for the trademark use by the licensee to be deemed to be equivalent to the trademark use by the owner, within the proceedings relating to obtaining the trademark, maintaining the same in force or defending the rights therein.

Chapter VIII

Loss of Rights in a Trademark

Art. 45

(1) The owner may surrender his trademark in respect of some or all of the goods or services for which it is registered.

(2) The surrender of a trademark shall be declared to OSIM in writing by the trademark owner or by the person authorized by him and the rights in the trademark shall lapse, with respect to the goods and services to which the mark applies, as from the date on which surrender is entered in the Trademark Register.

during the term of protection of the trademark, for revocation of the owner of the rights conferred by the trademark:

(b) if, after the date of registration, the trademark has become, in consequence of acts or inactivity of the owner, the common name in the trade for a product or service in respect of which it is registered;

(c) if, after the date of registration and in consequence of the use made of it by the owner or with his consent, the trademark is liable to mislead the public, particularly as to the nature, quality or geographical origin of the goods or services in respect of which it is registered;

(d) if the trademark has been registered by a person not having the capacity required by Article 3 letters (h) and (i).

(2) The following shall be considered effective use of a trademark:

(b) impossibility of using the trademark due to circumstances beyond the control of the trademark owner, for example restrictions on import or other provisions by public authorities in respect of the goods or services to which the trademark applies.

(c) affixing of the trademark on goods or their packaging exclusively for the purposes of export;

(d) use of the trademark by a third party with the consent of the owner or by any person entitled to use a collective mark or a certification mark, where it is considered by the trademark owner himself to be a use of the trademark.

(3) The rights of the owner may not be revoked if, in the time between expiry of the period referred to in paragraph (1) letter (a) and the submission of the request for revocation, the trademark has been subject to effective use. However, if the beginning or resumption of use of the trademark takes place within the 3 months preceding submission to the courts of the request for revocation, use of the trademark shall not be taken into consideration if preparation for the beginning or resumption of use has been made only after the owner obtained knowledge of the intention to submit a request for revocation.

(4) The burden of proof of use of the trademark shall rest with the trademark owner and proof may be furnished by any means.

(5) Where the earlier trademark has only been used in respect with some of the goods or services for which the trademark is registered, trademark registration may be cancelled only for those goods or services in respect of which the trademark has not been used.

Art. 48

(1) The owner of an earlier trademark who has acquiesced for a continuous period of 5 years in the use of a subsequently registered trademark may not apply for cancellation nor oppose the use of the later trademark for the goods and services in respect of which such later trademark has been used, except if the registration of the later trademark was sought in bad faith.

(2) In the case referred to under paragraph (1), the owner of the subsequently registered trademark may not oppose the use of the earlier trademark even if the earlier trademark may no longer be invoked against the later trademark.
